Radio to Mars.
First Campaign Miracle.
Beware Half-Baked Ideas.
Silly Big Fleet Idea.
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

BRITAIN'S postoffice will attempt to reach our neighbor, Mars, by radio next week. A psychic student, who believes he has had telephatic communication with a Martian lady, requests the government radio station to send his message, and it is accepted at 36 cents a word and will be sent into space on an 18,500 meter wave length.

IF THE lady hears and answers, which she won't, that will be interesting. In any case, the government will get $1.80 for the five-word message. This will be remembered when our young planet, only a few thousand million years old, establishes regular communication with neighbors in space.

BALTIMORE reports the first miracle of this campaign. Little James Joseph Burlage, 7 years old, was run over by a truck, and hospital doctors marveled that he remained alive.

Before leaving home he had stuffed under his blouse a package containing 25 posters with Gov. Smith's portrait on each.

THE thick paper package acted as a shock absorber and saved the life of the little boy, who was very happy when kind doctors posted the 25 pictures all around the operating room. He who suggests that a much simpler miracle would have stopped the truck before it hit the boy, simply shows ignorance of miracles.

IT'S dangerous to give advanced ideas to those not ready. Russians have discovered that in China.

Chinese soldiers, in possession of Chenchow, decided to take Bolshevism, as they understood it, literally, gave orders to kill all that had money, destroy all deeds, mortgages and other written evidences of property ownership, and sentenced the rich to execution.

THAT was going some distance beyond Karl Marx, especially when they compelled children, 12 to 15 years old, to act as executioners, in some cases compelling them to kill their own parents.

That sort of thing is apt to cause a reaction. And it is difficult to sort out property afterward.

SECRETARY WILBUR says we should have a navy equal to that of any other country.

Not unless we have a mercantile marine equal to any other. Except to convoy and defend commercial ships afloat, warships are out of date.

If we wanted to blockade foreign ports we might imagine a use for fighting ships. But even blockading will be done, hereafter, with airplanes and super-submarines, of long-cruising range.

CONGRESSMEN, before wasting money on a big floating navy, might ask Secretary Wilbur these questions: "What did England's and Germany's great fighting ships contribute to the last war? Do you really believe that an enemy nation would send battleships to attack our coast cities, and meet our submarines and aircraft?"

WHAT this country needs is not a floating navy as big as that of any other nation, but air fleet and submarine fleets much greater than those of any other nation.

Get those and you may stop worrying about war.

THE British put out great steel nets in the channel to protect their transports from submarines. But no country would undertake to control our submarines with steel nets in the Atlantic along 6,000 miles of our shores.

JOHNS HOPKINS, in 125 families, rich and poor, will investigate origins, causes and frequency of colds.

WHAT is foolishly described as "only a cold" is the most harmful of diseases, causing a loss of hundreds of millions a year in wages. And what is worse, it weakens the system, exposing it to attack from diseases that destroy life—pneumonia, diphtheria, heart disease and a dozen others.

NEVER neglect a cold, for each one actually shortens your life. And remember the great Dr. Osler's statement that the best thing for a cold is "two days in bed."

CHINA asks the right to try foreigners that offend against her citizens or laws, instead of letting them be tried in courts set up by their own nationality. That is reasonable.

BUT China's request should be granted, only on the assumption that penalties, on conviction would be reasonable from the western point of view. The old dowager empress condemned offenders to be sawed in two lengthwise.

That would be too severe for any European constitution.

MIFFLIN MINE

After weeks of pleading, residents of Mifflin township, endangered by a mine burning beneath the surface of a hill, are receiving succor. Allegheny county has started work to check the smoldering coal pockets in an abandoned mine that has taken lives of two men who attempted to extinguish it. County engineers are blasting in efforts to reach the flames. Above is one of the explosions today.

ZEPPELIN'S VISIT HERE CHANGED TO WEDNESDAY

NAVAL AIR STATION, LAKEHURST, N. J., Oct. 22.—The fact that repairs on the Graf Zeppelin's left port horizontal will be completed tomorrow afternoon and the ship's fuel gas and hydrogen supply replenished at the same time, makes it possible for Dr. Eckener to take the airship on its mid-western trip early Wednesday morning.

While final decision as to the start rests with Dr. Eckener, naval officers here express the opinion that he will not delay it until Thursday, since the ship will be ready for a take-off Wednesday morning and he is known to be anxious to return to Germany either Saturday or Sunday. Dr. Eckener telephoned to Lakehurst today and was informed by Capt. Hans Flemming that the Graf Zeppelin would be ready for a flight tomorrow night.

Capt. Flemming confirmed the Graf Zeppelin's itinerary as announced by Hugh Allen, Dr. Eckener's American representative. He said, however, that certain changes might have to be made, depending upon weather and wind conditions.

At daybreak Wednesday the Graf Zeppelin will proceed via Pittsburgh, Columbus, Cincinnati and Indianapolis to St. Louis and to Scott Field, Ill. There it will either be moored to a mast or housed in the Army hangar. At dawn Thursday it will resume its flight over Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Akron, Buffalo, Niagara Falls, Syracuse, Albany, New York and Lakehurst.

BIG WELCOME HERE

With verification today of the Graf Zeppelin's visit to Pittsburgh, definite plans for the air reception of the big trans-Atlantic airship were under way.

The Aero Club, through its secretary, Capt. Hal Basley, commander of the Three Hundred and Twenty-fourth Observation Squadron, sent out invitations to almost 50 local fliers to participate in the official welcome. At least 25 planes are expected to take the air here as a welcoming committee to greet the Zeppelin.

The Department of Commerce has sent out warnings to air fields along the route of the Zeppelin on its western tour, asking plane pilots to keep at least 1,000 feet away

DEMAND FORNEY TELL

JAWORSKI MUST DIE; WILL NOT APPEAL

Paul Jaworski's doom was sealed today! He is to die in the electric chair on whatever date Gov. Fisher selects. The gangster heard without a tremor the death sentence pronounced by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graf, of Armstrong county; he spoke up clearly to declare he had nothing to say as to why sentence should not be passed; he refused to permit his attorney to carry the fight for his life to the Supreme Court with an appeal.

"No, I don't want an appeal," Jaworski told Attorney Barney Cohen, appointed by the court to defend him, shortly after sentence had been read. "The sooner this thing is over the better. There's no use wasting any more time!"

Jaworsky, convicted over a year ago for the slaying of Isaian Gump, payroll guard, in a holdup several years ago, was brought back to Pittsburgh for sentence following his capture in Cleveland about a

CARRIED INTO COURTROOM

This is the next to the last trip out through jail bars for Paul Jaworski, keen bandit chieftain returned here Saturday from Cleveland. Borne on a chair by deputy sheriffs and jail guards under a heavily-armed cordon from the county jail into a courtroom surrounded by 100 armed guards, Jaworski today heard visiting Judge J. Frank Graff formally sentence him to death in the electric chair after his plea for a retrial was today formally disallowed. Jaworski's last trip out through jail bars was behind blazing revolvers, 14 months ago; his next and last will be under heavy guard to the chair.

WILL MAKE SLOT MAN RELATE GRAFT

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner said today that he was determined to call Alfred W. Forney, imprisoned slot machine racketeer, before the graft-investigating grand jury, that he had already taken steps to force Forney to testify, that Forney would be indicted, but if he tells everything he knows about vice and collusion the courts will be asked to extend him mercy.

Gardner said he didn't care who was felled by the testimony of Forney, who is whiling away six months as a federal prisoner, a confessed violator of the prohibition laws. He expects some of his political friends will be surprised when the grand jury returns a lengthy list of indictments and he expects to be called "hard names," but he is going ahead regardless, showing favor to none, he promised.

WOULD IRK POLITICIANS

"Hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may," seemed to be the attitude of the prosecutor who says he'll see that the grand jury indicts before the November election, a move that would displease certain politicians.

Forney doesn't want to testify before this grand jury, Gardner reported, although when he confessed in the Federal Court he told very impressively of wanting to turn over a new leaf and, as they say, "tell all."

Gardner seems to have the same attitude as United States Attorney John D. Meyer, who has recommended a pardon for Forney. Gardner apparently wants, more than another jail sentence for Forney, the damaging, incriminating testimony that the racketeer might contribute about others—possibly those

Gardner Asks Public to Aid Graft Quiz

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner invites citizens who have knowledge of bribe-taking by public officials or know of suspicious circumstances pointing to collusion between the police or other law-enforcement agencies and the underworld to tell him about it. He desires the help of the public in his campaign to rid Allegheny county of commercial vice and grafters.

"I have already received a large number of helpful suggestions from citizens who volunteered information," said Gardner, "and I want to express my appreciation of their help. I welcome co-operation and will be glad to talk to anybody who can tell me where evidence incriminating the grafters may be found."

POLICE GRAFT SUSPECT COLLAPSES

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Hope for a speedy recovery for James H. Ellison, a police captain, who suffered a nervous collapse after having been questioned several times by District Attorney Monaghan and a special grand jury investigating bootleggers and police bribery, was held out today by physicians at the Philadelphia General Hospital.

Captain Ellison was taken to the psychopathic ward for observation after he collapsed in the Fourth District station house over which he has command. At the hospital the diagnosis was "hysteria."

Dr. J. M. Stouffer, in charge of the psychopathic ward, said he understood the Captain had been violent before he was admitted to the hospital.

Before the recent wholesale shift of police, Capt. Ellison commanded the Twenty-sixth district, in which graft was alleged to have existed. Four of his subordinates are awaiting trial on charges of extorting money from saloonkeepers.

Ellison was questioned by the grand jury last Thursday and later was examined several times at length in the prosecutor's office.

Roxie Long's Wife Jailed as 3 Are Beaten

A barrel of vinegar sent three men to a doctor's office and three others, including Roxie Long's wife, to jail today.

When the three victims reached a store at 1707 Cliff street with a $49.50 barrel of vinegar, c. o. d., an argument ensued over payment. There was a fight. Roy Devine, Vernon Price and Sam Vesti, of the Price Vinegar Company, were beaten up, police say, by Virginia Long, E. Ristori and Clarence Ristori.

Roxie Long is the resident of the Western Penitentiary who was chased to Europe and captured by a city detective.

SEIZE 2 AS GIRL SLUGGERS IN CHASE OVER ROOFTOPS

Two brutal attacks upon North Side women early today, followed by the arrest of two Negroes has brought an end, police say, to a reign of terror that has existed on the North Side for the last month, during which scores of women have been beaten and robbed. The latest victims were taken to hospitals, one in a serious condition. The prisoners admit, police say, that they are the pair who Saturday night attacked a 14-year-old girl.

A chase over North Side rooftops and a battle in a Monterey street home where one of the Negroes sought refuge, preceded the capture of the pair. The men under arrest are Arthur Adams, 26, and Eugene Mille, 23, both of 1304 Gershorn street, North Side.

Both suspects were held for further investigation when arraigned in North Side Police Court this morning and a score of women victims of attacks will be asked to attempt to identify them.

The first attack this morning occurred in the Ridge avenue district where Catherine Berger, 19, of Sewickley, was beaten unconscious in the rear of the home of the Rev. Dr. Maitland Alexander, at 920 Ridge avenue. Two Negroes seized the girl and in trying to stifle her screams lacerated her mouth and throat. She was finally slugged and left in the alley by the pair who fled. She was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital, but later went to the Alexander home where she had intended visiting employes.

HIT WITH BRICK

An hour later Mrs. Helen Rider, 25, of 1608 Buena Vista street, was knocked unconscious with a paving brick in North avenue near her home. She is in the Presbyterain Hospital suffering a possible fracture of the skull.

Adams was seen walking in North avenue by members of the emergency patrol searching for the attackers. He ran and was followed through Jackson street, where he climbed to the roof of an apartment house. Fleeing over the rooftops he was followed by Patrolman Peter Conners, Lieut. Jacob Isler and Patrolmen Joseph Scanlon and Henry Ocharwzak. He was seen to disappear through a window in the home of Robert McConnell at 1610 Monterey street.

McConnell attempted to catch Adams and was bitten on the right shoulder. Later McConnell had his wound cauterized at Presbyterian Hospital.

HOUSE SURROUNDED

Surrounding the house Connors and Isler entered and battled with the Negro and finally succeeded in overpowering him. He told police Miller had also participated in the attacks and Miller was arrested in his home later. Police say the two admitted attacking Margaret Keller, 14, of 105 Carlington street, Saturday night on the Arch street steps.

In Morals Court, Clara Loder, 14, of 903 Herron avenue, identified Robert Veeney, 18, Negro, of 2630 Webster avenue, as the man who attacked her in Herron avenue last evening and attempted to drag her into a vacant lot. He was held for court charged with assault and battery. Veeney denied the charge.

SHARON BANKER, WIFE HURT IN AUTO CRASH

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 22.—Harry B. McDowell, vice president of the McDowell State Bank, Sharon, was severely bruised, and his wife cut about the leg and suffered a broken wrist when their automobile turned over on the Mercer road near Mapledale two miles west of Franklin. The car swerved too far to one side to allow another machine to pass.

HIGHEST COURT WILL REVIEW RATE CASE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(INS.)—The lake cargo coal rate case will be reviewed by the Supreme Court.

The high court today found grounds for "probable jurisdiction" existed in the appeal of the government from a district court decision holding that the Interstate Commerce Commission exceeded its authority in the case. The commission directed the Chesapeake and Ohio and other so-called Southern roads to cancel a 20-cent-a-ton reduction on coal from West Virginia, Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky mines to the Great Lakes.

The Special District Court in West Virginia found against the commission. The reduction order was made by the Southern roads after the commission authorized special reductions from Pennsylvania to the Great Lakes, to encourage competition of Pennsylvania coal mines for the lake cargo business.

Under the rules of the court, it was necessary for the United States and the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Barton Coal Company, the Pittsburgh operators' lake rate committee and the Baltimore and Ohio and other northern railroads seeking to set aside the restraining order issued by a statutory federal court at Charleston, W. Va., to file with the court statements showing the questions at issue, and the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court to pass on them.

MAN THREE MONTHS IN JAIL BEFORE HE'S REMEMBERED

Mike Palmero, a McKeesport huckster, who has been in jail for three months, was released today, his debt to society paid in full.

Palmero killed his horse three months ago. At least it amounted to that. Ignorant of the ways of skilled practitioners, this huckster tried to eleminate a skin wound by cutting it away. The horse died.

The Humane Society got after Palmero. Alderman James J. Lundie, of McKeesport, sentenced him under an ancient law to pay a $20 fine or go to jail until released "by due process of law."

Lundie admitted then and admitted again today that he didn't know what that due process might be. He said he didn't want Palmero to spend the rest of his life in jail.

Everybody, including the Humane Society, apparently forgot about Palmero—everybody but Warden John McNeil. The warden took Palmero into court today and explained everything to Judge James B. Drew. The judge told Palmero to go home.

Outdoor Meeting :-: Boy Scouts Make Tree-Planting Memorial to Sands :-: State Gives Aid

PLANS CHANGED

After Lawrence E. Sands, First National Bank president and Boy Scout leader, dropped dead while at- onies at Guyasuta, n. Boy Scouts changed plans for their tree-planting exercises and made of them a memorial to Sands. Here Howard Wynn, Hartman Smith and Charles Still are instructed by State Forester U. M. Bearer.

THOUSANDS PLANTED

Several thousand trees were planted at the reservation, presented for Scout use several years ago. Forester Bearer, Ligonier district, was sent here to direct the task. The object of the planting was to teach the boys tree life and the task was also a step of the state-wide conservation and flood prevention program.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce sponsored the tree-planting. Officials from the Chamber who attended are H. R. Condon, T. C. Fosey and E. C. Wilhelm. They, like the boys, took tools and helped set out many of the trees for the generation that is to follow. Making the holes, Scouts report, is hard work.

EVERYONE WORKS

Size and age made no difference to those directing the task of setting out these trees. Dick Condon worked manfully with this enormous tool and did his share of the job. Thus, to the man who has helped them almost more than any other, Allegheny County Boy Scouts have established memorials that will number thousands.

BABES' DEATH PLUNGE ORDERED PROBED

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—An inquiry into the death of two babies, grandsons of the late Benjamin Guggenheim by falls from the roof of the Hotel Surrey Friday afternoon has been ordered by Chief Medical Examiner Charles Norris.

While playing on the roof with their mother, Mrs. Milton S. Waldman, wife of an associate editor of the London Mercury and youngest daughter of the late copper magnate, the two boys, Terrance, 4, and Benjamin, 14 months, fell 13 stories to the roof of an adjoining building.

Mrs. Waldman told police the older boy was attempting to climb into her lap and knocked the baby from her arms, then lost his balance and followed his smaller brother over the two-foot wall. She has been confined to a hospital since the occurrence.

Dr. Norris visited the scene of the tragedy, made measurements and marked the approximate position of the bodies.

"My investigation," he said, makes me feel that it warrants inquiry and is best for all concerned that all the facts of this deplorable tragedy be placed in the official records."

Police have listed the two boys' deaths as "accidental."

Mrs. Waldman recently returned from abroad with the two children, her husband is still in Europe.

JAWORSKI NOT TO APPEAL

month ago during a gun battle in which one policeman was killed.

Under the law, Jaworski has 30 days in which to file an appeal from the court's ruling against a new trial. Attorney Cohen said that in view of Jaworski's attitude there would be no legal obstacle to the setting of the date of execution at the expiratoin of the legal time limit.

Jaworski was carried by four deputy sheriffs into No. 1 courtroom, already cleared of spectators.

HEAVY GUARD KEPT

Detectives lined the courtroom walls and the corridors. They carried no visible weapons, but all wore ready revolvers strapped under their coats. There was no confusion—no excitement.

Jaworksi was borne across the Bridge of Sighs and through a back entrance to the courtroom. He was not taken through the corridors.

He was dressed in a soiled white shirt with blue figure and saggy gray-striped trousers.

He needed a shave badly. His face was flushed and his hair rumpled. He appeared nervous, but his clear, steady voice in answer to the judge's question as to whether he had anything to say belied shaky nerves.

In his hands he held a small corncob pipe which he had evidently been smoking before leaving the jail.

The deputies lifted the gangster to the prisoner's dock.

Presiding Judge James B. Drew and Judge Graf were on the bench. District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner and his first assistant, Andrew T. Park, were on hand to present the Commonwealth's case. Attorney Park prosecuted Jaworski at the time of his trial here prior to his escape from the county jail.

Judge Graf was the trial judge at the time of Jaworski's conviction.

In his opinion on the refusal of a new trial for Jaworski, Judge Graf found fault with each of the 12 reasons set forth by the gangster's attorneys in asking a new trial. The plea set forth several instances of alleged errors by the court during the trial.

In conclusion, Judge Graf declared: "In the court's opinion, the defendant was given a fair trial and is manifestly guilty of the offense charged in the indictment."

NEW TRIAL REFUSED

"Sentence is pronounced now, on October 22, 1928," he ruled. "Motion for a new trial in this case is refused."

"If the court please, I move sentence of law be pronounced," requested Attorney Park.

A hush fell as Judge Graf arose, motioning the others in the room to do likewise. All stood except the prisoner, whose condition makes it unable for him to move his left arm and leg.

Judge Graf looked solemnly at the prisoner and in a grave voice asked Jaworski if he had anything to say. Attorney Barney Cohen, Jaworski's attorney, was at his side.

The attorney offered no suggestion, nor did Jaworski appear to expect any. He spoke out clearly—"I have nothing to say," he replied.

Judge Graf then pronounced sentence.

"The sentence of this court is that you be taken to jail and from thence to the penitentiary in Center county and that you there suffer death on a date to be fixed by the Governor of the State of Pennsylvania by electricity being passed through your body until you are dead," the judge solemnly intoned.

Jaworski's face was a study. There was not a tremor. He was listening intently, but he appeared not to have heard.

Guards and spectators stood fixed. Only Jaworski seemed not to mind.

The break came with the movement of Jaworski's chair bearers to take him back to jail.

They lifted him up and bore him rapidly from the room. Outside the courtroom, Jaworski asked for a cigaret. It is against jail rules to smoke cigarets, but the deputies permitted him to have one on his way back. It will be his last for a while.

While lighting up, his left arm slid to his side. Jaworski cursed and reached across with his right hand, pulling the left across his lap.

"What's the matter with your hand?" one of the deputies asked.

"Oh, the damn thing's no good any more!" was Jaworski's reply.

from the airship. Pittsburgh's pilots are being notified of the department's request and the escort which probably will fly out to lead the ship over the city will take cognizance of the department's request.

The local escort will be made up of planes from all three local fields—Bettis, Rodgers and Mayer. Cabin ships from both Bettis and Mayer are expected to take up citizens desiring a view of the Zeppelin from the air and the three army training ships at Rodgers Field likely will fly under their commander, Capt. Thomas Voss. At Bettis Field, Barr Peat is in charge of the arrangements and C. P. Mayer is cooperating with the Aero Club at Bridgeville.

CHICAGO HONORS ECKENER

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Dr. Hugo Eckener, with dreams of future airships that would make the Graf Zeppelin a midget of the skies, was Chicago's guest today.

The commander of the trans-Atlantic dirigible, Graf Zeppelin, with Lady Drummond Hay, a passenger on the Atlantic flight, and members of his crew, arrived last night by train to be greeted by cheers of "Gut Heil!" and a pageantry of tribute that bespoke the acclaim of "the sixth German city."

Long hours of vigil on his flight and the strain of America's welcome, however, had not lessened Dr. Eckener's ardor for dirigible travel.

Transoceanic airships carrying 250 or 200 passengers were among his predictions. They would be like the Graf Zeppelin, he said, but much larger. They would cross the oceans twice as fast as the fastest liners and would fly on regular schedules.

Today Dr. Eckener was to tour downtown Chicago and confer with Mayor Thompson and the City Council. Following a banquet to be attended by 5,000 persons, the commander and his party will leave for New York tonight.

NO SCOTT FIELD STOP

SCOTT FIELD, BELLEVILLE, Ill., Oct. 22.—An indication that the Graf Zeppelin might not stop here was contained in a telegram received at the field today by Capt. W. O. Butler, in temporary command here.

The telegram follows:

"Urgent requests by numerous cities for a visit of our airship on her inland cruise, which we cannot refuse, compel us to decide for a longer flight than contemplated originally.

"We regret therefore we will probably be unable to land at Scott Field. We shall definitely not use hangar to avoid becoming hangar-bound, but we wish you could have a landing crew in sufficient number to hold our ship on the field for a few hours if necessary."

(Signed) ECKENER.

Patient Dies in Flying Ambulance in Midair

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 22.

AN airplane was hastily outfitted into an air ambulance to bring a patient here from Laredo, Tex., yesterday. But the patient, Edward St. Albans, 50, died in the air 25 minutes from the municipal landing field.

St. Albans, an oil operator on the border, and husband of Mary St. Albans, author, who writes under the name of Mary White, was stricken with hemorrhages of the stomach in Laredo, and physicians ordered a plane from here to transport him to a local hospital.

Accompanied by physicians the dying man was loaded into the plane. His wife engaged an air-mail plane and the trip was begun. St. Albans died during a seizure before the plane landed, and his wife did not know of the death until she reached the city where the body had been taken.

MURDER EVERY 70 HOURS HERE, SAYS U. S. ATTORNEY

"Should some one enter your home tonight and murder you, the chances are three to one the murderer would never be caught; three to one he would never be convicted and 100 to 1 he would never pay the death penalty by hanging or electrocution."

This was told an audience by Assistant United States Attorney Ralph H. Smith last night at a Christian Endeavor conference held in the Western Theological Seminary, North Side. He explained that the figures were estimates by a national criminal survey committee, and added that in Allegheny county there is a murder every 70 hours.

Mr. Smith was delivering an address on good citizenship, the fundamentals of which he said rested on the home, church and school, rather than on enforcement of good behavior by district attorneys and police.

He told his youthful audience, many of foreign berth, that America means material comforts and advantages unequaled in any country on the globe, as each individual has the same opportunity to win for himself high place in the industrial, educational, political and social life of the community.

The speaker was greeted with much applause when he declared that America has no patience with intolerance and that he who fans fires of bigotry is a false prophet and an enemy to the people, as no man must be discriminated against because of the creed to which he subscribes.

RAPS CROOKED OFFICIALS

Mr. Smith, speaking on law observance attacked "the dishonest public official," "the self-serving demagogue," "the professional radical," "the scoffing cynic" and persons spreading "insidious propaganda." He declared "there is the duty to protect from the enemy without the country and an equal duty to protect against the enemy within our gates."

Dr. James A. Kelso, president of the seminary, presided at the conference and made the address of welcome.

CANAL LANDSLIP KILLS TWO

ST. CATHARINES, Ontario, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Two men are dead and five others are in hospitals here with injuries suffered in a landslide on the Welland Ship Canal at Thorold on Saturday.

The body of one was recovered by rescuers a few hours after the accident. He had been thrown against a steel dump car in the new canal channel and buried beneath the slide. Another died today in a hospital after his leg had been amputated.

Ten men in a working crew were in the new canal channel when the clay above gave way and swept down the bank.

Weather Conditions.

High pressure covers the Atlantic Coast states with the highest barometer along the New England coast. Another high, in the form of a broad ridge, extends from Washington and Oregon southeastward to the southern plains. The highest barometer in this high is 30.30 inches, at Amarillo and Dodge City, and 30.36 inches, at Boise and Winnemucca. This high pressure area has caused a decided drop in temperature over the Plains states, producing freezing temperatures as far south as Southern Kansas and frost in the panhandle of Texas.

Low pressure in the form of a trough extends from the upper lakes southward over the Mississippi River to the Gulf. It is causing cloudy weather from the eastern plains to the Appalachian Mountains, and rain in the Mississippi alley states. It is also producing warmer weather east of the Mississippi.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling slowly. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.6 feet; Dam No. 2, 8.5, and Dam No. 6, 7.6. The dams are up.

HOOVER PLEDGED BIG FOREIGN-BORN VOTE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(INS.)—Carrying the battle for the presidency into the heart of the enemy's territory, Herbert Hoover today struck a smashing blow toward the capture of New York state's 45 electoral votes.

The Republican nominee, making a shrewd campaign move, conferred at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel with the original members of the European Relief Council, consisting of the men who handled relief work among 1,000,000 children in 23 countries of Europe during the hectic days following the World War. He also met former associates on the commission for relief in Belgium and the American relief administration.

MANY RACES PLEDGED

Hoover won pledges of support from these former associates in his relief work and from the spokesmen for the various racial groups which benefitted from that relief. There were voters present of Belgian, French, German, Austrian, Hungarian, Czech, Lithuanian, Polish, Roumanian, Yugo-Slavian, Russian, Ukrainian, Esthonian, Latin and Armenian blood, all indorsing Hoover enthusiastically.

Hoover's managers believe he has struck a vital blow at the normal strength of his Democratic rival in New York City. By having a dozen racial groups pledged to him, it was felt that Hoover would capture a heavy vote of the foreign-born element, which has consistently gone to the Democrats in local elections.

The nominee was cheered, too, by optimistic reports given him at a breakfast conference by the managers of his eastern campaign. They told him he would sweep the industrial East, including New York state, if the Republican organization maintained its present pace until the end of the campaign. The nominee received similar assurances at a luncheon attended by the local Republican leaders of New York City and county chairmen from all over the state.

MEETS MANY GROUPS

His conference with the relief workers featured the first half of his visit to New York City with the climax coming tonight when he speaks at Madison Square Garden. In the meantime his schedule calls for a continuous series of conferences with various groups of voters which either have pledged their support to him or wish to do so.

Hoover heard with an embarrassed smile a series of compliments from the relief workers.

"You have before you," Edward Rickard, spokesman for the relief workers said, "the representative of the tens of millions of people you saved from starvation in the post-war period of distress. The composition of this group could not more clearly demonstrate the governing principles of all your relief operations—that the distribution of relief should be extended without prejudice as to race or creed."

PRAISES AMERICANISM

Hoover expressed great pleasure in meeting his old associates.

"You represent not only the American organizations who cooperated in that relief effort," Hoover replied, "but you also represent the nations which were recipients of that relief. It was an undertaking in a time of very great difficulties. Our own country was in a state of financial panic.

"We were not free from the fevers of war and the multitude of prejudices which run through all countries. I know of no incident in our history which shows the fine spirit of our people more than the enormous support contributed in times of difficulty to aid not only friends but former foes.

"I know of no finer proof than the fact that all races when on American soil become Americans in their attitude toward the rest of the world, whether that attitude be in great charity and sympathy or in international relations."

FORNEY MUST TALK

politicians, and those policemen who, Alderman John J. Verona says, are strolling along Collusion Avenue with some of our most generous grafters.

PROBES ROADHOUSES

Besides the Forney business, Gardner today was learning along with the jurors a few things about the roadhouse business. Eddie Kline, who has moved from the city's night life to a place in Three-Degree Road, paid his respects to the jury in the language of a roadhouse proprietor. Among the others on hand were Robert and Mary Arnold, of Foxtrot Inn, Perry Highway; R. E. Sturtzman, whose place is on Evergreen Hill; Mrs. Margaret Matthews, of the Oaks, at Keown Station, and John Shuster, of the Stone House, Perry Highway.

When Gardner disposed of this group he expected to call Alderman George S. Wilson, of the East End, and his constable, George P. Andrews. There were also on hand a dozen or more left-over witnesses from last Friday.

Joseph A. Frayne, assistant to Prohibition Administrator John D. Pennington, spent a half hour with Gardner today and it was reported that he would testify tomorrow from a rich fund of knowledge acquirel in the federal rum probe.

THUGS BEAT, ROB MAN

Struck on the head with a blackjack early today, Joseph Peluso, of 26 Walnut street, Carnegie, was robbed of his watch in Federal street, near Alpine avenue. He told police two Negroes pounced upon him and after knocking him to the street, took his watch, which was valued at $56.

DREAMS AROUSE HOPES OCEAN FLIER IS ALIVE

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Hopes of Mrs. H. C. MacDonald that her husband had survived his attempt to fly the Atlantic in a tiny Moth plane were buoyed up today by the dreams of friends that he was on a small island. Government circles, however, were unwilling to send searching parties to try to verify the dreams.

Two friends of Mrs. MacDonald, one of them Sir Herbert Barker, a surgeon, told her that they had identical dreams that the airman had been cast on a rocky island.

Mrs. MacDonald was swayed by this coincidence and decided that the island meant was Rockall, a lonely rock 200 miles off the west coast of Scotland.

The flier's wife went to the admiralty and asked if anything could be done. Officials were sympathetic, but informed her that Rockall was nothing but a small, high rock, inaccessible to boats in the present stormy weather and so cold and exposed that nobody could survive there very long.

Mrs. MacDonald then went to Croydon airdrome and suggested that a plane be sent to the islet. Again she received sympathy but no help.

MARKERS, LANDING FIELDS URGED BY GUEST FLIER

The importance of markers and emergency landing fields was stressed by E. J. Wade, general manager of the International Aircraft Corporation of Cincinnati, who flew here yesterday from Dayton.

Wade said that during his whole trip from Cincinnati to Washington, to Chicago, Dayton and here he did not see a single marker. Markers, he said, should be placed plainly on high buildings or other places visible to fliers. Wade landed at Rodgers Field and was here for several hours.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—A nation-wide movement for the identification of towns and cities by roof markings as an aid to aerial navigation was announced today by Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics.

With the co-operation of the Post-office Department, he said, the fund has enlisted the assistance of 5,000 postmasters throughout the country in communities of a population of about 1,000 or more.

MOST MODERN

Pittsburgh's many new bus lines in the past two years have been introduced to the most modern in road passenger transportation. This is one section of the interior of this road king, equipped so that nine can sleep in standard size Pullman berths. An observation parlor cares for nine more in deep chairs.

RADIO, SHOWER!

Equipment in this palace includes a radio, operated here by Gladys E. Hurlston for Bertha Faved's entertainment, phonograph, hot and cold water, shower and facilities for preparing meals! It has a gas stove aboard and an automatic refrigerator. There are two drivers and a porter.

EVEN LARGER

And this line's busses come in even larger sizes! In other sections of the country it operates cars that sleep 26 people in competing with railroads in offering comfortable day and night travel between almost any points in the country. The car pictured here is built at a cost of $35,000.

SQUIRE AND CONSTABLE GUILTY OF FRAUD

Guilty of a charge of conspiracy to defraud, was the verdict returned by a jury against Justice John Popp, Jr., Castle Shannon, and his constable, Michael Blazler, in Judge James H. Gray's court today. The constable was found guilty on a second charge of fraudulent conversion. They were recommended to the mercy of the court.

Guilty of a charge of conspiracy to defraud, was the verdict returned by a jury against Justice John Popp, Jr., Castle Shannon, and his constable, Michael Blazier, in Judge James H. Gray's court today. The constable was found guilty on a second charge of fraudulent conversion. They were recommended to the mercy of the court.

Mike Polischek, 839 Washington street, Braddock, testified that he put up $1,200 cash to effect his release after being arrested on a charge brought by John Smyda, 917 Talbot avenue, Braddock, in behalf of his daughter, Katherine. Two days later when he returned for a hearing he said he was told the case had been discontinued by the payment of $800 to the girl, $300 to the father and $100 to the justice. Popp said there was only a $500 settlement, which went to the girl.

'BLUE LAW' LID PUT ON SUNDAY FOOTBALL HERE

Sandlot football received a setback yesterday when eight of the outstanding teams failed to swing into action as city police enforced the "Blue Law" and shut down on Sunday football.

Four contests were postponed because of police interference and large crowds at Lawrence Park, at Sullivan Field, at Mellon Field and at Washington Park were ordered to disperse.

The J. J. Veronas and Juniatas elevens had played only five minutes when police arrived at Washington Park and spoiled the play. The other games were called off, the police arriving before time of play. The Soho Oakleafs and a team from Lock No. 4 played undisturbed at Moultrie Field, Soho.

LINDY SURVEYS AIRPORTS IN OHIO

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying his fast Curtiss Falcon plane, today was combining business with pleasure. On his way to hunt bear in Mexico he was surveying landing fields.

Before his takeoff from Curtiss Field yesterday he said he would make a survey of landing fields for the Transcontinental Transport Company, whose technical committee he heads. Advices from Mexico City told of plans for him to go on a bear hunting trip this week with Col. Alexander J. MacNab.

Lindbergh stopped at Columbus, O., for the night.

'28 FRATERNAL CONGRESS HERE

The Fraternal Congress meets in its seventeenth annual session at the William Penn Hotel Tuesday. This is the first session in the history of the congress held outside of Harrisburg.

The general committee under the direction of W. E. Blaney has heard from hundreds of fraternalists who will be present. A banquet and dance will be held in the evening.

More than 100 members of Junior Order United American Mechanics, Modern Woodmen and the Maccabees will attend.

The Independent Order of Foresters, the Golden Seal Society, the German Beneficial Union, the Grand Fraternity, the Royal Arcanum, the Royal Neighbors and the Women's Benefit Association will also be represented.

FAMED WOMAN WRITER DIES

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 22.—(INS.)—The death of Miss Frances Newman, author of "The Hard-Boiled Virgin," in New York brought to an end one of the most interesting careers among younger American writers.

In the four years since publication of her first short story, "Rachel and Her Children" and its selection by the O. Henry memorial committee as the best American story of its length in 1924, she had risen to the position of one of the most widely discussed contemporary novelists.

Miss Newman was also the author of "Short Story's Mutations," "Dead Lovers Are Faithful Lovers" and numerous short stories.

REWARD IS OFFERED FOR MISSING GIRL

Police of towns in Western Pennsylvania and West Virginia were appealed to by Charles Szvertih, of West Newton, to locate his daughter, Annie, 16, who disappeared from her home in that town. According to the father he believes his daughter has eloped to Wellsburg, W. Va., with a young man employed for the last two months in West Newton. A reward for the return of the girl has been offered.

THREE PUT ON TRIAL IN N. BRADDOCK MURDER

Three men went on trial today for the murder of James O. McDonough, 26, of 1107 Franklin street, North Braddock, in Whitman street, that borough, on June 18, 1927.

John Sliwka, 1513 Wolf avenue, and Michael Chismar, 1710 Terrace street, both North Braddock, and Michael Rechtowick, 1116 Talbot avenue, Braddock, pleaded guilty when arraigned before visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Westmoreland county. They are accused of fracturing McDonough's skull when they ejected him from a store. Assistant District Attorney Earl Adair is representing the state, and E. B. Goehring and Eustace Spatz the defendants.

Thugs Kill Veteran Editor

Beaten and robbed by thugs, police say, Leslie C. Macpherson, 73, of 3218 Piedmont avenue, Dormont, one of Pittsburgh's oldest newspapermen, was found dead yesterday morning in Our alley, near Fifth avenue.

The footpads are believed to have followed their victim late Saturday night as he was on his way to a Fifth avenue barber shop, near Pride street. Macpherson was librarian of the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette.

Murder, with the robbery as the motive, was the theory of morgue attaches after an autopsy revealed that the victim's death was due to either of two blows, one which crushed his skull and the other his ribs on the right side. A pedestrian found the body early yesterday, and he called police from the Center avenue station.

Patrolman Henry Kempp found the pockets of the dead man turned out and a packet of letters nearby. Detectives Frank Dodson and Robert Burke, of the homicide squad, started an investigation and last night were seeking to question men who are known to loiter in the vicinity of the murder.

MONEY FOR OVERCOAT

The victim had $60 in his pocket when he left his son Saturday night at 6 o'clock. He intended to purchase an overcoat and return home later in the evening. He also had a watch and chain, which detectives cannot find. Macpherson had patronized the Fifth avenue barber shop for several years, ever since he had worked as an editorial writer on the Pittsburgh Dispatch, formerly in Fifth avenue.

Macpherson was a well-known newspaperman and at one time served as Washington correspondent for the New York Sun and the Washington Times. He founded the Massillonian, of Massillon, O., in 1891, and took active part in Ohio politics. He subsequently was an editorial writer on the Columbus Times and was Washington correspondent for the Cleveland Plain Dealer. He came to Pittsburgh in 1894 and worked on the Post, the Dispatch and also on the Sun. He leaves four sons and a daughter.

PA. MAN SLAIN IN FLORIDA

FERNANDINA, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Charles Husted, about 45, a grocer, was found dead in his bed here when a customer went to his room. Husted apparently had been hacked to death with an axe. Robbery was believed to have been the motive. The man's money and a diamond ring were missing.

Husted came here from Pennsylvania two years ago and opened a store and gasoline station.

SCIENTISTS HEAR BOSTON PREACHER

Robert Stanley Ross, a member of the board of lectureship of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, the Mother Church, delivered a lecture yesterday in the Grand Theater. The lecture was given under the auspices of the Second Church of Christ, Scientist, of Pittsburgh. His topic was "Christian Science; the Christianity of the Bible."

P. R. R. ORDERS 10 FORD PLANES FOR AIR-RAIL LINE

Orders for 10 tri-motored Ford planes have been placed by the Tranx Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., and will be put into service for passengers who wish to shorten the coast to coast railroad trip by airplane hops, according to an announcement made today by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The service is to begin next spring, the planes being delivered next February 1, according to the order. The cost of the new ships and accessories will be approximately $800,000.

The purchase of the planes was brought about after much study by the air company's technical committee, of which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is chairman. A statement also is issued by Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, in which he expresses entire confidence in the work of the committee.

The ships will accommodate 12 passengers in addition to a pilot, a mechanic and steward, and there will be space for radio and baggage. Making the trip from New York to the West, the passenger will leave by night, boarding a plane at Columbus the next morning and flying to Dodge City, Kan.

The next hop will be overnight by train to Las Vegas, N. M., resuming air travel the next morning for the final lap to Los Angeles or San Francisco. The entire trip will be about 48 hours, or half the present time. Pittsburghers going West can board the train for Columbus any time after 10 o'clock at night and board the plane at Columbus with persons from New York.

VETERANS ORGANIZE FIGHT ON 5TH STATE AMENDMENT

Organized opposition to the proposed fifth amendment to the state constitution to be submitted at the election November 6 developed at a meeting yesterday of war veterans in the office of County Controller Robert G. Woodside.

The meeting was organized into a joint legislative committee to work until election day for the defeat of the proposed change which would remove from the tax exemption class all buildings and property used by former service men.

Among the 50 present were Controller Woodside, Capt. D. C. Davis, deputy controller; C. H. William Ruhe, of Swissvale, representing the G. A. R.; Clark Mansfield, of Sewickley, United Spanish War Veterans; James E. Van Zandt, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Earl D. Atkins, of Philadelphia, national executive committeeman, Disabled American War Veterans' Association.

MURDER CHARGE FACES GIRL

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22.—A charge of murder will be made against Elizabeth Dangelo, 16-year-old unwed mother, of Greensburg, whose new-born babe was found last week stuffed in a mattress at the Dangelo home, with a stocking wound tightly around its neck. The announcement was made by the office of the district attorney here today. It was also stated that an additional charge will be made involving the concealment of the birth of the child.

The girl is a patient in the hospital here. The informations were to be made following discoveries in the Dangelo home by county detectives and after a recommendation by the county coroner.

CAUGHT OWN BANDIT

GROCER CHASES THUG

Today, now that Hugh McCambridge, 65, is back in his chain grocery store at 2915 Penn avenue, he has reported to police the holdup of his store Saturday. After a thug at gun's point took $40, McCambridge raced from the store after him. He chased several blocks and pounced upon his robber, taking both gun and money. Then he administered a sound thrashing and hurried back to his counter. So many customers came, it was hours before he reported the affair—with a good description of the bandit and the marks and bruises he now carries.

Bootlegger Wounded, Dying

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—Samuel Pilato, of East Canonsburg, wounded in a gun battle with officers attempting to stop him while he was transporting 120 gallons of liquor, is in a critical condition in Washington Hospital here, believed dying.

An operation was performed to locate a bullet which struck Pilato in the hip and inflicted internal hurts. Peritonitis has developed. It is said he is "one of the biggest bootleggers" in Washington county.

PASTOR'S AUTO KILLS BOY

LATROBE, Pa., Oct. 22.—Struck by an automobile near his home on the Kingston road, near here, last night, Benjamin Moore, 9, suffered injuries which caused his death a short time later in the Latrobe Hospital. His skull had been fractured.

The boy ran in front of an automobile driven by the Rev. Jacob Sanner, of Ligonier township, according to police. The clergyman took the child to the hospital and remained there until the victim died.

EX-W. VA. FAMILY KILLED AT CROSSING

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—A Chicago and Eastern Illinois freight train wiped out a whole family yesterday in a grade crossing accident at Chicago Heights. The dead are Gerald M. Stapleton, 37; his wife, Mrs. Gerald M. Stapleton, 33, and their 6-year-old daughter, Geraldine. They formerly lived at Parkersburg, W. Va.

SMITH RESTING FOR FINAL DRIVE

By GEORGE R. HOLMES,
International News Service.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 22.—Back home for a short breathing spell, Gov. Smith rested today for what he has described as "the battle of the eastern seaboard," the opening gun in which will be fired in Boston on Wednesday.

Gov. Smith will leave Albany tomorrow night, not to return to it again until he knows whether he is to be the next president of the United States, or just another defeated candidate.

From Boston he will go to New York on Thursday and from that familiar base engage in a fast-flying tour of the great eastern centeres so vtal to his success. The next two weeks will see him in Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland, seven states in which even the Republicans admit his candidacy has strong appeal this year.

DOESN'T NEED WEST

Should he win them all two weeks hence, and should the Solid South and border states stand firm in their normal and traditional democracy, Gov. Smith will win the presidency, even though he carries not a single western state. But, by the same token, any great or material defection in the East would be fatal.

There are no Republicans and only a comparatively few Democrats who believe Gov. Smith has much prospect of winning Pennsylvania's 38 votes, what may be his chances in the other eastern states.

Gov. Smith himself, however, is not one of the doubters. He is going to speak in Philadelphia next Saturday night. Democratic candidates for the presidency do not usually speak in Pennsylvania, considering it a waste of time. But Al Smith not only does not so consider it—he believes he is going to win it.

His campaign managers have put a good deal of money and organization into the state. Their hopes are predicated on Pennsylvania's acknowledged wetness and the enormous industrial vote of the state.

Probably no Democratic presidential candidate was ever so confident of victory two weeks before election as Gov. Smith is at the end of his campaign in the West. He fairly radiated confidence in his observations at the daily press conferences.

He said today he had never had any doubts about the South and the border states that are normally Democratic, despite all the "bear stories" sent northward.

SYRIA TEMPLE PLANS HALLOWEEN DANCE

Members of Syria Temple, and their friends will be entertained at a Halloween dance and entertainment in Syria Mosque Friday night. Dancing will be held in the banquet hall and there will be a large program of entertainment, including vaudeville and motion pictures. Prizes will be given for the best costumes.

MERCER AGREES TO WIDE STREET ON NEW HIGHWAY

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 22.—Property owners in South Erie street, it is said, will agree to the State Highway Department's demand that a 34-foot street be built when the Perry highway work is started in this section.

WOMAN HIT BY AUTO DIES; TWO CRASH, UPSET

Mrs. Rose Eugoski, 62, of 201 Pendam street, North Side, died in Allegheny Hospital Sunday from injuries received when she struck by an automobile in front of her home. Rocco Viola, 23, of 4825 Penn avenue, driver of the car, took her to the hospital and later posted bond with North Side police.

Johny Cooney, 30, of 7121 Idlewild street, Shadyside, received a broken collarbone early Sunday when an automobile truck he was driving collided with a car in Bigelow boulevard driven by Neal McCauley, 21, of 6635 Rowan street. Both vehicles overturned. McCauley was held in $1,000 bail after Cooney was taken to Montefiore Hospital.

ELECTION FIGHT A DRAW

UNIONTOWN, Oct. 22.—For the expression of their preference of the presidential candidates, W. A. Lentz, special coal and iron police officer at Tower Hill No. 2, received a broken nose, and Howard Turner, a workman at the same plant, lost his front teeth.

In court, Turner drew the "evidence"—six teeth—from his pocket. Lentz said that he had to strike Turner to subdue him following his arrest on a disorderly conduct charge and Turner admitted breaking the officer's nose with a shoe. Turner was assessed the costs.

CHINESE AREN'T SURE OF TRUCE

Chinese of East Pittsburgh are not entirely satisfied that the tong war has been definitely settled and have appealed to police of that borough for protection until the exact status of the trouble between the Hip Sing and On Leong tongs is known. Last Wednesday leaders of both groups reported a truce had been signed, but there is still nervousness showing among the East Pittsburgh orientals. Two Chinese who had entered the country illegally were arrested in the borough last week.

ROME HOP PLANE FORCED DOWN, DAMAGED IN TEST

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 22—(AP.)—Developing motor trouble which necessitated a forced landing at the finish of a two-hour test flight, the giant Bellanca sesqui-plane, Roma, was damaged late Saturday and the second attempt of a flight to Rome, scheduled for this week, was postponed indefinitely.

Capt. Cesare Sabelli, commander of the Roma, was in the plane at the time along with Pilot Harry Smith, who was conducting the test flight. Both escaped injury.

Capt. Sabelli hoped to take off Tuesday for Old Orchard, Me., from which point it was expected to make the attempted flight to Rome. In the previous attempt the Roma had left Old Orchard for Rome when it was forced back.

The plane was brought back to the Bellanca plant near New Castle for repairs. It has been undergoing numerous tests and was believed ready for the second Rome attempt.

POWER TRUST QUIZ RECALLS 2 OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—The Federal Trade Commission announced today that A. E. Smith, comptroller and assistant secretary of the Electric Bond and Share Company, of New York, and Ralph P. Feagin, vice president in charge of public relations of that company, who declined to answer certain questions last week in the public utility finance investigation, will be recalled to the stand tomorrow. E. P. Summerson, secretary of the company, also is expected to testify.

Further inquiry into publicity activities of the public utilities will be made Wednesday when Robert Montgomery, sales manager of the Louisville Gas and Electric Company, Louisville, Ky., and Mrs. Josephine Corliss Preston, of Olympia, superintendent of public instruction for the state of Washington, are to testify.

GOVERNMENT OFFICIAL DIES IN ELEVATOR SHAFT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Blackburn Esterline, special assistant to Solicitor General Mitchell, was killed last night when he fell down the elevator shaft in the Department of Justice Building. A watchman, who ran the elevator, said that Esterline rang from the fifth floor. The watchman, however, went to the sixth flood and before he could return to the fifth heard the elevator door open and Easterline fall to the basement. He was dead when a physician arrived.

FAIRMONT SURGEON DIES OF PNEUMONIA

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Dr. Hugh H. Carr, 46, Fairmont surgeon, died at his home here last night following a two weeks illness of pneumonia. He was the son of Dr. Logan Carr of Baltimore. Dr. Carr is survived by his widow, formerly Helen Kirkland of Wheeling, and a daughter, Catherine, 13.

'PASTOR FAITHLESS,' SAY OUSTED BIBLE STUDENTS

Rev. Sheridan Watson Bell, pastor of South Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Wilkinsburg, was accused of "frequent violations of Methodist faith" in resolutions adopted unanimously by 197 members of the Callender Bible Class, recently ousted from the church, when they met in Malta Temple, Wilkinsburg, for Sunday school and church services.

In a statement prepared by the publicity committee and given to newspapers by A. G. Wilson and A. C. Dunkle, the class called itself "the tragedy of Methodism." The resolution charged that Rev. Bell "opened the way to controversy by stating that 'the Bible is not entirely the word of God.'

"It is further known," the resolution declared, "that the pastor is not in harmony with the constitution of the Methodist church."

Dr. T. Morton Sankey, teacher of the class, over whose teachings the controversy started, did not attend the services yesterday owing to the death of his father-in-law. The Rev. Walter Hunter taught the men and later delivered a sermon. Women who attended the Malta Temple services were taught by R. E. Miles, while many children in the audience were distributed between the two classes.

EX-GOVERNOR'S SON DIES

CUMBERLAND, Md., Oct. 22.—Attorney Lloyd Lowndes, Yale graduate, and son of the late Gov. Lowndes, died at his home here Saturday night.

JAIL GIRL DRIVER FOR INTOXICATION

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 22.—Arrested several months ago on a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, Miss Violet Leonard failed to appear for sentence and when she was brought into court on a bench warrant, Judge S. John Morrow fined her $200 and sentenced her to three months in the Fayette county jail. Miss Leonard was charged with crashing into a parked car on Grant street, Uniontown.

THEFT SUSPECT ARRESTED

Sought for several weeks in connection with several robberies, Pat Barrett, 28, was arrested early yesterday in the home of his aunt, Mrs. J. Ward, of 730 Greenfield avenue.

Capt. Andrew Charles, who has been searching for Barrett, arrested him.

Police say that three months ago Barrett was released from the workhouse and fled before he could be arrested on other charges.

He was indicted with members of the Mellet-Dugan gang of robbers, but never tried. The gang was responsible for many crimes in the Oakland and Greenfield district.

EX-STATE GEOLOGIST ASHLEY ESCAPES FIRE

HARRISBURG, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Dr. and Mrs. George H. Ashley, the former state geologist, escaped from their home early yesterday when fire broke out on the first floor and did damage amounting to $1,000 before it could be extinguished. Dr. Ashley was awakened at 4:30 o'clock to find the house filled with smoke. An oil-saturated mop resting against an overheated chimney in a closet caused the fire, it is said.

DISCUSS PROBLEM OF CARBON MONOXIDE

Members of the national committee on automobile exhaust gas are in session at the University of Pittsburgh today, discussing the problems arising with the lowering or eliminating of carbon monoxide from the motor exhaust. The committee also will discuss the situation in regard to thoroughfares, tunnels, garages and other places where motor vehicles gather in great numbers.

COAL CONGRESS OPENS HERE NOV. 19

Problems of the coal industry, both here and abroad, will be discussed by leading coal engineers who will be in attendance at the second international conference on bituminous coal scheduled to open here Nov. 19, under the auspices of the Carnegie Institute of Technology. Plans are being made to care for 2,500 delegates. The conference will last a week.

More than 100 speakers, representing 12 countries are scheduled to address the gatherings. Sixtl of the speakers will come from foreign countries, Germany sending more than 20 of her leading scientists and engineers. The first congress was held here last November and was the first of its kind ever to be held. Fifteen foreign countries were represented among the 1,800 delegates.

LEON FALK, PITT BENEFACTOR, DIES IN MINN.

Leon Falk, 58, prominent Jewish philanthropist who recently, with his brother, Maurice Falk, gave $750,000 in the form of a modern medical clinic to the University of Pittsburgh, died Saturday in Rochester, Minn. The body is being brought back to his home in Woodland road. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning.

Mr. Falk, who was engaged in the steel business here, was noted for his generosity. During the World War, when the Jews of Europe asked for assistance, he and his brother contributed 10 per cent of the total sum raised in Western Pennsylvania. He was treasurer of the Federation of Jewish Philanthropies, a life trustee of the Rodef Shalom Congregation, and one of the sponsors of the Pittsburgh Orchestra Association.

Mr. Falk was a lifelong resident of the Pittsburgh district, having been born in old Allegheny. He and his brother established the Duquesne Reduction Company and the Crown Chemical Company, which later were merged with the Federa Metals Company. He was vice president and a director of that concern at the time of his death.

He also was associated with the Weirton Steel Company, a director of the Edgewater Steel Company and treasurer of the Falk Products Company.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Ruth Levy Falk; a son, Leon Falk, Jr.; a daughter, Mrs. Marcel Levy, of Paris, France; his brother, Maurice, and two sisters, Mrs. Max Wolf and Mrs. Mayer Forest.

COUNTERFEITER IN UNIONTOWN

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 22.—Uniontown and other sections of Fayette county have been flooded with counterfeit $20 bills, which are a poor imitation.

About a dozen were passed in this city Saturday night during the rush hour of shopping. Larger stores, theaters and pool rooms and bowling alleys report receiving the money.

The counterfeit bills are printed on paper lacking the silk threads. The color and engraving are most inferior.

In places where the spurious money was passed the passer is described as rather large and well dressed and an American.

DEATH ROLL

Dr. S. E. Nowry.

Dr. S. E. Nowry, 69, a resident of Wilmerding for 40 years, died Saturday in Dover, Del., where he has resided three years. He was a member of the Allegheny County Medical Association, a director of the First National Bank of Wilmerding and of the Grand View Cemetery Association. Dr. Nowry was a member of the F. & A. Masons of Wilmerding. He was born in Saltsburg. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Sarah Nowry. Funeral services will be held Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church of Wilmerding.

Mrs. John C. Reed.

Mrs. Anna R. Reed, 66, wife of John C. Reed, of 704 Locust place, Sewickley, died yesterday in the Presbyterian Hospital. Born in Washington county, she came to Pittsburgh with her parents when a child and lived for many years on the North Side. She had resided in Sewickley 22 years. She was a member of the Second United Presbyterian Church, North Side, and also attended the First United Presbyterian Church, Sewickley. Besides her husband, she leaves a son.

Mrs. Lena Bick Arand.

Solemn requiem mass will be celebrated in St. Henry's Catholic Church tomorrow for Mrs. Lena Bick Arand, 62, who died Saturday at her home, 2339 Spring street, South Side. She was the widow of the late Nicholas Arand and leaves four daughters, Mrs. A. J. Schmidt, Mrs. Joseph Albert, Mrs. Henry Joyce and Miss Marie Arand, and two sons, Jacob G. and Alfred C. Arand.

Arthur D. Gue.

Arthur D. Gue, 75, died this morning at his home, 2100 Hazeldell avenue, Carrick. Mr. Gue was a member of the Union Baptist Church for the past 40 years. He was a deputy for the Protected Home Circle and was a member of McCandless Lodge No. 390, F. & A. M.; Fort Pitt Lodge No. 9, K. of P.; South Side Circle, P. H. C., and South Side Council, Jr. O. U. A. M. He leaves his widow, Lou Frost Gue; two daughters, Mrs. Elsie L. Bissell and Mrs. Marjorie Hopkins; three sisters, three brothers and eight grandchildren.

Mrs. John C. Reed.

Mrs. Anna R. Reed, 66, wife of John C. Reed, of 704 Locust place, Sewickley, died yesterday at the Presbyterian Hospital. Mrs. Reed was born in Washington county, but lived on the North Side for many years. For the past 22 years she had made her home at Sewickley. She was a member of First United Presbyterian Church, Sewickley. She was active in church organization and was a member of the Woman's Club of Sewickley. She leaves her husband and a son, D. Chelsea Reed.

$500,000 FIRE RAZES FACTORY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(A.P.)—A spectacular fire today partially destroyed the Sturges multiple battery factory in Richmond Hill. The loss was estimated at $500,000. The fire spread quickly from a supply of paraffin discovered ablaze on the first floor by a watchman.

BRIDGE COLLAPSE TRAPS P. R. R. TRAIN IN CAPITAL

HARRISBURG, Oct. 2.—(AP.)—Torn loose by a derrick which failed to clear the overhead arch, a portion of the Paxton street bridge dropped onto the locomotive of the Pittsburgh-Buffalo Pennsylvania Railroad express here Sunday.

Only the smokestack was damaged but the locomotive was trapped beneath the fallen structure until wrecking crews could hoist the wrecked bridge.

The derrick, a ballast-cleaning ditcher en route to Parkersburg, tore away the northern part of the bridge and caused considerable delay in both passenger and freight service in addition to making the arch unsafe for pedestrian and motor traffic. Two gas mains were broken and deprived a portion of the city of gas service.

REVOLT BREAKS IN UKRAINIA

CHISINAU, Rumania, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—News of a revolt by Ukrainian peasants against the Bolshevik authorities seeped across the border today and reached this place.

The stories related that armed bands of peasants seized the municipal buildings in the Ukrainian towns of Zaterki and Orte. Troops were sent against them, but the peasants drove them off and some versions of the trouble stated that hundreds were killed or wounded in the engagement.

Heavy reinforcements are on the way and it is said that the Soviet authorities intend to crush the movement with overwhelming force.

EPIDEMIC ENDS SCHOOL IN NORTH VANDERGRIFT

VANDERGRIFT, Pa., Oct. 22.—Diphtheria cases among the children have necessitated the closing of the North Vandergritt Public School. An epidemic has developed on Kepple Hill, near North Vandergrift. School rooms are being inspected, and the school at that place will remain closed until October 29, it is said.

BEATTY BOY HUNTER SHOOTS OFF OWN TOE

GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 22.—Charles Bealon, Jr., 16, of Beatty near here, shot off the big toe of his left foot as he was racing to pick up a pheasant he had killed. Crawling through a fence, he accidentally discharged one barrel of his shotgun.

HORSE'S KICK RENDERS GIRL, 11, UNCONSCIOUS

OAKLAND, Md., Oct. 22.—Kicked on the head by a horse, Mary Jane Suter, 11, of Hoyes, lies unconscious from a fractured skull. She is the daughter of Jacob Suter.

2 ARRESTED IN STOLEN AUTO

Arrested by Carnegie police after a machine in which they were riding had crashed against a fence in Hope Hollow, Scott township late yesterday, William Bundy, 24, and Terry Bridges, 22, of Wellsburg, W. Va., are being held pending word from the West Virginia state prison.

Police say the men were using a stolen machine and that they only recently had been paroled from the prison. They will be returned to finish their sentence.

THEN ALL-BRAN SAVED HIM FROM CONSTIPATION

A message for people who use laxatives

Mr. Skiles wrote us a voluntary testimonial after Kellogg's ALL-BRAN had saved him from dreadful constipation. Read his tribute:

July 12, 1927

"For years I have been so constipated. After trying every kind of drug possible, I could only get temporary relief. I became discouraged and gave up hopes, when a friend told me to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I had read so many testimonials I had no faith. I was of the opinion testimonials were put out by friends. I will not only give you the privilege to use my name, but I will go on the witness stand and testify to my statement. I cannot express words great enough to meet with Kellogg's food." —ARTHUR SKILES, 325 N. Kedzie Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

If constipation is preying upon your health, check it before too late. If you are using habit-forming laxatives, stop it before this harmful practice fastens its grip too tight.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal. Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN. A 100% bran cereal—delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DIAMOND LOOTERS' RAID ON WRECKED PLANE NIPPED

HUNDREDS SCOUR SITE WHERE MAIL PILOT DIED

FRANKLIN, Pa., Oct. 22.—The great "diamond rush" by hundreds of treasure hunters which followed abandonment of the burned and wrecked plane of Pilot William Hopson, who met death in the woods of Bear Hollow, near Polk, Pa., last Thursday morning has ended.

Arrival of Postoffice Inspector William Tafel from Erie, on the heels of reports that lost diamonds to the number of 60 or 70 had been removed from the charred embers of nearly 900 pounds of mail, put an end to the search.

Supt. Wesley L. Smith, of the National Air Transport Service, Bellefonte to Cleveland, abandoned the plane at 3 o'clock last Friday afternoon, taking to Franklin the 10 pounds of salvaged mail and a few diamonds found while he was looking through the scattered debris. After his departure and announcement that the plane would be abandoned, hundreds from Polk, Franklin, Oil City and vicinity, searching about the wreckage, uncovered the find.

WOMEN HUNT, TOO.

Women were the most fortunate, tearing their silk stockings and bespattering light dresses with mud in the wild scramble for the gems. One young married woman of Polk recovered 14 diamonds, another a dozen or so, and some of the villagers, somewhat apprehensive, sold their "finds" for $2 and $3 a piece, only to learn later that they were worth $85 or more.

But Postoffice Inspector Tafel reached Polk on Saturday night, and started an immediate checkup. Today the recovered gems were being returned to him. A list of all those who have obtained diamonds at the scene of the wreckage is being compiled and carefully checked. One man came to the scene with bags, loaded them with earth and then washed it out, finding four diamonds for his trouble. The postal inspector got his name, and today all four diamonds are in his hands.

DARROW TO TALK AT SMITH RALLY IN M'KEESPORT

Clarence Darrow, nationally-known attorney of Chicago, will be the principal speaker at a Smith-Robinson rally to be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Palisades rink, Fifth avenue and Water street, McKeesport.

Others who will speak are Mrs. Carroll Miller, who addressed the Houston convention in seconding the nomination of Gov. Smith; Mrs. J. Wood Clark, county chairman of the Women's Democratic League; Clinton Ellenberger, of Stroudsburg, candidate for auditor general, and Edward Morris, of Philadelphia, candidate for state treasurer.

Mrs. Margaret Maguire, chairman of the McKeesport Democratic women's committee, will preside at the meeting, which will be open to all men and women voters of McKeesport and surrounding territory.

The committee of arrangements is composed of John J. Haughey, ex-Postmaster Frank W. McFadden, and Mrs. Maguire.

SMITH FORCES PLAN MEETS

Democratic meetings scheduled for tonight are as follows:

Braddock headquarters, 910 Braddock avenue, 8 o'clock; speakers, Leo R. Hack, John J. H. McCarty, Attorney William N. McNair, Democratic candidate for United States Senator; Attorney Leander Trautman.

Millvale, Franz Abt Hall, 8 o'clock; James Houlahen, chairman; Louis V. Barach and Miss Reardon, speakers.

Garfield Public School, Atlantic and Broad streets, 8 o'clock; John R. Devlin, chairman; Frank P. Anton, David F. Flynn, Attorneys Charles A. Jones, Herman Hegner and J. Howard Devlin.

Austin L. Stealey will address the noon-day meeting of the women's Democratic committee in Pittsburgher Hotel. The usual noon-day meeting will also be held at the Seventh Street Smith-for-President Club.

The Seventh Ward Smith-for-President Club opened its headquarters today at 6204 Penn avenue, where daily noon-day meetings will be held.

Gas in Stomach Hurts the Heart

Thousands of Cases of Heart Failure Are Caused by Acute Indigestion, Says Medical Writer.

Gas pressure from sour, acid, upset stomach is not only nauseating and highly uncomfortable, but some day it may prove fatal!

When your meals are followed by bloating, a feeling of fullness or pressure, shortness of breath and pains around the heart, you may be sure that the acid condition of your stomach is producing GAS that is pushing upwards and crowding your heart. That's the reason for the shortness of breath and sharp, shooting pains.

Whether young or old, the presence of stomach gas is truly serious and should always be given prompt and careful attention.

To quickly drive out gas, cleanse and sweeten the stomach, neutralize the acidity—nothing is better than the daily or "as needed" use of ordinary Bisurated Magnesia. It gives almost instant relief. The May Drug Company or any good druggist can supply Bisurated Magnesia, in powder or tablet form.

You run no risk of loss for every druggist may sell it with the distinct understanding that unless its use gives complete satisfaction the small cost will be promptly returned.

CRIPPLED CHILD WALKS FOR SPROUL

Almost 15,000 persons heard Evangelist John W. Sproul at two services he conducted yesterday afternoon and last night in Glory Barn, West Carson street. Twenty persons, nine women, were baptized at the afternoon meeting, and healing services were conducted following the immersions. Several hundred persons went forward at both services, professing their acceptance of Christianity.

The attendance at yesterday's meetings was the largest since the barn was opened several weeks ago. Following the evening service Evangelist Sproul left for Washington to confer with his attorneys regarding the restoration of his radio broadcasting station WMBJ. He stated before the audience that he felt confident of being granted a license to broadcast his sermons and asked them to pray for this to be brought about.

CRIPPLE WOLKS

Four-year-old Nellie Van Newkirk, of 7 Wilbert street, Mt. Washington, was one of more than a score of persons who went forward to be healed. Suffering a dislocated hip, the child limped to the altar, and after being annointed by the Evangelist, she was able to walk normally for the first time in her life. Several others persons said they were healed.

To his audience last night Mr. Sproul delivered a sermon on "A Heal for Real Sinners." He said in part.

"We are living in a rationalistic and materialistic age. Jesus, coming from the unseen world, tells us the facts about Heaven and Hell as the most learned earthly scientists cannot. He says that earth, Heaven and Hell are eternal. There are no two divisions—the abode of the saved and the lost.

"Unregenerate mortals refute Jesus' assertion as to the reality of hell. Which shall we believe? Modernism softens the teachings of Jesus in order to avoid offending those who reject the teachings of the Masters. The result of modernism and higher criticism is the tidal wave of lawlessness and crime.

"Twelve thousand murders in America in a year. The cost of crime reaches the grand total of $20,000,000 a year—more than the entire cost of operating the government. Men may argue that a Good God will not punish eternally, but Jesus says that there comes a time in every incorrigible sinner's life when the character is fixed and the doom sealed."

"Dip" Suspect Arrested at Glory Barn

While John W. Sproul, evangelist, was warning his audience in Glory Barn, West Carson st eet, to beware of pickpockets, especially while boarding street cars, City Detective Frank Ferris arrested an alleged "dip" at a car stop in front of the tabennacle, last night. The suspect was docketed as Fred Houston, alias Fred Stoyle, 35, a Negro, of Philadelphia.

Our Daily Short Story

The Treasure Hunt

By MRS. LILA WANDELL

LENORE had the curious, excited feeling of being about to open the lid of a treasure chest. From under her thick, long eyelashes, which framed a pair of midnight blue eyes, she watched Ranny Marsh speculatively, wondering if it were an opportune time to approach him with the subject which churned relentlessly in her mind. Ranny Marsh was her immediate boss, the head of the collection department of Goslin & Co. Not a very lucrative position, but then Ranny did not pay much attention to money. His attention, after his office duties, was claimed by paths that led over stubbly fields into woods where a silence coupled with a sweet earthy smell somehow seemed to lift the troubles and burdens of a family from Lenore's slim shoulders. She always went along when Ranny asked her telling herself each night as she climbed into bed deliciously drowsy that she must stop frittering away her time on Ranny, no matter how much she enjoyed these contacts.

"Ranny," began Lenore in a low voice, "I really need your help and I hope you won't be obstinate."

He looked up quickly, all attention. He had a nice round genial face with small twinkling brown eyes and lips that insisted upon smiling. He was not the kind of a young man who rushed up the ladder to success, but rather one who watched from the ground ready to catch those who struck a broken rung. The kind of a person one could borrow rent money from without great embarrassment! Lenore knew that from her own experience. "What's up?" asked Ranny. "George vorse?"

"No, his leg is getting along fine but, oh, the druggist and doctor bills! That's not half of it. My sister Sally's husband is wrongfully accused of something or other and can't get bail and Aunt Dot, the one who promised to pay the money back she owes me, lost her job—and well—so on. No," she put a narrow, light hand on his square one, to arrest any movements toward a check book. "I want some other kind of help. Information."

"Ah-ha! The plot thickens." Ranny tried to look solemn, but his eyes twinkled more than ever.

"Don't be funny. I'm in dead earnest. I'm sick and tired of all this pinching and worry, and it'll take a real treasure to get us out of the hole we're in. A real treasure," she repeated, so that Ranny might not think his little nest egg would do the trick. "Now, you know as well as I do and everybody else in this form, that Mr. Goslin's two nephews are working here, so to say, from the ground up. And we all know that one of those Heath boys, either Julian or Henry, has a mother in back of him who owns oil wells and apartment houses and the other boy's mother draws a little allowance from Mr. Goslin. Now, I want to know which of the Heath boys has the treasure."

"Must we go all over that again?" asked Ranny with a weary smile.

"You know which Heath boy has the treasure, Ranny, and if you like me the tiniest bit you'll tell," urged Lenore, "because—this is a fact, both of them are in love with me."

"Every unmarried man in the building is, Lenny, so don't let it worry you," advised Ranny.

"I wish you'd be serious. I've made up my mind to marry the right Heath."

Ranny laughed softly and patted Lenore's shoulder. "I don't approve of treasure hunts, but aren't you imagining a lot of things in the bargain?"

"You're not very flattering, insinuating that neither of the Heaths would stoop to propose to me. Well, as a matter of fact, Julian almost did at lunch, but I held him off until I have dinner tonight with Henry. I tried to find out, you know, very indirectly if it were Julian's mother who had the oil wells or the allowance, but Julian always detoured back to my eyes or rose petal hands. It was very annoying. I might be more successful with Henry tonight if I'd have time, but of all nights, mother must plan to go to the movies with Aunt Dot and you know George can't be left

Our Daily Short Story

alone a minute, so I must be in by 7:30 sharp. Isn't it the limit? You see, Ranny," she coaxed softly, "how just a little information would help me out."

Something happened to Ranny's face. All the twinkle faded from his eyes and his mouth formed a stern, forbidding line and then quite suddenly he walked out of the office, leaving Lenore, wide-eyed, with a curious ache in her heart.

She probably would have been home that evening on time if, at the end of the dinner with Henry Heath, that young man had not told her quite casually that his mother was in Europe. Triumph stirred in her blood and for 20 minutes she was positive she had discovered the right Heath when her eyes noticed Henry's necktie. It was the same dollar variety as Ranny's. Henry went on to tell her that his aunt, Julian's mother, was also in Europe, and Lenore's stock of success took another slump. She was just making up her mind to ask a very direct and personal question when Henry surprised her with the fact that he had bought an eight-cylinder sport model and that he wanted to teach her to drive it.

Doubt pounded in Lenore's mind. Were not automobiles, even eight cylinder models, sold on the installment plan? Perhaps Henry's mother was acting as a companion to Julian's rich mother, or maybe it was the other way round. Julian's necktie, she reflected, were always distinctive and of an excellent quality. It was then that she happened to glance at her cheap little wrist watch and saw that it was exactly 16 minutes past 8.

She scarcely took time to say good night to Henry Heath at the door of the apartment house she called home. Once inside, she scrambled panic-stricken up the long dusty stairs, tripping, hitting her shins, imagining in her terror what awaited her upstairs. Who would ever believe that she had been treasure hunting to help her family when she had grossly neglected a very present duty? A need, terrible in its intensity, for somebody who understood, who would go into that apartment with her, tore through her body, leaving it shaking and weak. Ranny Marsh—if she could find him! It was then that the Heaths slipped out of her circle of life into the sphere they belonged.

She opened the apartment door and caught her breath at the stark silence within, dreadfully afraid to go down the long narrow hall to George's bedroom.

"Back?" Ranny Marsh stepped quietly out of the living room. He started to smile but something in the girl's stricken face brought him quickly to her side.

"Of course, George is all right," he was explaining on the davenport with Lenore's damp cheek against his own, "I judged you might be late and came here at 7:30. Brought a book along and read him to sleep."

She snuggled a little closer in the comfort of his encircling arms.

"Lenny," he whispered, "what do those young Heaths know of life and family responsibilities? I've pulled my own folks out of worse troubles than all yours combined. Right now, a friend of mine, a young attorney, is talking to Sally's husband and maybe we can use Aunt Dot in the filing department. I'm not saying those Heaths do not love you, Lenny, dear, but why take a chance of them not understanding all these family affairs. Money doesn't always help, you know. And, dearest, you must have guessed I loved you all the time, didn't you?"

"Yes, because you wouldn't tell me which was the right Heath! But you must admit, Ranny, the treasure hunt was a success, because I found you!"

ECONOMIC ISSUES SPURNED IN MASSACHUSETTS VOTING

By CHARLES N. WHEELER,
(Noted Political Analyst.)

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.—Elemental passions, entirely dissociated from economic issues, are stirring the citizenry of Massachusetts as never before—at least not since the Boston Tea Party.

Aside from the prohibition issue, the whole state seems to be dividing on racial lines, with the French, Italian and Gaels lining up almost solidly behind Gov. Smith.

The French-Canadian stock alone numbers about 125,000 eligible voters in the Bay state. In former years these voters have been for the most part Republicans on the tariff issue. They also count their greatest numbers in New Bedford and Fall River and environs, where they have been employed in the textile mills.

The textile strike, which lasted for more than a year, has left a bad impression among the workers as to the tariff protecting their industry. While it is possible the Republican chiefs may win over many of these workers, the inside information is that they are determined, on the whole, to join the Gaels in the parade to the polls in behalf of Gov. Smith.

EVERYBODY TO VOTE

Not in a century has anything like the present political chaos been known in Boston. Everybody and his aunt and cousin and remote relation have registered for the November election. The total in the Hub alone mounts to almost 300,000. It is the judgment of the newspaper men of the town that fully 95 per cent will flock to the polls two weeks from tomorrow.

Boston normally is 75,000 Democratic, although it hasn't done much for Democratic presidential candidates in the last few years. But with the accretion of the French element for the first time in years and virtually the whole Italian group, Smith generals can't see how they can lose this trip.

There is a comparatively large Italian colony in Boston. In national years they have voted Republican more than for the Democratic ticket. This year they are reported pretty well united for Smith, both on the wet issue and their understanding that the New York governor, if sent to the White House, will lower the immigration bars sufficiently to let in the folks from Southern Italy practically unhampered.

The Negro voters of the capital also are milling about, not sure that the shades of Wendel Phillips will not leap from the tomb and smite them hip and thigh should they mark a ballot for the Democratic candidate for President. The wet issue and the quiet propaganda that Hoover has joined the "Lilly Whites" in the South are causing all kinds of trouble for the descendents of the Abolitionists.

What there is left to oppose this formidable alignment are the native stock, the business men, who are refusing to be budged by the ethnological and religious strife, and the women in the rural districts who are opposed to the governor's ideas on the Eighteenth amendment.

In both Massachusetts and Rhode Island the Hearst nation-wide poll figures this morning show a tight race. The Massachusetts totals are 21,270 for Hoover and 19,023 for Smith. Rhode Island totals are 6,934 for Hoover and 6,391 for Smith.

The Boston American, which has charge of the poll in the New England territory, says:

"Hoover's lead, in the opinions of many leaders, is not enough to make him certain of carrying Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

"He is getting his vote (in Massachusetts) from the small towns, especially those on the Cape Cod line, and the hill towns of Berkshire county. According to the poll, he is leading on North Shore and in several large cities. Whether the Republican leaders are equal to the task of getting out the tremendous vote of the small towns remains to be seen.

"But the breach is so small as between Hoover and Smith in Massachusetts, according to the American's straw vote, that it would seem at best a horse race to date."

HOOVER AHEAD IN STRAW POLL OF WYOMING COUNTY

Wyoming county completes its quota of votes in the straw vote canvass of Pennsylvania conducted by The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph and gives Herbert Hoover a decisive margin over Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

An increase in the Republican vote in that county is indicated by the returns. Hoover captures 80 per cent of the votes in the poll, compared with 70 per cent of the total vote won by President Coolidge in 1924.

Should the vote in Wyoming county increase about 10 per cent over 1924, the final result would be approximately: Hoover 4,000, Smith 1,000. Such leads in about 60 counties of the state, if they should result, acount for the large majority which the poll indicates Hoover will obtain, despite strong Smith support in urban counties.

The totals of the Wyoming poll are: Hoover 316, including 286 men and 30 women; Smith 81, including 71 men and 10 women. This county is located on the fringe of the anthracite coal belt in Northeastern Pennsylvania, where considerable Smith sentiment is in evidence.

The party drift shown by the Wyoming poll favors the Democratic candidate. Forty Coolidge supporters, including four women, now favor Smith, while 25 Davis voters, including seven women, are turning to Hoover. The LaFollette vote is splitting on the basis of 15 to Smith and four to Hoover.

The Pennsylvania poll, conducted in connection with the nation-wide canvass by the Hearst papers, has reached a total of 97,279 ballots, with Hoover leading Smith by 28,179.

The standing today is: Hoover 62,729, including 50,811 men and 11,918 women; Smith, 34,550, including 26,765 men and 7,785 women. This vote was divided in 1924 as follows: Coolidge 67,392, including 54,443 men and 12,949 women; Davis, 10,520, including 8,866 men and 1,654 women, LaFollette, 5,702, not voting, 13,665.

RAILROADER KILLED AT LAUGHLIN JUNCTION

Suffering a fractured skull in a fall from a locomotive of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad at Laughlin Junction, C. E. Day, 35, of Connellsville, was killed last night. Day, a fireman, was placing a red lantern on the pilot beam when he fell.

DOVER (O.) MAN HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

DOVER, O., Oct. 22. — Henry Enck, 82, retired Dover lumber dealer, is at Union Hospital, suffering with a broken leg and facial cuts received when he was struck by an automobile in West Third street.

WINS CLAIM FOR INSURANCE

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Oct. 22.—Five fire insurance companies were ordered to pay $4,435 to Charles E. Shields, of Brownsville, for the loss of furniture and personal effects. The defendant companies claimed the fire which destroyed the Shields home was of an incendiary nature but failed to substantiate this claim in a court trial.

KELLOGG SEES HOOVER MINNESOTA WINNER

CHICAGO, Oct. 22—(AP.)—Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg on a visit with James W. Good, Republican western campaign manager, said:

"Minnesota has never gone Democratic in a presidential election.

"It has been my experience in many years in politics that the Democrats always carry the country in September. In Minnesota particularly the sentiment for Hoover is growing steadily."

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

What Doctors Say About the Laxative Habit

What do YOU do when the bowels need a little assistance? If you clear up the condition with some laxative made with CASCARA, there is nothing better for the system—for the blood.

But if you don't KNOW the laxative you have learned to depend on is of harmless cascara, here's some truly valuable advice:

The bark of a tree called cascara is the most marvelous conditioner mankind has yet found. It stimulates the bowel's muscular action, but does NOT weaken. A violent laxative forms the laxative HABIT. You always need more on the morrow. With cascara, you don't. Its gentle influence carries on sometimes for days. With less and less need of any aid, as time goes on.

So, the very next time you feel sluggish, take only a candy Cascaret. Delightful to the taste, sweet and acceptable to any stomach, and just as efficient as the powerful purges that fairly paralyze the peristaltic walls of one's intestines. The only habit you'll get from Cascarets is the one of going weeks and months without ANY help of the kind. And when you do invoke their aid again, the same small dose suffices. Any doctor can tell you about cascara; and any druggist has the candy Cascarets.

They Work While You Sleep!

"That's what makes teeth dull and cloudy"

—a dingy film that ordinary brushing will not remove successfully. A new way to remove it.

THE greatest destroyer of lovely sparkling teeth, dental science knows as film. The source of most serious tooth and gum disorders is likewise film. It forms constantly on your teeth and clings so stubbornly ordinary brushing fails to remove it successfully. For this purpose solely, a dentifrice known as Pepsodent was compounded under high dental supervision.

FILM—Its dangers and removal

You can feel film with your tongue — a slippery, viscous coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking to turn white teeth "off color" and cloud their brilliance. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar (a hardened film deposit), are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film, dentists prescribe the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film so that brushing easily removes it in gentle safety to enamel.

In a few days teeth grow whiter and begin to sparkle. They continue to improve for months. Start today. Get Pepsodent at any drug counter or write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 South Wabash Ave., Chicago.

MEN, WOMEN IN AD TEST HAVE EVEN CHANCE

Men and women are keeping abreast in the Zain ad writing contest. It's an equal chance, and both are keeping at par, about the same number contesting, so far, and approximately the same percentage are winning prizes.

The fourth period and its more than 300 prizes, not to mention the grand $1,000 prize at the end of the race, has only three more days to run, including today. It ends Wednesday midnight. From indications, the men may take a majority of this periods if the same percentage continues—and unless the women take advantage of the next three days.

Ad writing knows no distinction. Women, naturally more conscious of and interested in womenn's articles, have shown an inclination to write ads about the things they know best. And as for men, the same idea has been working out.

This, being as it should be, is encouraging to the judges, who declare that they like to read women's ads on women's products. They refuse to say which sex is more familiar with its own personal accoutrements.

So when writing and rushing in the ads to get them under the wire for their—the fourth period, be sure they are the best that can be made. The cash prize of $100 goes to the best this period, and $100 comes in handy.

FOR BOTH SEXES

But also, there are topics that can be most important and most interesting to both sexes. One, for instance, is title insurance, a specialty of the Potter Title & Mortgage Company, Fourth avenue and Grant street. This is one of the most necessary of the fundamentals in the transfer and owning of real estate. It is easily understood, and a real subject to stimulate ad writing.

Likewise, the very practical function of the laundry, a subject about which many ads could be written. The United Laundries, Brace Bros., Eclipse Laundry, Keystone Laundry, Mohn Bros., Royal Laundry, at 1200 Chateau street—visit and consider how many ads you could write about these, and then write them.

Common to men and women alike is the appetite for good things, which interests everyone immediately in Crubro products—jellies, preserves, pickles—a dozen others. The Crubro brand is well known.

Have you ever analyzed the reasons some men and women like sausage, and others like it just passingly? In other words, have you ever decided for yourself just why there are gradations in the appetite? Your answer, likely, would be quality, and graduations in the quality. Try the meat products, for example, of Dunlevy, and their noted pork sausage. Then write in your own words your ad. It should be a prize winner.

HOW TO SEND AD

But be sure to write each ad on a separate sheet of paper, which should be at least as large as a postal card, and preferably commercial letter size. Put your name and address on the back of each sheet and also on the flap of the envelope in which you mail them. To write an intelligent and winning ad visit each of the 39 firms—your ad will then convince the judges. SEND THE ADS TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

CHESTER, W. VA., MAN ROBBED IN STREET

CHESTER, W. Va., Oct. 22.—Dale Murrell, 30, was held up and robbed of $45 here Saturday by two unmasked men, one of whom was armed.

2—$1,000 for best ad submitted during entire campaign. Winners to be selected by committee of Pittsburgh advertising men and women.

3—Ads for fourth period must be received by midnight, October 24, at the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. Ads arriving after that time will be automatically entered for the next period, and so on.

4—Ads submitted for the grand prize must be received before midnight on November 15, 1928. In order to compete for grand prize, contestants must have submitted at least one ad on each concern listed.

5—One person may submit any number of ads. The test may be entered at any time. Ads may be written about any one or all, or any product or all, of the concerns listed. A person may win more than one prize.

6—Write only one ad on one piece of paper at least postcard size. Place name of advertiser at top, write words, phrase, poem, slogan, essay or letter. Sign YOUR name and address plainly on BACK of each sheet. Also on the flap of the envelope. SEND TO THE ZAIN AD-WRITING TEST, CARE OF THE PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH, PITTSBURGH, PA.

7—Ads are to become property of advertiser to use in any manner he sees fit. No ads returned. No subscriptions necessary. No blanks to sign. No entrance fee required. No coupons to clip. All professional ad writers and newspaper employes barred.

8—In the event of a tie, the prizes will be awarded to EACH winner.

BUGS BAER Says

A YONKERS judge bobs up as the most likely candidate for the office of filling Solomon's vacated whiskers.

ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

The time has gone when Lover's Lane was a shady nook, love letters were left in hollow trees and Dan Cupid was a cherub.

Now, Lovers' Lane is a one-way boulevard, the hollow tree is a detour sign, and Cupid is a traffic cop.

Yonkers has its state quota of parking petters. Every small town has its spooners. True love not only laughs at locksmiths, but also makes chummy roadsters out of police wagons.

The judge fined a young man fifteen dollars for parking on a lonely road without lights.

The young man gallantly paid the entire fifteen bills, in spite of the fact that a young lady did half of the spooning.

After pocketing the official plunder, the judge read the young man a lecture. He could afford to.

"We have no objection to petters in Yonkers," said the judge, looking at the young couple.

"But you must keep the lights on," said the judge, looking at the young man.

"And while gentlemen may prefer blondes, I am thankful we are living in a more democratic age," the judge continued, looking at the traffic cop.

"Yonkers wishes to encourage romance," was the judge's next statement, looking at the fifteen dollars.

"But you must keep the lights on," he remarked.

"The lights must be on in order that the police can protect petters from hijackers and hold-up men."

"And if the lights are on, I promise you that the police will not even look in the car."

We like that judge because he had not forgotten that he once had been a parker himself.

But if you have the lights on, what's the use of parking.

And how is he going to keep the cops from looking into the cars unless they wear blinkers?

And why should taxpayers furnish their own illumination when they pay the city to do it?

And why should a young man with fifteen dollars, all he has in the world, fear a hijacker any more than a judge?

I Like BRIOSCHI

Pronounced BREE-OSKY

It tastes sweet and fizzy. Daddy says it keeps his tummy feeling good and that it's good for mine, too.

Everybody likes Brioschi because it is so palatable and refreshing. Famed the world over since 1880 as the best antacid. Enjoy a good drink and say good-bye to sour stomach with Brioschi. 75 cents the large can of 24 drinks at your favorite druggist, any Italian store or any of the May Drug stores.

A Car That May as Well Have Been Designed Especially for Pittsburghers

The Graham-Paige

The region in and around Pittsburgh has been spoken of by automotive engineers as being the hardest in the country on an automobile. This is due to the abundance of hills and the fact that when the average automobile leaves the factory it has to be constructed so as to meet the average road conditions throughout the country.

THE NEW GRAHAM-PAIGE has overcome this obstacle by the perfection of the four speed transmission. This car is equipped so as to take the hills easily and without undue strain on the car, thus giving longer life and smoother performance.

Call and let us explain this feature in detail.

are something about which little is known to the average person. Unless one is an expert or dealer in furs, it is difficult in this day of fur treating and dyeing to tell the genuine from the imitation, so cleverly has science perfected the "camouflage." For that reason it is safer to buy your furs from a reputable furrier.

We have been established for a quarter of a century. We have stood the test of time only because our business is founded on truth and honesty and the highest integrity. We stand back of every piece of fur we sell—that is the secret of our twenty-five years of successful business.

Call and inspect our furs. They are a delight to the eye and give lasting pleasure and satisfaction to the wearer. We give you quality merchandise at lowest prices.

THE SOUL OF MUSIC

That evening, I was John Smith's guest. When supper was ready, his wife tuned in on the radio. Eating to the flow of music that came from that instrument was very enjoyable. It was real recreation. Then, the cigars were passed. While exhaling the bluish vapor, Smith's wife suggested playing some new records that she had bought. So, I heard the Victrola play. It was more wonderful than the radio. We closed the evening by Mrs. Smith playing the piano. That was the most enjoyable of all.

Before I left, I thanked Mrs. Smith for the wonderful time and told her how the wonderful tone of her instruments had impressed me. She smiled and asked me to look at the trade-mark in her radio, Victrola and piano. They all had the Hamilton signature.

"If you buy a Hamilton, you always buy the best," said she.

How Many Blindfold Tests Are You Conducting?

Babe Ruth, Charlie Chaplin and others who rate the front page of newspapers, are making blindfold tests of cigarettes. But vastly more important tests are being made by many persons who are partially blindfolded.

Your child, for instance, may be trying to meet the test of his schoolwork partially blindfolded, and don't you think for a minute but that a child whose eyes are not normal is partially blindfolded. Your husband may be handicapped in his work by blinding headaches, stomach disorders or nervousness. All or any of these may be due to defective eyesight. Your wife may be straining every nerve to rear her family and perform her household duties with eyes that need the aid of glasses.

How many blindfold tests are you conducting? Don't guess! Let us, with our years of experience answer this question for you. The eyes are too vital to permit of any doubt. Too important to allow delay. Have one of our trained opticians help you to be fair to your family.

"CASH or CREDIT"

May be an old chestnut but nevertheless it is one of the most familiar advertising slogans one sees today. Years ago we inaugurated the system of selling first-class Furniture on the Credit Plan, paying a little down at time of purchase and the balance in small monthly payments to suit the purchaser. This plan has been the means of making many HAPPY HOMES, and today we are doing a larger business than ever before and a great many of our sales are Repeat Orders, which proves that OUR CREDIT SYSTEM and METHOD OF DOING BUSINESS must be near perfect or else we would not have attained the HIGH STANDARD we have set and maintained for years.

Westminster Abbey of Pittsburgh

There is but one hand that can lessen the sting of death—but the victory of the grave can be ameliorated in some degree by the thought that no longer do we have to inter our departed ones in the grave where earth and elements corrupt.

Instead there is now available in Pittsburgh a Community Mausoleum, beautiful, dignified and altogether fitting for the entombment of those "we've loved and lost awhile," a place where their remains may be safe and protected forever.

This "Westminster Abbey of Pittsburgh" is located in Mt. Royal Cemetery, and a visit to it will revolutionize your ideas about the suitable interment of your beloved dead.

Dearest Mother:—

Your check for Margaret's birthday came today, but your affectionate granddaughter herself wasn't here to receive it—because you've just got to believe it—it's actually happened. She left for Smith's College yesterday.

How did we do it? Well, I never told you—but when she was born we started a savings account in the "Union Savings Bank" for her. It was very easy—just a dollar every week. Your birthday checks went there, too—and now she's eighteen, and her bank account, with the compound interest, within all these so amazingly short years will see her through Smith's for two whole years. It's been the easiest thing we've ever done. Aren't you glad! We're all so happy about it. And to think that anyone with a dollar a week can do the same thing.

It was a faithful friend to us, for years, about a score.
It kept our food as best it could, but my! it was a chore,
To keep the water emptied and the tracks from off the floor,
That the ice man always left behind—he tried not to, I guess.
But oh! this blessed Kelvinator never makes us such a mess.
It sits quietly in its corner, working for us night and day.
It keeps our food so sweet and good, and no ice man to pay.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Opportunities Given Debs to Talk Over Debutante Days

IT'S fun, we all know, to meet old schoolmates again and talk over old escapades and bygone goodtimes. And what is even more delightful, many a little bud has found, is to talk over debutante days. The debbie's life is all play instead of play sandwiched in between long lessons as it was in her finishing school days.

And there have been a number of opportunities for the debbies of the season to meet at several "all bud" affairs that have been given this fall, and talk about the progress of their season. And have you noticed, too, the close link there seems to be between the buds of this and last year? Of course, such friendships are quite natural, for the girls all belong to the younger set.

One of the debutantes of last year, Margaret Brainard, and her mother, Mrs. Edward H. Brainard, of Woodland road, will entertain all the buds of this season at a bridge luncheon, I've just heard, on Wednesday, November 14, in their home.

IN this day of aviation we've all become quite used to the hum of an airplane overhead, but not many of us are accustomed to receiving notes, and congratulatory ones at that, from the heavens as an airship zips over one's home.

But a former Pittsburgh woman had this experience, Mrs. J. Gormly MacConnell, who, with her husband, left Sewickley about five years ago to live in La Canada, Cal. Mrs. MacConnell, you may know already, has just had a novel, "The Isle of Lost and Found," a romance of the South Seas, published. Herman G. Scott, Jr., of Pasadena, son of the Herman G. Scotts, of Sewickley, while flying over Mrs. MacConnell's home, dropped a letter congratulating her on her success in the literary world.

Mrs. MacConnell many Pittsburgh folks knew well when she was Florence Rook, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Charles Alexander Rook. Her father was a newspaper publisher in this city at one time.

AMONG the boxholders for the play, "The Whole Town's Talking" to be given at the Pitt Theater by the Sewickley Valley Hospital Cot Club on Friday afternoon for the benefit of the Pennsylvania Committee on Penal Affairs, are Mrs. Harry E. Sheldon, Mrs. W. H. R. Hilliard and Mrs. John Walker.

Among the patrons are Mrs. F. W. Severance, Mrs. Matthew Taylor, Mrs. W. H. Pfahl, Jr., Mrs. Robert Wardrop, Mrs. William H. Cassidy, Mrs. P. B. Schoyer, Mrs. Samuel McClay, Mrs. Benjamin Page, Mrs. George H. Flinn, Mrs. Albert Wells, Mrs. James Todd, Mrs. W. H. Stevenson, Jr., Benjamin Thaw and James I. Buchanan.

MISS ELIZABETH JANE GORDON, of the East End, and Louis Albert Sayne, of the North Side, were married Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Elmer David Miller, of Severn street, before an embankment of palms and ferns, with the Rev. John W. Hawley, of the First Methodist Protestant Episcopal Church, East End, as the officiant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her uncle, Elmer David Miller, wore a sleeveless gown of white transparent velvet and a tulle veil with a cap of lace and pearls, scattered with orange blossoms, and carried white roses, lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses.

Miss Lillian Riggs Cunningham, of Crafton, as maid of honor, wore nile green velvet, and Miss Eleanor Vernon Stewart, of Mt. Lebanon, as bridesmaid, rose transparent velvet. The attendants carried arm bouquets of dahlias.

George A. Sayre, of Wilkinsburg, returned from State College to be his brother's best man, and D. Donald Foster, cousin of the bride, and Joseph A. Denshow, both of this city, were the ushers.

A reception and supper followed with covers laid for 10 at the bride's table.

Mr. and Mrs. Sayre left for an eastern trip, and will be at home after November 15 in Fleming avenue, North Side.

Miss Lillian Cunningham, of Crafton, entertained with a supper in the Pittsburgh Athletic Club Friday night following the rehearsal.

THE marriage of Miss Isabelle Thomas, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Thomas, of Espy avenue, Dormont, and Edward Powell eGary, of Buffalo, son of Mrs. Martha Geary, of North Negley avenue, took place Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Thomas home with the Rev. Dr. Percival G. Kammerer, dean of Trinity Cathedral, as the officiant.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white moire gown, in bouffant style, and a tulle veil, scattered with orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses, orchids, and lilies of the valley.

Miss Madeline Thomas, who was her sister's maid of honor, wore pink taffeta, and carried cactus dahlias in deeper tones of pink than her gown. Charles Donnelly, of Erie, was best man. A small dinner and reception followed the ceremony. After a western trip, Mr. and Mrs. Geary will be at home in Buffalo.

Leading Hollywood directors decide girl's greatest charm is smooth skin

Screen stars know the velvety beauty of their skin heightens their allure. Directors have found that very little make-up is possible under the fierce lights of the close-up. Therefore stars must keep their skin always appealingly smooth, exquisite. 96% of all the lovely complexions you see on the screen are cared for with Lux Toilet Soap.

A GIRL'S lovely skin adds so much to her charm—a million hearts beat faster when the close-up reveals the radiant loveliness of a screen star.

To screen successfully in close-ups exquisite velvety skin is essential, say leading motion picture directors!

Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap.

There are in Hollywood 433 important actresses, including all stars. 417 of these use Lux Toilet Soap.

All the great film studios have made it the official soap in dressing rooms.

CORINNE GRIFFITH and the beautiful bathroom that was especially designed to harmonize with the loveliness of this popular First National star.

"The thing I like best about Lux Toilet Soap is the wonderful smoothness of my skin after it. It has that same velvety feeling that the finest French soaps give you."

Corinne Griffith

CLARA BOW is one of Paramount's most popular stars. She, too, uses this white, fragrant soap for the lovely skin she is famous for. "Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin in perfect condition," she says.

MARION DAVIES' beauty has made her famous all over the world. Miss Davies writes, "A deliciously smooth skin is a great asset to a star. I am delighted with Lux Toilet Soap."

LUPE VELEZ brought with her from Mexico the fiery allure of the Spanish. "I find that Lux Toilet Soap keeps my skin like velvet—with the softness, the attractiveness, it should have. You must have beautiful skin under those great lights of the close-up," this little Wampus star, now with United Artists, says wisely.

"I used to say 'it is impossible to find in America a soap of the luxury of imported soaps,' but then I found Lux Toilet Soap," GRETA NISSEN declares. "It feels delicious to my skin and makes it so soft and smooth."

Four Injured in Carrick Cab-Auto Crash

DRIVER OF TAXI IS JAILED

Four persons were injured seriously and another cut and bruised when a taxicab collided with another automobile in Nobles lane at Brownsville avenue yesterday.

Three men riding in the cab fled from the scene uninjured, police were informed. Joseph Connelly, of 817 West Diamond street, the cab driver, was arrested on a charge of violating the automobile laws. Police say he had been drinking.

David Sakol, 29, and his wife, Syli Sylvia, 25, both of East Liverpool, O., were injured, each suffering a broken leg. Three other passenbers in the machine, Mrs. Jennie Martin, of Milgate street; Mrs. Elizabeth Krieger, of Center avenue, and Joseph Bouman, of East Liverpool, were injured. Mrs. Krieger and Bouman were injured seriously.

PLAN BENEFIT FOR NEW FUTURE HOME

For the benefit of the New Future Home, the Past Representatives' Club, composed of members of the Order of the Eastern Star, will hold a benefit card party in the Oppenheim-Collins auditorium on October 30. Committee chairmen include Mrs. John Howick, Mrs. M. R. Moxley, Mrs. E. E. Padgett, Mrs. John A. Konle, Mrs. I. W. England, Mrs. Eleanor Huff, Mrs. Flossie Anderson and Mrs. Frances Ebert.

Pigeons

JOHN GAVIN

John Gavin, Wilkinsburg, is one of the foremost pigeon fanciers of Pittsburgh. Included in his flock of 50 birds are several champion homing pigeons. Gavin served with the Pigeon Section Corps, Fort Oglethorpe, during the World War.

LAMBSKIN CLUB PLANS BIG HALLOWEEN BALL

The annual Halloween costume ball of the Lambskin Club of Bellevue, will be held Monday, October 29, in the Masonic Hall, Lincoln avenue. This is one of the gala events of the club's calendar and between 300 and 400 are expected to attend. R. L. Arbogast is chairman of the committee in charge. Next Friday night a card party will be held at the club. W. J. Urban is chairman.

DUQUESNE HEIGHTS TO CELEBRATE TONIGHT

A parade and banquet will feature the celebration to be staged late today by residents of Duquesne Heights who are celebrating the extension of the Mt. Washington street car line into a heretofore unserved district.

The Duquesne Heights Civic Association will be in charge of a parade which will start at 4:30 o'clock from Oneida street and Grandview avenue and pass through the principal streets of the district.

Mayor Charles H. Kline is expected to be one of the speakers at a banquet to be held in the South Hills Republican Club following the parade. President of Council James F. Malone and several other city officials, as well as Thomas Fitzgerald, vice president of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, also will attend. T. W. Hobson, general chairman of the celebration, will preside at the banquet, and Joseph A. Heyl, president of the Association, will be toastmaster.

WILKINSBURGER CUT IN CRASH

Foster Schmittel, 39, of 1115 Belmont street, Wilkinsburg, is in the Braddock General Hospital suffering lacerations on the head and face, received when his automobile collided with another machine in Ardmore boulevard early Sunday. Hugh E. Judge, of 416 Edgewood avenue, Trafford, said to have been driving the other machine, was slightly bruised. Both men will be given hearings before authorities of Forest Hills borough.

EDGEWOOD ASKS BOND ISSUE

Edgewood is highly interested in the proposed passage of the $150,000 bond issue and to keep the project before the citizens, A. T. Morgan, chairman of the Edgewood borough town meeting, has arranged for a meeting to be held in the Edgewood High School auditorium Tuesday night, October 30. The meeting will be open to the public and taxpayers are urged to attend.

Under auspices of the Allegheny Women's Christian Temperance Union, Mrs. Alvon Sherbine, campaign speaker of the state W. C. T. U., will speak tomorrow evening in Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church.

PLAN FLOATS IN HALLOWEEN PARADE

A big feature of the community Halloween celebration to be held under the auspices of the Business Men's Association of the East North Side on Wednesday evening, October 31, will be the float division under the direction of C. C. Vaught as chairman. The majority of business houses and merchants in the East North Side district have signified their intentions of entering floats and decorated trucks in the parade on that night.

The procession of mummers will form at Lockhart and Chestnut streets from where it will move onto East Ohio street, thence to Union avenue, to Montgomery avenue, to Federal street, to East Ohio street, to Middle street. The reviewing stand will be located at the corner of East Ohio and Middle streets.

More than $200 in cash prizes will be awarded for the most striking or unique costumes. Those wishing to enter the parade must be registered. Girls and women may register at Carlisle's, 517 East Ohio street, and men and boys at the Kuhl Shoe Company, 521 East Ohio street. Wilfred S. Kuhl is general chairman, Earl C. Hanna, secretary, and George G. Schmidt, treasurer of the affair.

BOY HURT BY TRUCK, SUES

Knocked off the back of a truck at Seventh avenue and Bigelow boulevard last September 19, it is alleged, George W. Lourimore, 11, of 803 Tobin street, North Side, has brought suit through his mother, Mrs. Blanche Lourimore, for $25,000 against Ralph Rafael, alleged owner of the machine which struck the boy.

The boy suffered internal injuries, his chest having been crushed, lungs pierced and ribs fractured, according to the allegations set forth in the bill of particulars. Attorney Ben Paul Brasley represents the boy and his mother.

"Mummer"

EARL C. HANNA

Earl C. Hanna has been made secretary of the committee for the Halloween celebration to be held October 31 under the auspices of the Business Men's Association of the East North Side. He is listing those who will participate in the annual mummers' parade. Prizes will be given for best costumes.

HIT BY TRUCK, ASKS $35,000

Claiming personal injury in the amount of $35,000 when he was knocked down by a truck owned by Darby Transfer and Storage Company, Harry Pincus, of 1036 Fifth avenue, brought suit against Joseph G. Darby, owner of the company, in Common Pleas Court here last week.

Pincus alleges that he was knocked down by the truck while crossing Broadway at Wentzell avenue, Beechview, last August 24. He avers he was rendered unconscious, and suffered a fractured pelvis and concussion of the brain.

ASK NEW TRIAL IN $26,400 SUIT

A motion for a new trial in the case of Elmer E. Stover, 193 Morewood avenue, awarded $26,400 against Armour & Co. as a result of personal injuries received in 1925, was filed in Common Pleas Court by George W. Wick, of the law firm of Reed, Smith, Shaw and McClay, representing the Armour Company.

Stover was injured in a car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company when a truck collided with the street car at Baum boulevard and Millvale avenue. Stover is so badly crippled that he was brought into court last week on a stretcher to give testimony before Judge Joseph M. Swearingen, who tried the case.

PHARMACY SWEPT BY FIRE

Fire of undetermined origin caused $5,000 damage to the Alder Pharmacy, South Highland avenue and Alder street, early Sunday morning. Neighbors noticed smoke pouring from the cellar and sounded an alarm.

Firemen found the cellar a mass of flames and fought for an hour before they brought the fire under control. Harry N. Zeligman, owner of the store said that much stock and fixtures had been damaged but he was unable to estimate his loss.

PEACEMAKER STABBED

Ten Negroes are being held in the Braddock police station in connection with the probable fatal stabbing of George Jenker, 25, of 332 East Thirteenth avenue, Homestead. Jenker is in the Braddock General Hospital suffering serious stab wounds suffered early Sunday when he attempted to act as peacemaker during the fight among several Negroes in Corey avenue at Wood way, Braddock. Police who found Jenker in the stret investigated and then raided a house at 520 Wood way where the Negroes were taken into custody.

FIREMEN HOLD MEMORIAL

Members of the Columbia Hose, Hook and Ladder Company, of Bellevue, constituting the volunteer fire-fighting force of the borough attended the annual memorial services for deceased members last night in the Bellevue Baptist Church. A. E. Dauber, president of the organization, and about 30 members, all in full uniform, were present. The hose company dates back 34 years and has had many prominent residents of Bellevue among its members. The Rev. Fred F. Shields, pastor of the Baptist Church, preached on "The Testing Fire."

OHIO MINISTER ACCEPTS CALL FROM MT. OLIVER

Rev. O. E. Krueger, pastor of the Second German Baptist Church of Cleveland, has accepted the call to the pastorate of Temple Baptist Church, Mt. Oliver, and will assume his duties about the first of February.

He will succeed the Rev. Arthur A. Schade, who recently was elected field secretary of the German Baptist Young Peoples' and Sunday School Workers' Union, at a conference held in Chicago.

Rev. Krueger was born in Kankakee, Ill., in 1875. He is a graduate of Rochester Theological Seminary and took a post-graduate course in the English department. He spent seven years as pastor in Australia, was pastor of the largest Baptist church of the German denomination in Burlington, Ia., for 15 years, and has been pastor of the Cleveland church since 1925.

BRANDS 'WETS' AS LIABILITY

"Anyone who advocates the return of the saloon or near-return of the saloon is an economic liability to his country," declared the Rev. Dr. John B. Magee last night, speaking on "The Trail of the Serpent" in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church.

Dr. Magee, formerly of Trinity M. E. Church, Kansas City, Mo., assumed the pulpit of the Bellevue church yesterday, addressing large audiences at both morning and night services.

"I do not preach partisan politics," said Dr. Magee, "but I am preaching moral issues involved in any attempt to restore the saloon."

The waste resulting from war, crime, poverty, were dealt with by the speaker.

At the morning service Dr. Magee preached on "The High Road and the Low Road."

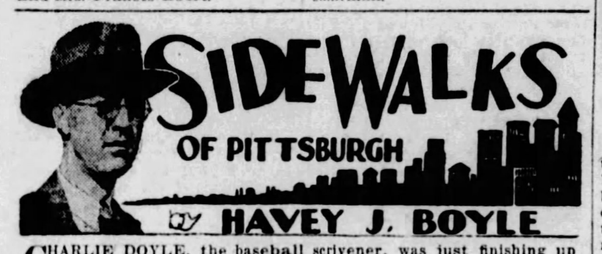
SMITH RALLIES IN WILKINSBURG

Smith-Robinson supporters have arranged for a big rally to be held in the Penn-Lincoln Hotel, Wilkinsburg, tomorrow night at which time a number of prominent speakers will discuss the various issues of the campaign. J. H. Ake, who was a national delegate to the Houston convention, will act as chairman and introduce the speakers.

A euchre, bridge and "500" party will be held at the same place one week later for the benefit of the campaign.

3 ARRESTED IN RAIDS FINED

Three men were fined $100 each in the Frankstown Avenue Police Court as a result of raids late Saturday night. They were charged with keeping disorderly houses. J. Richter, 52, of 828 Sheridan avenue Matt Reichman, 50, of 5855 Pierce street and Fred Woodfork, 29, of 149 Enterprise street were the alleged proprietors. Richter and Reichman were arrested at 6295 Frankstown avenue along with four Negro visitors were fined $10 each. Woodfork was arrested at the Enterprise street house.



CHARLIE DOYLE, the baseball scrivener, was just finishing up his Chilly Sauce column, when we told him that he ought to forget baseball for a while and get out to learn something new. He wondered what, so we said: "Let's go over to city Council and find out what this metropolitan plan for Pittsburgh is all about." So Charlie came along.

Council was holding a hearing that day on the metropolitan plan and with his civic ears all brushed back to get a load of it, as we say at the hunting club, Charlie took a seat in the Council chamber.

Bob Clarke, the city clerk, espied Mr. Doyle, and get away from the metropolitan plan for about five minutes, during which he asked Mr. Doyle (a) if Hornsby was going to the Cubs; (b) if Bush would be with the Pirates again, and (c) just what was the matter with our boys this season.

DURING certain lulls in the hearing Mr. Malone, the president of Council; John Herron, Dan Winters, and P. J. McArdle while up to their necks in the ramifications of the metropolitan plan, found a moment or so to inquire of this and that in baseball.

"Well," we said to Mr. Doyle, as we left the Council chamber," do you think this metropolitan plan is or is not the berries?" And Mr. Doyle replied: "It looks to me like the Yankees again next year."

COUNCILMAN JOHN HERRON is one of the men charged with the task—and pleasure—of getting up a suitable souvenir to be presented by the city in honor of the winner in the annual football clash between Tech and Pitt for the city championship.

Council is anxious to present something new and striking, instead of the usual cup, and it is not impossible that something like a silver football will be the prize which in the ages to come will figure in the lead of every Pitt and Tech football game story.

To reminisce ever so slightly, the best "lead" on that city football clash came the morning after certain intrepid Tech freshmen decided to place their colors atop the Forbes Field flagpole, a process which meant the removal of the Pitt banner. The sight of imminent engineers, embryonic doctors, and accountants-to-be striking one another over their respective kokoes on that memorable day inspired some of the local football journalists to their dizziest heights of ability. The conventional freshmen's caps in that memorable melee were transformed from gay little woolen things into large knobs and hillocks of bone and muscle, some of which were displayed before the judge the next morning.

The fervor of the rival students of our two schools was so intense on that never-to-be-forgotten afternoon that for a few years thereafter the big wigs of the two schools sagaciously decided that while the students might contest in friendly spirit over the annual checker tournament it was considered best for all concerned to dispense with the annual football warfare.

MR. HERRON and other Councilmen charged with the task of getting up something suitable may be interested in this bit of history. Perhaps the trophy to be awarded would be symbolical if it were a silver koko buster or something in bronze in the shape of a policeman's mace.

"KID" GANG BLAMED FOR THEFTS; 5 HELD

Five boys ranging in age from 8 to 11 years, were arrested yesterday by Frankstown avenue police, who believe they are responsible for numerous thefts in the district.

Patrolman H. J. Russell reported he arrested four of the youths as they were boosting one of their number upon a porch at the home of Raymond Furtivo, 511 Larimer avenue.

Those being held are Anthony Toleno, 10, and Frank Toleno, 11, of 37 Joseph street; Joseph Dietropie, 11, of 609 Lenora street; Edward Vernacchio, 11, and Joseph Vernacchio, 8, of 508 Larimer avenue. Edward Vernacchio was not with the boys when they were arrested.

NEW BLDG CODE AT MT. LEBANON

The township commissioners of Mt. Lebanon are now engaged in drawing up a new building and plumbing code, to give ample protection to the large number of new homes under construction or contemplated. Since the first of the year permits have been issued for erection of residences to cost approximately $6,000,000, according to E. B. Bishop, building and plumbing inspector.

The extensive bulding program in Mt. Lebanon is featured by many large and attractive homes. The district is one of the fastest growing residential sections in the county.

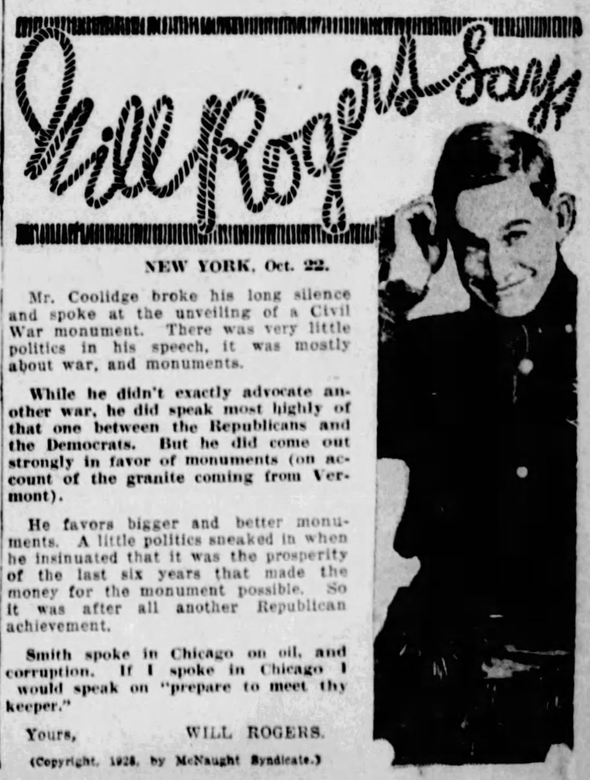
AND WATER EVEN FLOWS

Without interruption of gas, telephone, light or water service, the rectory of the Rev. I. J. McGovern, Church of the Assumption, 53 Sprague avenue, Bellevue, is being moved 80 feet across the front of a lot to make way for erection of a new church which likely will be begun next spring. At the left in the above photo is shown the new concrete foundation on which the dwelling will rest after its trip on rollers.



NEW YORK, Oct. 22.

Mr. Coolidge broke his long silence and spoke at the unveiling of a Civil War monument. There was very little politics in his speech, it was mostly about war, and monuments.

While he didn't exactly advocate another war, he did speak most highly of that one between the Republicans and the Democrats. But he did come out strongly in favor of monuments (on account of the granite coming from Vermont).

He favors bigger and better monuments. A little politics sneaked in when he insinuated that it was the prosperity of the last six years that made the money for the monument possible. So it was after all another Republican achievement.

Smith spoke in Chicago on oil, and corruption. If I spoke in Chicago I would speak on "prepare to meet thy keeper."

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

STOLEN LOVE

Joan Visits Bill's Mother And Learns That He Never Asks for Her

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Joan Hastings, seventeen and beautiful, living with two old maiden aunts in a house long run to seed, hears the tragic story of her unmarried mother's love affair and death from Aunt Evvie, who warns her not to follow in her footsteps. Joan, lonely and impressionable, falls in love with Bill Martin, whose social status is far beneath her own. The aunts plan to send her away to school, and she and Bill, terrified at the thought of parting, let their emotions get the upper hand. Bill is arrested, the victim of a bootlegging gang, and Joan, frantically asking for money to bail him out, confesses to her aunts her relations with him. Horrified, they put her on a train, bound for school, in charge of a woman friend. They denounce Bill and persuade him never to see her again. Joan slips off the train, and Walter Dunne, a kindly motorist, gives her a ride back over the two hundred miles. She arrives at Bill's home a little while after he has kissed his mother goodby, leaving no address. Through Dunne, she goes to live with Maisie Kimmer and gets a job in a department store. She writes Bill, but receives no answer. Her aunts hear that she has never reached the school, and Evvie telegraphs the woman to whom she entrusted her that Joan took a later train, after being left behind by accident at a way station. Having assured herself that this lie is admissible, Evvie washes her hands of her niece. Meanwhile Bill, on his way, picks up Rollo Keyes, a rich lad befuddled with drink, gets his car to working for him and drives him to his home. Rollo's dad offers Bill a job surveying in the oil fields. Maisie advises Joan to write to Bill's mother. Maisie's daughter hires her as a model at her smart shop. Hilda Sedgwick, who lives next door to her aunts, sees her in town. Joan knows she'll tell her aunts and sees all her plans ruined. Mrs. Barstow, a rich society woman, invites her to tea, where she meets her son, Curtis, who drives her home.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

THEY had finished dinner already! She was drinking coffee out of a small gilt and blue cup that Mrs. Barstow, still rambling on in her sweet, colorless voice, said her son had brought from France last summer, when the dining room door opened and Curtis himself—Joan knew it was he even before his mother presented him—came in.

"I didn't expect you tonight!" Mrs. Barstow half rose from her chair and glanced at Joan.

He glanced at Joan, too, and the color rose ever so slightly in his olive cheek. His light brown eyes seemed to darken, he pushed his smooth hair back with a nervous, boyish gesture.

He didn't look like Bill, not a bit, but something in the way he looked at her made Joan think of Bill. Made her think of that first day when she stood in the window and he looked up at her from the rose garden in the sun . . . her eyes blurred. She looked down at her plate.

"Miss Hastings has been keeping me company. I'm such a selfish old woman to let her, for the poor child has a headache." Mrs. Barstow was murmuring tactful things, all about Joan's headache, and how the time crept around so fast. "I'm going to send you right home, my dear, so that you'll have a good night's rest, and will feel so much better in the morning. Curtis, if you'll call the car, and tell Roberts—"

"She doesn't want me to know her son—she'd never have asked me here if she knew he was coming home," Joan thought. "She needn't worry—I—I wouldn't look at him—"

"All ready to start, Miss Hastings?"

Curtis Barstow was going to drive her himself!

"But you have a cold, dear—you had a sore throat yesterday!" His mother's hands fluttered over his, brushed imaginary dust from his sleeve, came to rest lovingly on his shoulder.

He touched her cheek affectionately. "I'm all right, mother. Don't bother." The smile he gave her was filial, but his tone was flat, final.

Mrs. Barstow's fluttering white hands dropped to her sides. There came a little pinched look about her nose, but she did not argue further.

When Curtis suggested driving home by way of the park "for a little air," Joan just nodded. There was a strength about him, a quiet smiling determination . . . no use fighting it, and besides, it didn't matter.

At the door he waited, bareheaded, smiling, while she searched for the key.

"And when am I going to see you again?"

Joan thought of Mrs. Barstow, Hilda. Everything. "I always stay at home and study at night," she said quickly. Too quickly.

"Poor child!" he murmured. "We'll have to put a stop to so much work. All work and no play! Good night, hope you're better in the morning!"

He was gone, but he would come back. Joan knew that he would, and she didn't know whether she was glad or sorry.

CHAPTER XIV.

THE Van Fleet pride. Aunt Evvie said Joan had none of it, but that was in the Spring, when she had love instead. It came back to her now, that same fierce pride that made Aune Evvie lie to Hilda Sedgwick's mother and say, "Certainly, we know Joan is in San Francisco!" and stare her out of contenance.

As the days slipped by and the word she dreaded did not come, Joan tossed her tawny head and squared her supple shoulders. Let Hilda Sedgwick go and blab all she wanted to!

And suddenly she wanted new clothes—lots of them. Chiffon hose, silk lingerie, one thing led to another. Manicure, French powder—

"Of course, you were always pretty, dearie," Maisie said, "but you gotta hand it to Fanny. She's made a beauty out of you!" And to her friend Mis' Harvey she added, "Must be a new man on the horizon!"

Was it really the "new man" that made her want so much to be beautiful now? Was it for Curtis Barstow that she brushed her soft hair till it lay in big waves of burnished gold? Was it for him that she bought the smart, expensive frocks? Joan hardly knew. She lived in a state of feverish energy now. She wanted to be busy every moment. There must be no time to think.

Curtis gave her friendliness, she took it gratefully. When the day's work was over, and a long, empty evening stretched ahead, there he was, suggesting a play. When Sunday came and Maisie went out for her regular afternoon visit with Miss Harvey, Curtis' car was ready to carry her off to the summer countryside, where the air was sweet with drying grass, and bees and butterflies blundered against the windshield in the drowsy sun.

Once a baby rabbit, scampering through the park, brought the sudden happy tears to her eyes. Why? Why did it make her all glowing and alive to see a baby cotton-tail go hopping across her path? And then she remembered. Once when she was walking with Bill, in the hills, home.

Home. The green and gold hills of Marin. Bill's little house down in the hollow . . . not even the Van Fleet pride could kill the old longing, the old hunger and desire. A dark head in the crowd . . . it culdn't be Bill . . . but she'd follow, dashing ahead of automobiles, pushing pedestrians aside.

Hope dies so hard. Perhaps. Bill did write for her letters, and his letter went astray. Perhaps, he was so sure there wern't any that he never wrote for them. Perhaps, if she went to see Mrs. Martin . . .

When she couldn't fight against it any longer, she went.

"Why, it's Joan! Come right in!" Mrs. Martin's wrinkled little face glowed with hospitality. "Now you take that rockin' chair in the window where you'll cool off, and I'll get you a nice cool drink of water—"

"Are you—all alone?" Joan asked, and waited, waited for what Mrs. Martin would say.

"Why, yes. Didn't I tell you Eunice is livin' over in San Rafael"—

"Bill—is—he"—

"Oh, Bill's just doin' fine. Now let me see, what did I do with that letter?" She began rummaging in her darning basket. "Here's a couple of photographs you could be lookin' at. An' here's one Bill sent me. I think it's real good"—

Joan's fingers closed on it. Bill. Bill in a woolly sweater and high laced boots. His hands in his pockets, and the wind in his dark hair. The same darling smile. . . "Oh, my dearest!" She held the little shiny snapshot close against her cheek. "Oh, my dearest!" The minutes passed. The two big tears that had gathered in her eyes splashed on her pale silk dress.

"Guess where I found 'em?" Mrs. Martin came back chuckling. "In the cooler. I must have left them there when I went out to get the milk. An' don't forget to write me down your address when you go, dearie. I lost that other piece of paper I had it on. I'll tell Bill to go and see you when he comes back."

She'd tell Bill. Ask him to go and see her. Joan's throat seemed to close up again, choking her. "Didn't he—ever ask about me?"

"Well, now, boys don't ever write much in letters," the kind old voice droned on.

Joan stood up. There was no use waiting any longer. It was just as she knew it would be. He hadn't cared. It was all over. Another girl by now most likely . . . all over . . . all over.

Mrs. Martin stood on tiptoe and kissed her. "Come back soon, dearie," she said.

Joan smiled back bravely. "Goodby! Goodby!" But she knew she would never come back.

Sirens -:- -:- By Fanny Darrell

IT USED to be that you knew immediately you laid eyes on a girl whether she was a dear sweet thing, or one of those sirens that were a constant menace to humanity. But now—oh, my dear! You simply cannot discriminate at all! No, indeed! For every girl, whether she looks like an angel, or is a real vamp type is at heart a siren.

They are all singing the song to lure—no, that's not right! They don't lure—they simply attract the male element of the population, like a pot of honey calls to every fly within a radius of miles. Why shouldn't they? Their goal in life is Love and Happiness. And there's so much competition nowadays that one simply MUST be more or less a siren—in looks anyway.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Physical Discipline an Excellent Habit

JUST now I saw a company of "Marines." I am on a railroad train passing through New London, Conn. Apparently these boys are off a ship anchored in this port.

DR. COPELAND

In a sense, the Marines are "the first line of defense;" they are the "shock troops." They are first in war, first in defense, first to maintain the rights of their country, no matter what uniform they wear. We affectionately call them "Devil Dogs."

But, of course, it is not my present business to enlarge upon the military and naval establishments. What I have in mind is to speak of what physical discipline does for people.

These upstanding, husky young men are not sturdy and strong merely because they are Marines. They have almost perfect physical health because the authorities insist upon right eating, hours for sleep and recreation, regularity in all their habits.

There is a lesson in their good bodies for each of us. We need not join the Marines in order to get vigorous health. We may have it whether we live in city or country, no matter what our occupation may be, provided we live regular lives.

Moral man is the creator of habit. He can adapt himself to almost any program of living provided there is regularity in its application.

Just how much sleep you need depends on your up-bringing. When I was a boy, "to bed at 9 o'clock" was the rule. I got set to that arrangement and when I became a "city man" it was difficult to get used to the later hours practiced in the big town.

Old-fashioned folks who always got up at 5 o'clock suffer if they have to stay in bed in the morning. It is the fixed habit and difficult to change.

People who have always had dinner at 12 o'clock noon are devoured by hunger if there is an unwonted delay in the meal. The habit of eating is one of the strongest we possess.

I am not particularly interested in your daily habits, provided they are followed with unbroken regularity. The regularity is far more important than the program itself.

The reason why Sunday may be the day for a headache and why the next day is "Blue Monday" is because of the irregularity of the sleeping and eating and "doing" hours of Sunday. The accustomed routine is broken and the body rebels.

Study your life. Your calling demands that you report for business at a certain hour every day. If it does not, it should.

It makes little difference what time you go to bed or get up, how much you sleep or how little, what time you eat or how much, how much you play or how you play—all these things make little difference, provided there is regularity in doing them.

That is the thing that counts. That is why the Marines thrive and have health. That is how you may be equally sturdy.

Regularity in doing is far more important than what you do, assuming of course that you are living sensibly.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Tuesday, October 23

THE sidereal operations for this day emphasize social, domestic and affectional matters, under the Solar-Venus aspect. Labor, industry and the pursuits of Saturn are also under benefic sway, but there is danger of complications and misunderstandings because of ill government of tongue and temper. A restless, irascible tendency should be curbed.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of activity in purely personal affairs, with some progress in labor or industry, but favorable conditions should not be marred by self-indulgence and bad temper and speech.

A child born on this day may have many accomplishments and graces and may be steady and industrious.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife" By Adele Garrison

Harry Underwood "Comes Back"

THE seconds following Lillian's cry of "Harry!" as "K. seven" with the Princess Olina of Transvania in his arms, fell to his knees at the shot from Sergius' revolver, are a jumble in my memory. From somewhere I found the sense to blow the police whistle, although it was not needed, for Allen and Dicky were like tigers as they fell upon the man. He managed to shoot his revolver twice more, but they were random shots, although they made me wild with terror until I saw that Dicky had not been hit. It was not until afterward that I realized how my whole being had been centered upon that one thing. But assured of his safety, I turned back to the astonishing scene at my side. The Princess Olina was feverishly unrolling herself from the blanket swathing her, while Lillian had sunk to her knees and was cradling the unkempt red-bearded man in her arms.

"The flashlight, Madge!" she said peremptorily. "I'm afraid he's hurt badly."

With fingers that trembled I turned the flashlight upon the man's face. He looked up at me with lips twisted with pain, but with eyes no longer blinking.

"Hello! Lady Fair," he said. "Don't let her scare you. He drilled me all right, but it isn't anything vital. However, I don't believe I'll try to walk to the house."

Harry Underwood! The red-bearded man was not only "K. seven," but he was Harry Underwood, Lillian's recent husband. This was another instance of his atonement for the awful traitorous act, the result of months of drunken debauchery and the sinister influence of Grace Draper, which so nearly had cost Dicky's life at the Mineola aviation field during the World War. He had done his part under another name in the ambulance service afterward, and Dicky long ago had given him his friendship again. But he had been a man of mystery ever since, although he had reappeared in our lives for brief intervals, only to be gone again. And now, as I looked down into his graying face, I wondered if he were to make the last supreme atonement.

There was the sound of a swiftly revolving motor, and the next instant the headlights of the Veritzen limousine picked our group out, and the car came to a sudden stop, while from it came my employer and his chauffeur, together with Jim and my father, whom they had picked up on the way. At the same instant Allen Drake and Dicky, jerking a tightly-bound but unsubdued Sergius after them, dashed up.

"Hold him, Allen," Dicky said, and went down on his knees upon the other side of Lillian, while I trained the flashlight upon Harry underwood's shoulder, from the front of which blood was flowing. It did not need medical knowledge to see that the wound was a serious one.

"Steady, old man," Dicky said, making a quick, sure emergency survey of the wound. Then he stood up and beckoned Otto.

"You're the strongest," he said. "Help me get him into the car. Dad, you and Mr. Veritzen can help steady him. Jim help Mr. Drake with that animal if he needs it."

Even through the terror of the moment I found myself thrilling with pride at the way Dicky dominated the situation. It was a position which he kept while his old friend was laid upon a bed and given first aid by Katherine, and while a surgeon rushed from the hospital found that though the wound was painful and had resulted in much loss of blood, it was not so dangerous as to involve an operation or removal to the hospital. Then Dicky turned to my father.

"Now Dad, you can go ahead with the inquisition upon Sergius. Old Harry's going to live and everything's right with the world."

What went on behind the closed doors of my father's rooms, I did not know, did not want to know. The three men, my father, Allen and Dicky, were steeled with the knowledge of the awfulness of the plot of which this man was one of the leading spirits, and I think it was a refined but effective third degree that was used in those rooms during the next 48 hours. At the end of that time a thoroughly subdued, cringing man was bundled into Mr. Veritzen's limousine for a journey to the headquarters of the secret diplomatic service.

The coup had been successful. I was vaguely glad and proud of my share in it when my father declared the capture of Sergius to be the missing link of the vitally important chain which he and Allen Drake had been forging during their long and mysterious absence. But neither Lillian nor I had time or heart for anything save a cursory interest in the final clearing up of the problem, vitally important to all of us though it was. With Dicky we were helping Katherine and nurses from the hospital in the battle to keep Harry Underwood a living factor in the world to which he had so spectacularly returned. For while his wound was not dangerous, pneumonia had set in, and the battle for his life was a terrific one.

Part of the time he was delirious and his ravings were an odyssey of his wanderings in the mysterious years when he had been absent from us. Privation, suffering, danger, the indomitable determination to atone for his crime, all were revealed, coupled with a monotonous recurrence of a queerly phrased question. "Well! Lil! how about it? Will it do?"

The Sun-Telegraph Fifteen Cent Pattern

A SMART STYLE FOR MATURE FIGURES.

A deep vestee meets the split-curve finish of the front in this interesting model, which has a cluster of plaits at the left side of the front and plaits in panel effect in the back. The "V" neck may be finished with the tie trimming or with a narrow binding. This model has slenderizing lines, and is very becoming to stout figures. Moire in black or navy blue with trimming of white or flesh color will be nice or Canton crepe with pipings in a contrasting color.

The pattern for this desirable style is cut in nine sizes: 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52 and 54 inches bust measure. To make the dress for a 46-inch size as shown in the large view will require 4¼ yards of 35-inch material, together with ⅞ yard of contrasting material for facing on vestee and cuffs and for the tie trimming. The width of the dress at the lower edge with plaits extended is two yards.

COUPON.

This pattern will be sent on receipt of 15 cents (silver or 2c and 1c stamps). Make number, name, address, etc., plain. Send to Pattern Department, The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa.

New England Stew

Take two and a half pounds of breast of lamb and put it in the pot with a large sliced onion and cover with plenty of water. Pare and cut in thick slices seven large potatoes and let stand in cold water, add them 35 minutes before the stew is wanted, and season with salt and pepper. Take from the bread dough enough to make 12 dumplings, placing them on the floured moulding board to rise for a half hour. Thirty minutes before the stew is to be served drop the dumplings on top of the rapidly boiling liquid, cover tightly and cook 25 to 30 minutes. Lift the dumplings to a hot dish with the skimmer, then lift the stew with the skimmer to another hot dish, thicken the gravy with flour and water well mixed and strain some of the gravy over the stew, the rest in a gravy bowl.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

SENTIMENTAL CALORIES

EVERY woman is, at heart, young enough to be a daughter and old enough to be a mother to the man she loves.

Putting your heart into a summer romance is staking a gold-piece against stage money.

The old-fashioned girl used to get a real kick out of "marrying a man to reform him," but the modern girl finds that it saves a lot of wear and tear on the nerves to exchange him at Reno and let "the other woman" reform him.

HELEN ROWLAND

Three years of married life with a suspicious woman or a critical man would destroy the veracity of a super-saint.

Don't flatter yourself that your husband is filled with original sin. They're the same old ones, dear heart, that Eve had to put up with in Adam.

In order to be popular with the opposite sex, a woman knows that she MUST have something—beauty, youth, talent, money, wit, dash or "It;" but all a man thinks he needs, apparently, is a few strands of hair and plenty of nerve.

A lover used to say, "Kiss me—or I'll suffer!" Now he says, "Kiss me—or I'll kiss somebody else!"

Love, to the average man, is a continuous state of wanting some woman he can't get, or getting some woman he doesn't want.

Sometimes, even in these days, a man will kiss a girl of his OWN accord, if she'll just wait long enough.

Teacher's Place Second Only to Mother's in Child's Life, Says Fay King

GOOD MORNING, TEACHER!
GOOD MORNING, TEACHER!
"MY CHILDREN" GOD BLESS THEM
AN OLD TEACHER'S MEMORIES MUST BE VERY SWEET INDEED GOOD MORNING, CHILDREN!
FAY KING

By FAY KING

NEXT to a good mother, I think a good teacher is doing the most important work in the world.

And among teachers, I would place first those who teach in the lower grades. They are the first contact the child makes with the world, away from the home circle of love.

They must inspire trust and affection, as well as teach.

Many good teachers have unselfishly devoted their entire lives to this noble work. They receive too little pay and not enough appreciation.

In guiding and nourishing the fruitful young minds that come under their care, they may well say with pride, "my children."

They deserve a place second only to a good mother, in the love, honor and respect of the world.

A CASH payment of only a few hundred dollars will start you on the road to home-ownership. See the rare values and easy terms offered today in the real estate columns of Sun-Telegraph Classified Ads.

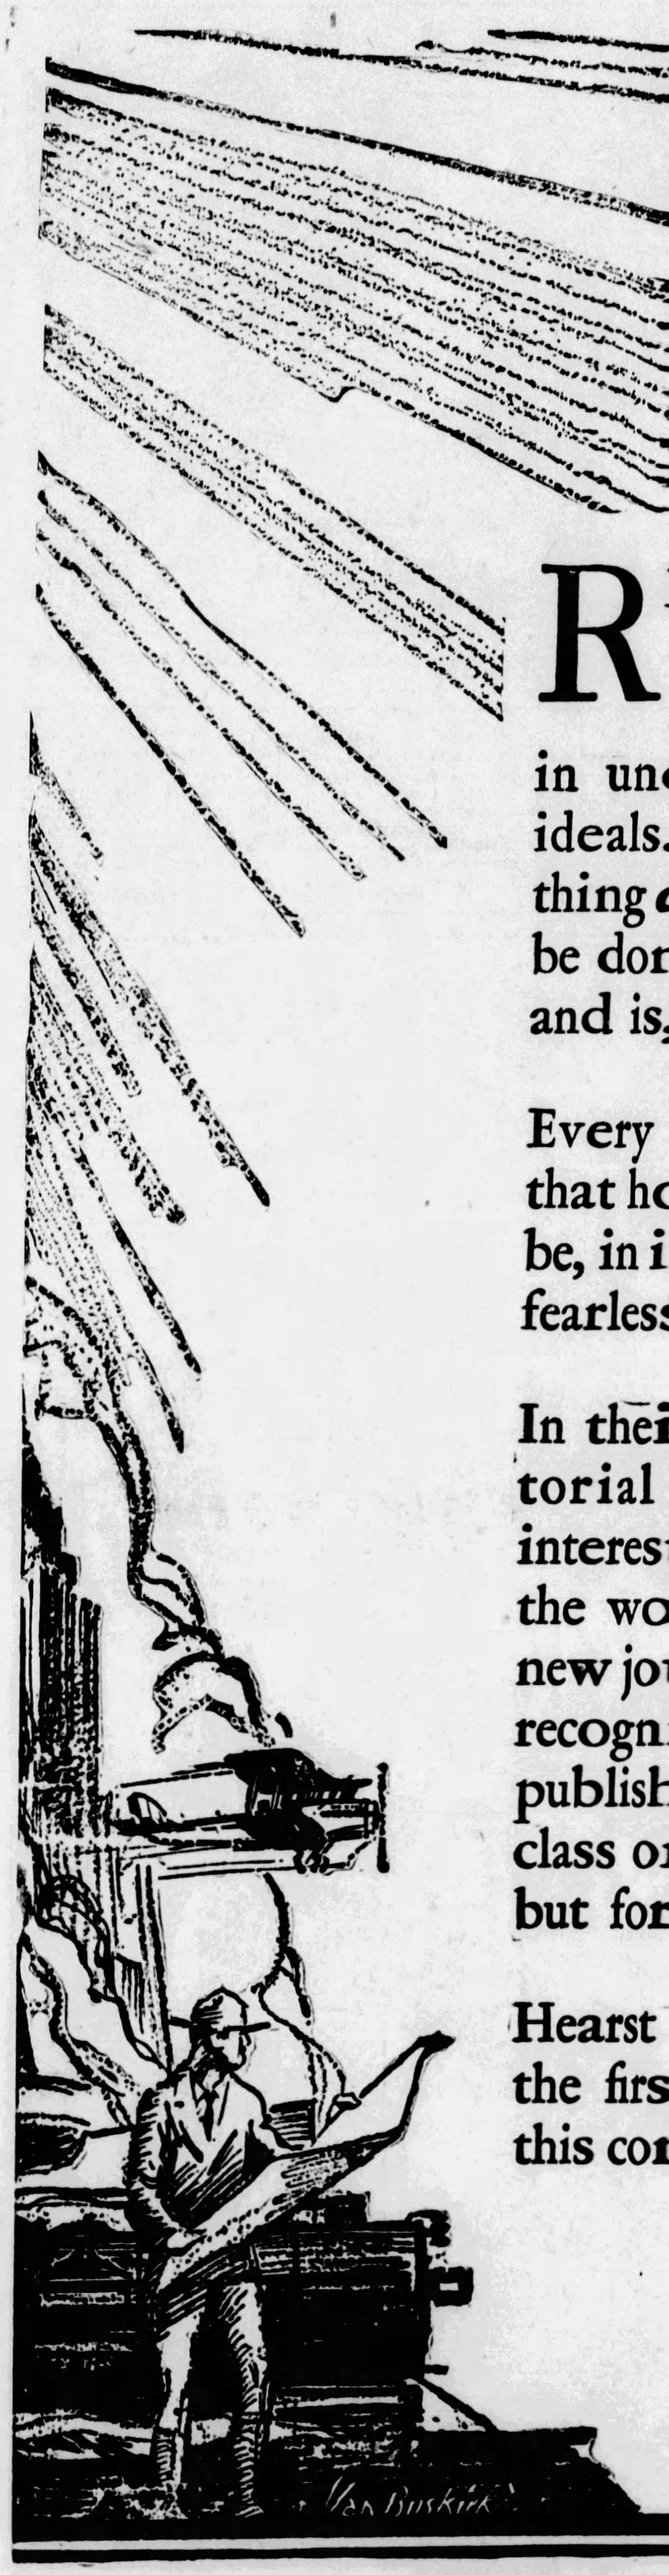
HEARST



INTERPRETING THE SPIRIT OF AMERICA

RESTLESS, unsatisfied, unafraid, America has marched swiftly and triumphantly through the years in unceasing pursuit of its national ideals. Considering, not whether a thing can be done, but whether it should be done, then doing it—that has been, and is, the Spirit of America.

Every institution, every newspaper, that hopes to interpret this spirit must be, in its policies, as progressive and as fearless as the public it hopes to serve.

In their militant and courageous editorial championing of the public interest, Hearst Newspapers have given the world a new journalism, because a new journalism was needed—one that recognizes the necessity for newspapers published in the special interest of no class or creed—no party or person—but for the whole people, always.

Hearst Newspapers, beginning with the first, in 1887, have held firmly to this conviction. Today, forty-one years later, in eighteen key cities from the Atlantic to the Pacific, twenty-eight Hearst Newspapers, entering over five million homes and read by more than 20,000,000 people, still place the public welfare above all else—still hold an unbounded faith in their country's future.

Close to the heart of America, understanding and sympathizing with its desires and hopes, Hearst Newspapers strive to reflect accurately the spirit of its people. As evidence of their success in doing this, more than one-fifth of the entire newspaper reading public of America today, as a matter of personal preference, believe in, and look to, Hearst Newspapers for information, inspiration, and leadership.

It is a mighty responsibility for any institution to carry. It is an honored work, this, to interpret the will and promote the welfare of a great people moving on to a great destiny

"PHANTOM OF OPERA" SEQUEL IS TO BE FILMED WITH VEIDT AS ITS STAR

By REGINA CREWE.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 22.

PREPARE for more thrills and chills and shudders and things in your film fare! "The Phantom of the Opera" is on his way back to the screen! Universal is planning on a photoplay which is tentatively called "The Return of the Phantom," and will produce it in a spectacular fashion which will eclipse even the splendors of the original "Phantom," which added so greatly to Lon Chaney's fame.

Conrad Veidt, Universal's imported star, who has proved his worth in "The Man Who Laughs" and other big features, will be the star of the picture, and it will be directed by Paul Leni, who has made successes of some of the most difficult film subjects ever assigned a megaphone artist. With a sequel to "Phantom" for a story, Veidt and Leni to bring it to the screen, it looks as though the fans have something to which they may look forward.

Renaud Hoffman has purchased the screen rights to Edward Locke's well-known book, "The Climax," and it looks as though his negotiations to produce it for Universal as a big film special are about to terminate successfully. It is understood that Jean Hersholt, Universal's ace actor, will be cast in the leading role of the picture, which will possess dramatic strength.

Laura La Plante's vehicle to follow her present picture, "Little Miss Satan," will be the screen version of an original story by Edward Montagne, Universal's scenario editor, called "The Compromise." The story is of a more serious nature than those in which Laura usually appears, and it gives her plenty of chance to display the real dramatic talent with which she surprised even her most ardent admirers in "Show Boat."

After the completion of eight pictures as a free-lancer, Olive Borden is planning a trip to Europe with which to reward herself for work well done. Olive will leave Hollywood shortly after the premiere of "Noah's Ark," which will be shown next month as one of Warner Brothers' greatest specials. The film opens for a long run at Graumann's Chinese Theater, one of Hollywood's principal show places—in both senses of the word.

"Ritzy Rosie" is no longer the title of Alice White's new picture. When you see it the name will be "Bad Baby." Jack Mulhall is Alice's leading man, you remember.

Dozens of real big shots among the film stars fought through the crowds of spectators to see the opening of Ernest Pascal's stage play, "The Marriage Bed," in which two Hollywood favorites are starred. Both Owen Moore and Alice Joyce were deluged with applause and flowers. Filmdom was certainly proud of its two distinguished children. Prominent in the audience was Tom Moore, who fairly beamed with pleasure. It was hard to determine whether the apparent enthusiasm was for his brother, Owen, or for Miss Joyce, who, you know, used to be Mrs. Tom Moore. After the final curtain, Clara Bow, with a brand new shade of red hair, was literally mobbed by fans requesting her autograph, and thrusting mash notes and flowers into her hands. The premiere fully merited the trite description "brilliant." It would be hard to find an audience containing so many gorgeously gowned beauties or handsome men.

Rupert Julian is getting quick action from Metro regarding his next picture, an adaptation of Ben Hecht's original story, "The Regiment of Doom." Hecht is the author of the sensational movie, "Underworld," and the equally sensational Broadway stage success, "Front Page," the screen rights of which are being held at a price that is making movie magnates turn pale. "The Regiment of Doom" was selected by Julian after the perusal of more than 100 mystery stories.

Metro already has cast Lionel Barrymore for the leading male character in the London fog murder thriller, and the name has been changed to the chillingly provocative title, "Green Ghosts." Work has been started on the adaptation, and Julian will begin to shoot within record time.

Tom Mix is having more than his share of "physical disability" recently. The last of the painsmen has suffered several minor injuries in the course of performing his daring picture stunts which have caused him much pain and have delayed production on his films. Now his new picture, "The Drifter," is being held up until "Diamond Tom" recovers from a ruptured blood vessel.

The lifelong ambition of Ramon Novarro to sing in opera is to be gratified when he makes his debut in the Berlin opera this season. Ramon's first role will be in Puccini's "La Tosca." He will repeat this role later in the Paris opera, and will also add that of the Duke in Verdi's "Rigoletto" to his repertoire. Ramon will leave Hollywood right after he completes "The Pagan." He will make a few phonograph records in New York, and then will sail forth upon his big adventure.

There seems a likelihood of Bayard Veiller directing "The Trial of Mary Dugan" when Metro converts the stage play into a talking picture. At present he is engaged upon its adaptation for the screen. As he has had directorial experience in pictures, the talk is that he is the logical candidate for the favors of Metro and "Mary."

Sidney Olcott, back from Europe, is about to sign a directorial contract with one of the important companies. It is interesting to remember that Olcott was once a comedian in the first film efforts of D. W. Griffith. This was back in the old Biograph days. He has directed Mary Pickford and numerous other stars of the first magnitude, and one of his pictures, made almost 20 years ago, still is being shown and bringing in revenue. This is "From Manger to Cross," by far the most ambitious undertaking of its day. Olcott also insists upon the distinction of having made the daddy of all talking pictures back in 1913 with a device called the "Cameraphone."

Somehow Bert Lytell and "The Lone Wolf" seem synonomous. Bert has played in so many "Lone Wolf" pictures that he has become identified with them. If Metro feels the same way about it, Bert may be signed for "False Faces," which is a "Lone Wolf" sequel from the pen of Louis Vance. In this story the "Lone Wolf" serves his country as a secret agent during the World War. Bert's fans would certainly welcome him in the part.

Drama to Have Premier Here Tonight

A new marine-aviation drama by Richard Barry, "Davy Jones' Locker," will be presented for the first time tonight in the Nixon. In the cast are Selena Royle, G. Pat Collins, John Rogers, Alden Chase, J. Malcolm Dunn, George Tawde and others.

McIntyre & Heath, in their new musical play, "Headin' South," opens a week's engagement in the Alvin tonight. A large cast supports the veteran blackface stars.

Pauline Frederick tonight begins an engagement of one week in the Pitt in a comedy, "The Imperfect Lady." Zelda Sears, one of the authors of the play, is in the cast.

Monday night, October 29, Frank Craven, in his own comedy, "The Nineteenth Hole," will open a return engagement of one week at the Nixon.

Jane Cowl, in her newest play, "The Jealous Moon," opens a week's engagement in the Alvin next Monday night. This star has not been seen in Pittsburgh since her appearance in "Romeo and Juliet" four years ago.

"Abie's Irish Rose," Anne Nichols famed comedy, opens a farewell return engngement in Pittsburgh in the Pitt next Monday night. There will be matinees Thursday and Saturday.

BROWN MEHARD LEAD IN STOCK COMPANY

Brown Mehard, of Sewickley, who played important roles in several plays presented here by the George Sharp Stock Company, is to play leading woman roles in a stock company in Englewood, N. J. She makes her debut tonight in "Married and How." Miss Mehard, in her work here, displayed talent and abilities which promise success in her career as a regular "trouper."

TECH PLAYERS SUCCEED

Graduates of the department of drama, Carnegie Institute of Technology, are earning fame as well as livelihoods in practically every field of the theater, according to a report of the present activities of some of the more recent graduates of the institution.

The range of activities is from community theater work to vaudeville, and includes occupations as directors, producers, actors, costume designers, scenic designers and teachers in dramatic schools. A majority, of course, are acting, but an imposing list of the graduates is identified with the Little Theater movement, in which 11 former Carnegie students are engaged as directors of community theaters.

Graduates who are now playing important parts in New York productions include Hardie Albright, in "Gang War;" Lois Shore and Ross Hertz, in "Eva the Fifth;" Norman Foster, in "The Night Hostess;" Irene Kosinski, in "The Command Performance;" Ben Welden, in "Ringside;" Eula Guy, in "Women;" John Burns and Paul McGrath, in Theater Guild companies, and Charles McCarthy, in Eva Legallienne's Civic Repertory Company.

On tour are Maury Tuckerman, in George Arliss' "Merchant of Venice;" Clifford Edge, in "The Dagger and the Rose;" Garret Kraber, in "The Trial of Mary Dugan;" Joseph Woods and Robert Pike, in Fritz Leiber's Shakespearean Company; Charles McClelland, in Walter Hampden's Company; Mitchell Blistein, in "In Abraham's Bosom," and Mary Blair in "Paris Bound."

Among graduates who are acting in other cities are Carleton Young with the Charles Wagner Repertory Company, in Baltimore; John Willard, leading man with the Dudley Players in Chicago; Betsy Lindsey, ingenue with the Waterbury Players, Waterbury, Conn.; Carl Reid, Russell Collins, Effen Lowe, Helen Forrest and Max Eisenstat, with the Cleveland Playhouse, Cleveland; Arvid Crandall, Russell Spindler, Charles Schlessinger, Don Wilson, and F. Leon Ford with the Goodman Repertory Theater, Chicago, Ill., and Margaret Werts, with the Salem Players, Salem, Mass.

Vaudeville has claimed Dorothy Raymond, who is being starred in a sketch, and Joseph Lazarovic, Ruth Aston, Josephine Copas and William Dickey. Motion picture actors among Carnegie graduates include Kenneth Thomson, who has played the lead in several photoplays, Arthur Lubin and Mary Skurkay.

Engaged in the Little Theater movement as directors of community organizations are Frederic McConnell, in Cleveland; Howard Southgate, in Miami, Fla.; Alexander Wyckoff, in Memphis, Tenn.; Ramon Savick, in Nashville, Tenn.; Bernard Szold, in Omaha, Neb.; Harry Hamilton, in Montgomery, Ala.; Donald Marye, in Armiston, Ala.; Hubbard Kirkpatrick, in Birmingham, Ala.; Janet Millis Shepherd, in Savannah, Ga.; Charles Meredith, in Santa Barbara, Cal.; Marion Cox, in Salem, O.

The teaching profession has attracted Arleigh Williamson and Harold Schaughency, who are members of the faculty in the department of speech of New York University; Marjorie Bartholomew, who is dramatic director at Miss Liggett's School for Girls, and Valentine Windt, a student in the night courses at Carnegie, who is serving as dramatic director in the University of Michigan.

The report includes also the well-known name of Woodman Thompson, who is one of Broadway's leading designers and who is a graduate and former instructor at Carnegie, John Conway, another graduate, is art director in the department of drama at the University of Washington, and Joseph Mullen is engaged in costume designing in New York.

A large majority of the former students mentioned in the list, it is pointed out, were graduated from the Pittsburgh institution within the past five years.

MANAGERS LET GO

Bucky Harris managed the Washington Senators to the American League championship and victory in the world series his first year as manager, in 1924, and won a pennant again the next year and now has been cut adrift by that club and has been signed by Detroit to succeed George Moriarty as manager. Bob O'Farrell was a star of the St. Louis Cardinals who won the National League pennant and world championship in 1926 and succeeded Rogers Hornsby as manager the next year and was released to the Giants this year.

MOVES ON

Joe Harris, slugging first baseman and outfielder, was a star for the Senators against the Pirates in the world series of 1925 and was released the following season. He has been with the Pirates and Robins since.

PARADE MOVES ON

Rogers Hornsby was manager of the Cardinals when they defeated the Yankees in 1926, but he since has been with the Giants and Braves and it is reported now that he is on his way toward Chicago to become a Cub. Casey Stengel and Aaron Ward starred in world series play for the Giants and Yankees, respectively, only to pass out of the major leagues shortly afterward to the American Association. Verily the path to world series fame also leads to oblivion.

LATEST VICTIM OF SERIES JINX

Tommy Thevenow was the shortstopping hero of the Cardinals when they defeated the New York Yankees in the world series of 1926, but he now has been passed on to the lowly Phillies, while a veteran recalled from the minors, Rabbit Maranville, fills his shoes in the Mound City.

SPORT COMMENT by JAMES J. LONG

Harpster Fools Dopesters Who Figured He Would Be Held in Check for Pitt Game —Panthers Show Improvement—Dukes Please Followers—St. Louis Fans Support McKechnie.

PRIOR to last Saturday's football game at Forbes Field, in which Carnegie Tech defeated W. & J. for only the second time in their 15 gridiron meetings, many of the sideline dopesters had it all figured out that, with the Pitt struggle only a week off, the Plaid coaches would hold Capt. Howard Harpster in leash during the afternoon to enable him to conserve his energies and avoid possible injuries.

Howard Harpster

"Harpster is rather brittle," they said, "and as he is to be Carnegie Tech's main hope for victory over the Panthers next Saturday, it is a good bet that Judge Steffen will not turn him loose against W. & J. He will not run the risk of Harpster meeting with any mishap that might prevent him from being absolutely fit for the big tilt at the Stadium."

BUT evidently they didn't know either Steffen or Harpster very well. Keeping the proverbial squirrel on the ground would be about the easiest thing imaginable compared with trying to make Howard play a passive part in a football game.

All that he did was to grab a Wash-Jeff pass and run 65 yards for the first touchdown, toss a pass to Theodore Rosenweig for a 33-yard run and the second marker, dive through the left side of the line for the third six-pointer, run back numerous kicks in brilliant style, attend to the Plaid's punting and give his usual fine exhibition of generalship and defensive play. If the Akron Express was traveling under only part steam last Saturday, Pitt followers may well dread to contemplate what he may do against the Panthers with the brakes off.

BUT meanwhile the Pittites themselves were performing in a fashion that raised the hopes of their supporters in connection with this week's annual tussle with the Tartan.

There wasn't much ground for optimism in the way Pitt played against West Virginia the preceding Saturday, but in the game with Allegheny College Capt. Alec Fox' boys showed a decided improvement that indicates the team that lost to the Mountaineers will be a different team when it faces the husky wearers of the Plaid.

IT WAS a decidedly creditable afternoon's work to roll up 29 points against the game and hard-fighting Meadville lads. Naturally, the latter never had been held to be anything in the nature of an equal match for Pitt, but they flashed a stubborn resistance and a determined spirit of aggressiveness that made them look very good in the face of the odds that they were up against. In view of the caliber of Allegheny's play, Dr. Sutherland's charges did mighty well to make as many points as they succeeded in rolling up. It was an evidence of marked improvement since the West Virginia game and there is every reason to believe that the improvement will continue this week at a rate to make the Panthers far more formidable next Saturday than they promised to be only a short while back. Baby Joe Gans vs. Nick Palmer, 10 rounds, New York.

IF confidence and determination will bring victory to a boxer, Garfield Johnson, local Negro light-heavyweight flash, already is "in" as the winner over Maxie Rosenbloom, Jewish star of New York, in their 10-round main bout at Motor Square Garden tonight.

Less than a year ago, shortly after Johnson came here from Seattle, he lost a bristling battle with Rosenbloom in the Garden for the only defeat of his local residence, and he has been aching ever since to even the score. He gets his big chance tonight and is primed for the effort. He has been showing knockout tendencies in his gymnasium workouts and schooling himself against freakish styles, such as the slapping, jumping attack of Rosenbloom.

GARFIELD OUT TO WIN

"When I fought Maxie before, he dazzled me with his bag of tricks," Garfield said after his final light workout yesterday, "and before I knew it the bout was over and I had finished behind in the matter of points. It won't be the same this time. Maxie is not a hard hitter and I intend to ignore his showmanship and go about the business of fighting my own fight, which I am certain will be good enough to land me out in front. I always have tried to give the fans a good run for their money, with a lot of action, and this bout will

Joie Ray Defeated By El Ouafi

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—After 18 years of amateur track competition, many of them as king of the world's milers, little Joie Ray tried last night to "cash in" on his running ability and failed.

Racing the wire-haired Algerian Olympic champion, El Ouafi, at Madison Square Garden, Chesty Joie was raced into abject defeat by a margin of at least a quarter of a mile.

There were seven others in the race that marked Joie's professional debut and three others finished.

Through every one of the first 22 miles, Joie, the picture of running perfection, speed and confidence, drew the continuous cheers of a slim crowd as he patted his feet lightly in the Arabian's footsteps, led now and then himself to try out his speed, and never was more than 30 yards behind. Along with him equally strong, connfident and able, raced the brown skinned Arabian olive duplicate of Joie's running perfection.

JOIE FALTERS

But at the end of the twenty-third mile something went wrong with the wonder machine of the American track. Springiness seemed to ooze out of Joie's knees, his feet dragged, arms grew heavy and despite the frantic cheers of encouragement, the application of stimulants as he ran, little Joie just couldn't keep up with the almost super-human running ability of the lithe invader.

Once feeling that Joie was weakening, El Ouafi set out with renewed vigor to definitely clinch his claims to the distance championship. As Joie faltered El Ouafi picked up a full lap just after the start of the twenty-fourth mile, went on to gain another by the time the twenty-fifth mile was ended, and added over a half lap to that advantage in the sprint for home.

El Ouafi's victory, more remarkable because it was run indoors on a small track under conditions he faced for the first time, was won in 2 hours 44 minutes 55 2-5 seconds. He won $4,000 as the first prize while Joie gathered $1,000 for second place. Arthur Newton, of England who finished third, won $750, Juri Lossman, of Esthonia, fourth, $500 and Sam Richman, of New York, fifth, $250. All three trailed Ouafi and Ray to the finish by several miles.

BELLEFONTE ELEVEN TOPS BISON FROSH

LEWISBURG, Pa., Oct. 22.—Bellefonte Academy continued to keep its record clean when it defeated the Bucknell frosh team at Lewisburg by a score of 6-0 Saturday. Only once, in the first half, did Bucknell threaten to score. It was the first time this season that Bellefonte's goal has been threatened.

The Academy scored in the fourth quarter after a long march down the field featured by Reider's long runs, Temple plowed across from the five-yard mark for the touchdown.

WELCH, ACTRESS TO BE MARRIED

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—The engagement of Gibby Welch, former University of Pittsburgh football star, now playing professionally with the New York Yankees in the National Football League, to Miss Antoinette Boots, musical comedy actress, was announced here yesterday by both principals. The date of the wedding has not yet been fixed.

The former Panther luminary was picked on the majority of all-American elevens last year. He was paired with Morley Drury as the outstanding halfback of the year. His most sensational feat occurred when he returned the opening kickoff against Nebraska at Pittsburgh 105 yards for a touchdown.

Seven Teams Ranked At Top in East

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—After a series of remarkable football battles featured by unusually widespread and effective use of the forward pass as a scoring weapon, a handful of teams stand out today as likely contenders for the unofficial "championship" honors of the east.

Yale, Army, Dartmouth, Pennsylvania, New York University, Carnegie Tech and Georgetown were the major teams that emerged not only victorious on Saturday but undefeated and untied as yet this season. They were favored to win and win they did. After a succession of upsets which marked the earlier weeks of the season, the games involving the leading elevens this time ran remarkably true to the dope. In the long run class usually tells.

Yale and Army, which meet on Saturday at New Haven in a game that may go far to settle the question of Eastern or even nation-wide supremacy, buttressed their claims to recognition by clearcut victories over teams which were previously undefeated. The Elis' 32 to 14 triumph over Brown and the Cadets' 15 to 0 shutout of Harvard indicated that again there is little to choose between these old rivals and that their forthcoming battle in the Bowl will be as hard fought as last year when Yale won by a narrow margin of 10 to 6.

GREEN TEAM THREAT

That Dartmouth can't be counted out of the title race was shown when the big Green team rushed an unbeaten and promising Columbia team off its feet to win by 21 to 7 without the services of its star back, Al Marsters.

Pennsylvania lived up to expectations by beating off the challenge of a crippled but hard-fighting and dangerous Penn State eleven and winning, 14 to 0, while N. Y. U., Carnegie and Georgetown sliced their way through less formidable opposition to keep their records clean. N. Y. U. and Carnegie, which meet on November 24, won shutouts by 6 8 to

TECH, DUKES REMAIN AT TOP OF LIST

By JESS CARVER.

FORM players, it would seem, stepped to the pay-off window Saturday as the 1928 college football campaign passed its fourth milestone. Curiously enough, the results of games both on local and far-flung gridirons were much as were to be expected. For the first time this fall, Kid Upset took one on the whiskers.

Glancing down the list of scores, it is seldom the eye falls upon a single game that ended with the dope bucket upset. There was not a single example in the tri-state district, and nationally, only the defeats handed Notre Dame by Georgia Tech and Virginia by V. M. I. are regarded as surprising. In one or two cases, teams figured as decisive choices were held to close scores by less formidable rivals. Witness the 7-6 victory that Nebraska managed to eke out over Syracuse.

TECH GOES WELL

Carnegie Tech and Wash.-Jeff., usurping the spotlight for the day hereabouts, waged a bitter duel at Forbes Field. The Tartan victory was expected, though the embattled Presidents gave Tech a much harder afternoon than the confident Plaid host expected. The Skibos, exhibiting crushing power at times, indicated that it is well for them that Howard Harpster, with his cool bearing under fire, his accurate passing and fine ball-toting and generalship, is still on the squad, for the inexperience of the majority of the Tartan players was in evidence at times during the afternoon.

Bus Edwards' "lost touchdown," which might have changed the aspect of the game as far as Wash.-Jeff. was concerned, had it been allowed and not called back, is the topic of much conversation today. Along with Harp's 65-yard run for the first Tech touchdown, it was the high spot of the afternoon. You can get all the argument on the play you wish. Edwards, receiving Harpster's punt, was hit by two Tech men, but apparently squirmed out and ran 52 yards for a score. Referee Very ruled that Bus had been stopped by the Tech tacklers, and the ball was called back.

Pitt came through with a substantial triumph at the expense of Allegheny. The Panthers seem to have emerged from the fog they stumbled around in against West Virginia and put on a fairly snappy exhibition of the correct way to play football and still win games.

ATTENDANCE POOR

This week's game between the two rivals, meaning Pitt and Tech, won't fill the stadium, but it should draw a much better crowd than the Tech-W. & J. fracas did. Of course, neither of the principals have been walloped by the dear Dukes. When the Dukes beat Wash.-Jeff., they gave the presidential drawing power a decided kick.

The Dukes, confident and with some of their stars in poor physical condition, got just the sort of a ball game they needed from Loyola University of Baltimore and will settle down to work today for the game with Geneva at Beaver Falls Saturday. Ganzy Benedict and Joe Guerrier had to put on their "me to you" act to pull a victory out of the bag. The job facing Duquesne this week is by far a tougher one than the one they confronted when Wash.-Jeff. was met. The victory in that game served to put every other opponent of the Bluffmen on guard and to set them to pointing for the Dukes.

The Dukes share the spotlight today with Tech as the only un-

Speaking Of Sports

A LITTLE birdie whispers that W. & J. is "off" the Dukes and the Bluffites will not be rescheduled by the Presidents in football for next fall. Pressure has been exerted, it is said, to discourage these relations because of the fact that the defeat of W. & J. by the Dukes put a crimp in W. & J.'s battles with Carnegie Tech and Pitt here. The attendance at the Tech-W. & J. game last Saturday was disappointing, and it follows that the Pitt-W. & J. tilt at the Stadium a few weeks hence likewise will be affected. The only explanation given by the killjoys who don't want the Dukes and W. & J., to meet any more is that the arranging of the battle this year was a "mistake."

A financial mistake, perhaps, but a sporting one—NEVER! For the sake of good sportsmanship, let us have more of these so-called "mistakes." My hat is off to W. & J. for taking the initiative in reaching down and giving the Dukes a helping hand to a place in the sun. If Pitt and Tech really want to recoup their losses, due to the Dukes-W. & J. meeting, let them also schedule the Dukes instead of crying about spilled milk.

IS MONEY everything in college athletics? If so, let's cut them out and seek for sportsmanship in the realm of professional sports, where, at least, there is not so much pretense of lofty idealism.

Had the spirit of the late Walter Camp been present at Forbes Field last Saturday afternoon it certainly would have exulted over the exhibition of all-America pastiming displayed by Howard Harpster, of the Akron Harpsters, stellar quarterback and captain of the Carnegie Tech Skibos, as he piloted his eleven to an impressive 19-0 victory over Wash-Jeff, after being in a hole throughout the first period, in which his team never was able to get the ball outside its 40-yard line.

Seldom has any local eleven had such an inspiring and at the

DRAWS FEATURE SANDLOT RACE

By TOM BIRKS.

THE merry chase for the district heavyweight sandlot football crown failed to get any place at all Sunday, for while the Burns club succeeded in nosing out the Glassport Odds by a 6 to 0 score at Rainbow Gardens, the other two titular battles featuring East Pittsburgh Firemen at West View, and the Coraopolis Independents at Bridgeville Firemen finished in scoreless ties.

The McKeesport Olympics sprang a surprise on the highly touted Akron Awnings at Akron, O., by holding the professional team to an 8 to 7 score. Newlin was the bright star for the Tubers and only when he was carried off the field did the home team score.

The brilliant football weather attracted large crowds to the various games. McChesneytown defeated the Pleasant Valley Smilers by a 16 to 0 score. Port Vue ran rough shod over Connellsville in a 24 to 0 game. The Eighth Ward Traders sprang a surprise, beating Oakmont in a game where the aerial attacks featured, a brilliant fight that found the Traders on the long end of a 13 to 6 score. Carrick won from the Twenty-seventh Ward Traders by a 6 to 0 score. And Venice won again, stopping the North Side C. M. C., 7 to 0.

Three thousand wild-eyed fans crowded into Rainbow Gardens at McKeesport to see the Burns Club of New Kensington and the Glassport Odds, two undefeated claimants for the title. The only score came in the second quarter when Hudson broke down one of Foote's punts and crossed the line for a touchdown.

And that was the only real bit of football in the whole game, for if it is possible to serve up anything worse in the way of bootball played by teams claiming a crack at the title, then the writer does not want to see it.

Everything seemed to go and more penalties were stepped off than in any five games this fall. Feeling was at a high pitch. The players allowed personalities to get mixed up with their football, and when the thing was all over the fans must have gone home wondering what it was all about. That pep and fight stuff is all right, but sometimes it can be overdone, and it was overdone in this case. And to make things worse the officials could have started out with iron hand stuff and stopped it in the first few minutes of play.

Glassport nearly tied up the game in the final minutes of play when Vincinich hurled passes all over the field. Most of them fell into the arms of the waiting men, and when the final whistle blew the ball was on the Burns three-yard line. Martis missed a glorious chance when he dropped one pass standing on the goal line. The lineup:

AUTO DRIVER KILLED IN CINCINNATI CRASH

CINCINNATI, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—One man was killed and another injured yesterday when their racing automobiles crashed through the fence at the Coney Island speedway here during the 100-mile race.

Earl Calvin, 33, Indianapolis, one of 22 entrants, went through the barrier and crashed when the steering gear of his machine locked. He was rushed to a hospital where he died last night.

Al Thiesen, 21, Detroit, crashed through the fence earlier in the race and his machine caught fire. He was burned and bruised but hospital attendants said his condition was not serious.

the teams nearly equal, the game may be largely a battle of wits between Steffen and Sutherland.

THOUGH it was only by a margin of one touchdown that the Dukes defeated Loyola, followers of the Bluffites have reason to feel gratified that they won at all, in view of their crippled condition and the danger of a reaction that had appeared to exist following the victory over W. & J. a week earlier.

You may chalk up another bit of clever handling to the credit of Coaches Layden and Regan on account of the way they succeeded in making the Dukes keep their feet on the ground instead of becoming over-confident and careless as a result of their Washington success. The Bluff lads showed the same old fighting spirit, a good omen in view of the hard job they will be up against in meeting Geneva's strong team next Saturday.

THE silly season in baseball continues. The latest fairy tale, following those of last week, which kept club owners and managers around the major circuits busy making denials, is that Jim Bottomley, Cardinal first baseman, will be traded to the Giants or Cubs.

It is safe to surmise that it is just another of "those things." In spite of his slump during the world series, Bottomley must still be rated as one of the most vaulable players in baseball, and it is practically certain that no thought of trading him ever entered the head of the Cardinal management.

SPEAKING of the Redbirds, many of the St. Louis fans have been aroused by the rumor that the club owners were thinking of making a change in managers for next season. They are showing their admiration in no uncertain way. One of the numerous letters received by St. Louis papers on the subject follows: "Just a line about the rumors of an intention to depose Bill McKechnie. If the Cardinals had won the series the players would have been given the credit. Then blame them for losing. If the Giants had won the pennant it would have been 'McGraw, the miracle man.' They lost and now the players are the 'lunkheads,' and McGraw is given credit for coming so close. I am in favor of signing McKechnie as the 1929 manager before another week has passed."

ACTIVITIES in three-cushion billiards probably will delay the holding of the proposed world's championship 18.2 balkline tournament, originally planned for December. It is now announced that the tourney cannot be held before February or March, as it would conflict with the three-cushion work of Willie Hoppe, Young Jake Schaffer, Welker Cochran and Eric Hagenlacher.

Hagenlacher at present is giving exhibitions in the middle West, Hoppe is touring the Pacific Coast with Johnny Layton, and Schaffer plans to challenge the winner of the Gus Copulos-Otto Reiselt angle match of 600 points opening in New York today. Next will come the four-cornered Layton-Hoppe-Copulos-Reiselt tourney in December for the world's three-cushion championship, and the regular season of the angle league.

IN BROOKLYN tonight, Baby Joe Gans, Negro fistic star of the Pacific Coast, will try literally to fill the shoes of the famous lightweight champion of yesteryear whose name he has adopted.

Al Herford, who managed the original Joe Gans, has presented to Baby Joe a pair of ring shoes worn by the "old master" while he was champion, and the new Gans will wear them for the first time tonight.

Original Joe Gans

GANS' opponent in tonight's bout, which is scheduled for 10 rounds, will be Nick Palmer of Brooklyn, a rugged battler who is reputed to be a hard puncher. Upon Baby Joe's success or failure against Palmer will depend whether or not he gets a Madison Square Garden bout with Joe Glick. He has already established himself as a formidable contender for high honors in the East by beating Cuddy DeMarco, Harry Felix and Andy DiVodi.

STUMPP LOST TO W. VA.

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., 22—Although Coach Ira Rodgers has announced that the workout of the West Virginia University football squad, which returned here yesterday from Charleston with a 22-0 victory over Washington and Lee, would not be conducted today. He immediately began making plans for a new combination in the backfield, for Eddie Stumpp, brilliant sophomore field general and ace of the Mountaineer backs, came out of the General game with a badly dislocated knee. It has not been definitely established as to whether or not Stumpp will be lost for the Lafayette game next Saturday, but possibilites of his recovery are meagre. With this triple threat out of the backfield, the West Virginia offense will be depreciated by several per cent, for, as Saturday's game indicated, the major portion of the Mountaineer attack is built around Stumpp's running, passing and kicking.

VALUE OF NEW ORLEANS HANDICAP IS REDUCED

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22—(AP.)—The New Orleans handicap, formerly the richest racing stake on Southern tracks, will be reduced from $50,000 added money to $25,000 this year because of losses year.

J. M. Murphy, general manager of the Louisiana Jockey Club, estimated the race would be worth about $35,000 to the winner with the remaining fifty per cent of the sweepstake of starting and nominating fees being split between second, third and fourth place horses on a sixty-thirty-ten basis. The race will be run on February 1.

The fair grounds meet will start on New Year's and end with Mardi Gras, February 12, because of the shortness of the meet, the Lincoln birthday handicap and the Orleans kndergarten will be eliminated.

COLUMBIA LOSES KUMPF REMAINDER OF SEASON

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Columbia lost more than a football game Saturday. Hank Kumpf, of Buffalo, N. Y., backfield ace, suffered a fractured ankle in the Dartmouth game and will be out for the remainder of the year, it was believed today.

Ed Jeremiah, Dartmouth's understudy for Al Marsters, bruised his shoulder severely and it is feared that he will be lost to the team for the greater part of the season.

CREIGHTON ADMITTED TO VALLEY CONFERENCE

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 22—(AP.)—Creighton University, of Omaha, has accepted an invitation to join the Missouri Valley Conference.

The addition of Creighton is the first since Drake, Grinnell, Oklahoma A. and M. and Washington were left alone in the conference by the withdrawal of the University of Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Missouri and Iowa State and Kansas State colleges, which formed a new athletic conference, commonly called the "big six."

HEAVIES IN OPENER

With the signing of Ed Gibbons, of Duquesne, to substitute for the injured Paul Karcis against Ray Braun in the four-round heavyweight opening bout, the card is complete for tonight's swatting bee, which promises to be a gala occasion for the Garden if the bouts live up to the promise they give on paper.

Young Rudy, of Charlerol, meets Johnny Kusic, of Youngstown, in the six-round semifial; U. S. Carpentier, of New Kensington, and his long-time rival, Frankie Buff, of Natrona, box the third bout, and Joe Louder, of the South Hills, and Harry Spencer, new knockout welterweight, of Washington, Pa., are paired for the other six-round melee. The first bout is scheduled for 8:30. The boxers weigh in at 3 o'clock in the Garden gymnasium.

Bouts also are scheduled at New Castle, Johnstown and Oil City tonight. Jack Katkish, of Lawrenceville, and Young Firpo, of Louisville, are paired for the windup at New Castle; Tug Phillips, of Fayette City, meets Danny Cooney, of Trenton, N. J., in the main event at Johnstown, the show being for the benefit of the Mercy Hospital of Johnstown, and Johnny Shupack, of Paterson, N. J., and Freddie Fitzgerald, of Youngstown, clash in the windup at Oil City.

MASON WINS AGAIN

Johnny Mason, Scranton (Pa.) middleweight, under the management of Johnny Creeley, former local featherweight, scored another impressive victory Saturday night when he defeated Johnny Powers, of Terre Haute, protege of Bud Taylor, in a six-round battle at Cincinnati. Powers was knocked down twice in the second round. Mason wants to box Ook Till, Garfield Johnson or any of the other big fellows around here.

Larney Lichtenstein, manager of Baby Joe Gans, the sensational Negro lightweight, writes that he has been approached by Benny Leonard with regard to having Gans appear in a bout at Duquesne Garden here, where Benny's hockey club will hold forth.

Battling Gizzy, of Donora, and Frankie Moran, of Homewood, 132-pounders, have been matched for the second bout at McKeesport Thursday night. Johnny Ryan, of Erie, and Davey Adelman, of Philadelphia, will meet in the 10-round main bout, and Jackie Murray and Dominick Profio are paired for a return bout in the semi-final.

Joe Louder, South Hills welterweight, has been signed for two bouts by his manager, Joe Rigby. He meets Shifty Dando at Marietta, O., Thursday night, and Young Saylor, of Charlerol, at Fairmont, W. Va., November 9.

Georgie Peck, of the North Side, is matched with Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, for a six-round bout at New Castle next Friday night.

Dempsey Show Will Close This Week

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Jack Dempsey's tour in the prize fight play, "The Big Fight," will end next Saturday night in Hartford. It was expected that the road would patronize the attraction on the strength of the ex-champion's popularity, but a brief tour showed that that support was not forthcoming.

Dempsey and his wife, Estelle Taylor, new comers to the stage, made their debuts in "The Big Fight" in Buffalo on August 30. The critics there and elsewhere said that both naturally were not experienced actors and, in addition, were not materially aided by their vehicle.

The management, which consisted of Sam H. Harris, David Belasco, who staged the play; Albert Lewis and Crosby Gaige, believed, however, that the offering would be successful in the large cities.

DUNN, BALTIMORE PILOT, DIES

BALTIMORE, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore Orioles, seven-times pennant winner in the International League, died suddenly today, while riding at the dog trials of the Maryland Field Trial Association near Towson, a Baltimore suburb.

Dunn's only survivor is his widow. The death of his only son, Jack Dunn, Jr., several years ago, was a severe blow to the father, who had counted on the son to succeed him as owner and manager of the Orioles.

Even intimate friends of Dunn said they did not know his exact age, which was one fact about himself that he seldom revealed. He was born at Meadville, Pa.

Dunn was the outstanding figure in minor league baseball, and led his Orioles to seven pennants. He bought the ball team in 1910 and since has been owner, president and manager. Fiery, colorful, he was regarded as one of the keenest minds in baseball.

He started with Binghamton in New York State. After his apprenticeship in the minors he went with the New York Giants and later played with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Segrave to Use Rifle Sights on Speed Car

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—When Maj. H. O. D. This is one of the features of his new car in which he hopes to attain a speed of 240 miles per hour, perhaps more.

Steering at so enormous a speed is of inestimable difficulty. The slightest error when the car is going at four miles a minute would plunge it into the sea and mean disaster.

Maj. Segrave will try to obviate this difficulty by steering the car with sights just like a rifle, and direct it just as a bullet is directed to its target.

SHAWNEE-ON-DELAWARE, Pa., Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Jack Mackie, former New York state golf champion, won the annual Shawnee fall tournament Saturday, when he defeated E. J. Capen, of Bethlehem, Pa., 6 and 4, in the final round.

The youthful New Yorker had his hardest match of the tournament when he beat A. H. Kays in the semi-final, 1 up. Mackie, one of the longest drivers in the metropolitan district, outdrove Capen from 40 to 50 yards in the final.

Capen reached the final round by defeating R. L. Armstrong, of St. Albans, 4 and 5.

MEN WHO GUARD THEIR HEALTH SMOKE CIGARS

92% of the Principal Executives of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana are Cigar Smokers

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar [OVER A MILLION A DAY] its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality

AS this survey demonstrates, an overwhelming majority of the principals of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana are cigar smokers. This cross section of the executive preference of one of the greatest enterprises in the country is but a duplication of the smoking choice of men whose business and professional duties exact the maximum of mental and physical fitness.

They are cigar smokers, because from the cigar they receive the fulfillment of tobacco's promise . . . comfort, without penalty to nerves or throat. Slowly, leisurely, they extract from each puff of the cigar a full measure of smoking enjoyment. Here are no harried nerves, no habit, no hurried lighting of one cigar from the butt of another. The day's end finds cigar smokers awake, placid, strong.

Few of them inhale the cigar—for the rich flavor of its smoke makes inhalation an empty gesture. Palate response is immediate and wholly satisfying.

According to a prominent New York throat specialist:

"Perhaps the basic reason for the great prevalence of throat troubles is the irritating action of hot tobacco smoke on the very sensitive membranes of the mouth and throat.

"Cigar smoke is cool, because the tobacco burns slowly and the smoke is filtered and cooled as it is drawn through the cigar itself. Moreover, a cigar is made entirely of tobacco without the use of quick-burning substance for wrapper."

Make this test for a week—smoke cigars exclusively and you will find yourself feeling better, with no cough or throat irritation, improved nerves, increased vitality and less of that tired feeling.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigar—over a million a day—you can smoke them, confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

ODIE CLEGHORN HERE TODAY

By CARL W. SHATTO.

ODIE CLEGHORN, manager of the Pirate hockey club, will arrive here this evening to complete arrangements for the opening of the training season at Duquesne Garden on Thursday. Most of the players are expected to arrive tomorrow.

Practice sessions are to be held regularly until November 15, when the Boston Bruins will help the Pirates open the league race here.

Cleghorn spent the week-end in Ottawa negotiating for the purchase of Cy Denneny, veteran forward. The Pirate skipper has been authorized to purchase the Senators' wingman and Ottawa is willing to sell, but the deal will not be put through until after Cleghorn has satisfied himself that he cannot land more youthful performers. The Langlois-for-Hart deal has fallen through, according to Odie, but he hopes to make Providence heed a cash-for-Hart offer.

same time cool and collected leader as Tech boasts in Harpster. Never flustered, he is a hair-trigger thinker and one of the most resourceful quarterbacks this writer ever has gazed upon in action.

FIGURING in all of Tech's scoring plays, Harpster also was prominent at all other stages. He intercepted an enemy forward pass and ran 65 yards for the first touchdown, threw off the defense by feinting a forward pass to the right and then tossing it to Rosenzweig, the end, for the second score from a considerable distance out, in the fourth quarter, and, with the ball on the one-foot line in the closing minutes, dove from a crouched position behind the center onto the ball and shoved it over the goal line for the final tally. Throughout, his punting and returning of punts were a feature, and his defensive work, especially a tackle out in the open when a W. & J. back got loose returning a punt, was brilliant and spectacular. During that pinch in the first quarter, he coolly faked a punt from behind his goal line and, with the opposition swarming on top of him, threw a long forward pass to another back, who came close to having a clear field for a touchdown.

It is of such sterling stuff as Harpster displayed in this first game of the season in which the blanket has been taken off him that all-America stars are made, and, if he does not figure heavily in the reckoning of all-star players when the curtain is rung down on the present campaign, then I don't know a football player when I see one.

Will Mr. Harpster please take a bow before the readers of this column?

THERE is one player in the Tech backfield who, it strikes me, does not get the credit to which he is generally entitled. I have reference to Cyril Letzelter, the halfback. He is just about as handy a guy to have around as any coach could ask. Offensively and defensively he leaves little to be desired. A steady, plugging, consistent performer, he is lost sight of in a constellation of stars that includes the heady Harpster, the krashing Karcis, the marauding Moorhead, the kunning Kennedy, the eel-like Eyth and others. But he is not the least of these, not by a long shot.

Despite the fact that W. & J. is having a bit of an off-season, the Presidents have several players of better than ordinary ability. The first-string backfield is well balanced, with the versatile Gilchrist at full, Robinson and Shoemaker at the halves and Edwards at quarter, Capt. Aschman is a corking center and Jap Douds at tackle has lost little of his fighting spark on defense. The team should come anlog and be better at the end of the campaign than it has been so far.

IT'S Pitt vs. Tech next Saturday, and the stars say Tech should win. The Tartans have shown a co-ordinated attack and power that the Panthers thus far have been unable to develop. But, then, the dope doesn't always run true to form when natural rivals clash. Very often the underdog rises to the great emotional heights that win football games.

SEVEN TIED

0 and 19 to 0 over Rutgers and Wash-Jeff.

ORANGE IMPRESSIVE

The Syracuse-Nebraska game at Lincoln, the big East vs. West conflict of the day, was marked by an unparalleled use of the forward pass, which produced both of the touchdowns scored. By its great proficiency in the use of the pass as flung by Capt. Hal Baysinger, Syracuse outgained the home team but lost the chance for the tie it deserved when a luckless substitute, called into the game to boot for the extra point, kicked wide.

Although in this game with its total of 32 passes by Baysinger alone, of which half were complete, the throwing game reached its high-water mark, there was scarcely a single contest anywhere in which the aerial attack did not play a large part, usually scoring at least one touchdown.

GLASSPORT TEAM WINS OVER EAST M'KEESPORT

Glassport C. M. C. scored an 18-to-0 victory Saturday over East McKeesport at Cycler Park, McKeesport, in a well-played game. Two touchdowns, a field goal and a safety figured in the scoring by the Glassporters.

Dix scored the first point for the C. M. C. outfit in the second quarter, when he booted a placement kick between the uprights. Glassport later registered a safety in the same period. Dugan scored the first touchdown for the C. M. C. gridders in the third quarter, when he caught a forward pass. Dix added the extra point. Greinert counted the second touchdown in the fourth quarter.

LOOMIS BUYS FILLY

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 22—George Loomis, veteran Grand Circuit reinsman of this city, has purchased the yearling trotting filly Hollyrood Judith, by Peter Volo-Jane Dillon, from John L. Dodge, Lexington, Ky. The horse is an own sister to Hollyrood Highboy that Loomis has campaigned successfully the past two seasons.

Tartans, Dukes Unbeaten

defeated and untied eleven in the section, Saturday, Davis-Elkins, which had been a third perfect eleven, ran into a tough spot at Fairmont and was tied by the Quantico Marines. The Marines had the ball game in the bag until the last period, when a long forward pass brought Henderson's club the tying goal.

Grove City drove another spike into its claim on the tri-state minor college title by beating the punchgoofy Westminster eleven, 14 to 6. It was the fourth setback in as many starts for the United Presbyterians. The Grovers were tied by St. Francis in their opening game.

THIEL DEFEATED

Geneva scored a touchdown and the extra point in every period to spoil Thiel's Homecoming Day celebration at Greenville, and won a 28-to-0 victory, thus remaining at the top of the Conference standing. Stan Berkman, who is to Thiel what Harpster is to Tech and would be to any other team in the country, got out of bed Saturday morning, where he had been confined with an attack of the flu for a week, to play against Geneva. With Berkman in condition, Geneva would have had a sterner task.

Waynesburg and Bethany played to a 7-7 deadlock at Waynesburg. St. Francis kicked George Washington around for a 32-0 victory at Altoona. Better keep an eye on the Saints. They've tied Grove City and beaten Westminster so far.

West Virginia Wesleyan traveled East again and Lou Little's Georgetown Hilltoppers beat 'em, 34-7. Penn State was unable to duplicate its 1927 stunt of crushing Penn. The Philadelphia varsity gave Bezdek his second setback in a row by winning, 14 to 0.

Hank Hangartner and Carl Snavley demonstrated that their Bucknell Bisons will bear further watching by hanging a scoreless tie on Herb McCracken's Lafayette Leopards. That probably cost Herb a sleepless night. He had been running up some hefty scores prior to meeting Bucknell.

W. VA. WINS FOURTH

West Virginia added the Washington and Lee eleven to the list that includes Pitt, Wesleyan and the Haskell Indians, topping the Generals at Clarksburg by a 22-0 score. If Ira Rodgers could only rub out that 7-0 sock D. & E. served up in the opening game, he'd have the world by the tail.

Games this week, with Pitt and Tech stealing the big noise by clashing in their annual battle here in the stadium, promise action aplenty. The Dukes hit Geneva at Beaver Falls in a clash that may settle once and for all the question of Conference supremacy. Wash.-Jeff. has a hard afternoon's work ahead for Saturday in New York, where Fordham is to be played.

Syracuse and Penn State will furnish excitement as the teams clash at State College. The Orange evidenced great power, both on the offense and defense when it held Nebraska to a paltry 7-6 score. West Virginia has a tartar in the strong Lafayette eleven at Easton. Grove City invades Meadville for a fracas with Allegheny. Waynesburg and West Virginia Wesleyan will carry on at Buckhannon. Thiel and Westminster play at New Wilmington. Both elevens need a victory, especially the Titans. Davis-Elkins hikes out to Cleveland to play Ralph Vince's John Carroll gridders.

WASH-JEFF

WASHINGTON, Pa., Oct. 22.—With several players crippled and all stiff and sore, the Washington Jefferson College gridders today commenced to make preparations for their game with Fordham at the Polo Grounds, New York city, next Saturday. They were far from disheartened over the result of the struggle with Carnegie Tech. They feel that their old foes for once enjoyed all the "breaks" of the game and that they were a big factor in the piling up of three touchdowns against them.

MONACA GRIDDER HURT

TECH THIRD IN SCORING

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Georgetown, by virtue of an easy victory over West Virginia Wesleyan Saturday, continues to lead Eastern colleges in the race for football's team scoring honors. Georgetown now has tallied 205 points, more than 40 points better than Lafayette's total of 162 for second place. Just back of Lafayette are Pennsylvania and Carnegie Tech with 161.

Pennsylvania, however, boasts an uncrossed goal line, an honor she shares among unbeaten and untied colleges only with Temple and Tufts.

College	G.	W.	L.	T.	OP.	TP

GRIMES TO BE HONOR GUEST AT BANQUET

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., Oct. 22.—Burleigh Grimes, pitching ace of the Pittsburgh Pirates who winters at Minerva, near here, has accepted an invitation to be guest of honor at the East Liverpool Industrial Baseball League dinner in the Potters' auditorium here Wednesday. Harry (Hi) Meyers, of Kensington, former East Liverpool boy, who has become a village banker since his retirement as outfielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers and St. Louis Cardinals, and Howard Shanks, of Monaca, Pa., coach of the Cleveland Indians, also will attend.

Eastern Scoring Lead Taken by N. Y. U. Star

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Ken Strong's field day at Rutger's expense has carried the star New York University halfback to the top of the eastern college individual scoring ladder. Strong scored four touchdowns and kicked five extra points against Rutgers Saturday and raised his season's total to 68 points. Langmaid, of Williams, holds second place with 56 points while Al Marster, leader a week ago, is third with 49. Marsters, however, was unable to get into the Columbia game because of an injured leg.

The ten leading scorers, as compiled from a representative group of colleges follow:

TUBERS LOSE TO HEIDELBERG IN OPENER

By TOM BIRKS.

A brilliant day yesterday brought out large crowds to watch the local soccer schedule. Three games were staged in the American League. Heidelberg opened its season with a victory over the McKeesport National Tube, the score being 5 to 0. The Green and Gold tornado was stepping in its old form. The defense was good and the forward line as usual able to get goals.

The big surprise of the day came when the Dunlevy team playing the Cornithians at Curry, was able to get only a scoreless tie. Either the Corinthians have been underrated, or the Dunlevy boys have lost their shooting form. Benick, the Corinthian goalkeeper, was the individual star, saving two penalty kicks in the last 10 minutes of play.

The third game of the American loop found the German Sport Club swamping the East Pittsburgh Mayrads at Chambers field by a 7 to 0 score. While it must be admitted that the Hungarians are weak this fall, that scoring machine of the German club is working overtime. Then the defense is also operating. The Meisenberg team should prove a power in the cup ties this winter.

In the Monongahela loop, Gallatin played the Vesta club to a 2-to-2 tie. Dunlevy Juniors won from the local rivals, the Monongahela City Club 1 to 0. Vestaburgh and Vesta No. 6 played also to a tie, each club scoring twice. The last game found Mather defeating Marietta, 2 goals to 1.

The Chartiers Valley loop played some interesting contests. Cuddy beat Canonsburg by a 2 goals to 1 score. Heidelburg Juniors played in tip top form and stopped its rivals by a goals to 1 count. Curry in a scoring mood, tallied 5 goals while Bethel was only able to find the net once. Thoms Run defeated Library, 3 to 0.

U. S. STAR, CUBAN IN CHESS DRAWS

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Two draws in which Marshall of the United States and Capablanca of Cuba figured, marked the ninth round of the International Chess Masters' tournament here yesterday. Reti, of Czechoslovakia, was the only winner. The summaries:

First board—Sppielmann, Austria, drew with Capablanca, Cuba, the game being even throughout.

Second board—Reti, Czechoslovakia, defeated Dr. Tartakower, France, after winning a piece.

Third board—Nimzowitsch, Denmark, drew with Marshall, United States, after a struggle in which honors were even throughout.

Speculation Records Broken in Chicago.

—By B. C. FORBES.—

CHICAGO, Oct. 21.

STOCK speculation in Chicago is breaking all records. Transactions on the local exchange a year ago were under 50,000 shares a day. They have climbed close to 500,000 shares a day. Thursday and Friday were the biggest days ever. Forty million shares are listed. Seats have soared from $5,000 to $60,000, eclipsing all but the most sensational performers on the stock list. Members are so swamped that many orders have gone abegging, floor brokers being too busy to handle them.

To utter caution is useless. Only please remember that the abnormal rarely lasts long. Chicago business leaders take a sanely optimistic view of the general business outlook.

SUCH complaints as are voiced are usually in regard to overproduction and narrow price margins. Some doubts are expressed concerning ability to rent all the colossal office structures completed, under way and planned.

H. A. Scandrett, president Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, who has just returned from a trip with the directors and bankers of the railroad over the main line from Chicago to Seattle and Tacoma, and from Aberdeen, S. D., through Sioux City and Savannah to Chicago, told me:

"We found conditions good and indicative of continued improvement. Taking the territory served by this road as a whole, good crops have been raised; this will be reflected in general business conditions.

'The Pacific Northwest and inland empire will long continue foremost in lumber production and their abundance of water power and natural resources, together with adequate transportation facilities and delightful and healthful climate, seem to assure for them a great industrial development.

'The Columbia basin irrigation project in Eastern Washington promises much for that region and of Spokane, its busy metropolis. Should Congress act favorably, the project would aid tremendously in the development of this section.

"The mining industry in Montana and Idaho is distinctly on the upgrade, and other conditions are quite promising.

'This year to date we have had a material increase in net revenues. We have bought 4,650 new freight cars, and laid more new rail than in previous years."

PRIOR to 1922 the United States had never used as much as 100,000,000 barrels of Portland cement in a single year. Shipments have increased to about 170,000,000 in 1927.

But in 1922 the producing capacity was about 150,000,000 barrels. The capacity now is about 250,000,000 barrels. Thus producing capacity has grown much more rapidly than demand.

A large demand doubtless will continue, but the present capacity is considerably greater than the country needs, which means enforced curtailment by some or all cement plants.

For many years the tariff on imports was 8 cents per 100 pounds, but since 1915 cement has been on the free list. Foreign cement makers with low wages and low ocean freights can and do undersell domestic producers at nearly all ocean ports.

B. F. AFFLECK, president Universal Portland Cement Company, is concerned over overproduction. He observed.

"George M. Reynolds, head of Chicago's $1,000,000,000 Continental National Bank, said: 'The present status of agriculture, manufacturing and merchandising is on the average fair to good. There has been some improvement during the year, and especially in the past few months. The agricultural communities have done well and will have an increased spending power which will be helpful to other communities.'

"'Total trade has not been quite as brisk this year as was to have been expected, but the volume has been satisfactory in the main.

"'Great deal of construction work is under way.

"'A good many people are out of employment, but there are very few complaints of dull business due to unemployment.

"'If stock market speculation should not cause serious trouble, I see no reason why the year might not end satisfactory.'"

STOCK MARKET TREND TURNS BEARISH

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—(AP.)—Speculative sentiment turned decidedly bearish in today's stock market. Heavy selling carried a long line of recent favorites down 1 to 6 points, with breaks of 6 to 15 points in a few of the high priced specialties. Coppers were a conspicuous exception to the general downward trend, at least six issues in that group moving to new high ground on buying influenced by reports of a further stiffening in red metal prices. A few specialties also showed independent strength, National Tea soaring 245 points.

There was nothing in the business news over the week-end to account for the change in speculative sentiment as most of the trade and mercantile reports continued favorable in character. Several of the large commission houses urged a lightening of long committments on the ground that the rapidity of the recent advance had weakened the technical position of the market, and carried several issues beyond their intrinsic worth. Others regarded the national election, only two weeks away, as likely to mark a turning point in the market, although no effort was made to associate the price movement with the outcome.

Credit conditions were slightly more favorable. Call money renewed at 6½ per cent and dropped to 6, with a plentiful supply available. Time money was quoted at 7 per cent for nearby maturities and 6¾ for the longer dates.

Recent dissolution of pools in some of the motor and accessory shares also caused some uneasiness in speculative quarters, as indicating a lack of confidence in the future trend. Adams Express recorded an extreme decline of 15 points and Radio, Montgomery Ward and Johns Manville sold 5 or more points below Saturday's final quotations, after an early display of strength. Murray Corporation broke 7 points and Du Pont, Wright, Loose Wiles, Collins & Aikman, Midland Steel Products preferred and Rossia Insurance sold down 3 points or more. Selling pressure also was in evidence against such recent favorites as General Motors, U. S. Steel common and Hudson. Freeport Texas broke 6 points to a new low at 43.

In the copper group, Anaconda, Kennecott, Granby Nevada, Seneca, Cerro de Pasco and Miami moved into new high ground. Recent sale of additional common stock to finance the reopening of the Seneca mines, which can operate at a profit at present copper price levels, was an important factor in the accumulation of that isue. Fresh buying came into International Nickel on the publication of Canadian dispatches that British interests had acquired control of that issue.

BLAW KNOX SCORES FURTHER GAIN IN LOCAL MARKET

BOND PURCHASE PROTECTED BY CLOSE PROBE

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Before the public is asked to put its money into a new bond issue months of the most careful investigation have been undertaken by the investment bankers originating the offering. Every conceivable angle of the income and security behind the new financing is carefully considered before the transaction is closed and the bonds sold to investors. Sometimes, after over $100,000 has been spent in investigations, the issue is found unsound and the bond house has to write off this cost of protecting its customers' money.

John A. Beattie, of Dillon, Read & Company in describing work which precedes a new offering has said:

"Today we might be loaning money to South America, France, Germany, Italy, Australia, Poland or any foreign country. A few days later we are considering the financing of a public utility, a motion picture company, an investment trust, an automobile company or any one of a thousand others, making it necessary for us to have a broad geographical, as well as industrial viewpoint.

EXPERIENCED MEN

"Our investigation department is composed of men who have had sound business and industrial experience. They are not bankers except insofar as they have learned banking since their association with us. They are men who were formerly executives of large industrial companies. Their experience has been such that they can investigate a piece of business and when they accept it or reject it they know what they are talking about. They have had experience in plant organization, operation, management, personnel and valuations of fixed assets.

"As an example of how we go about investigating a piece of business I shall take a specific case: Broadway Department Stores, of Los Angeles. This was handled by a former executive vice president of one of the largest and best-known mechandising firms in this country. He with his assistants spent almost two months in Los Angeles on this particular deal, looking over properties, meeting the organization, studying the men who were going to run the business, checking them up in every possible way, and studying their subordinates, the men who probably will run it in the future, getting statistics as to department-store sales in Los Angeles and the percentage of those sales represented by the Broadway Department Store, its situation from the standpoint of accessibility, studying the past and possible future growth of the city, conferring with city officials as to future transit plans and what effect they might have on bringing the public to and from the store.

"COMPLETE PICTURE"

"In other words," continued Mr. Beattie, "he got a complete picture and while he was doing this, his assistants were going over the figures, breaking down the balance sheets, and working with the public accountants. We in New York also were studying the general department store situation so as to pass intelligently on the industry, the question of credit turnover and the future trend of the business.

"When all this had been done and the results were put together, the report was submitted to the new business committee. After they had arrived at their conclusions, it was discussed with the firm as a whole and a decision was reached to do business."

But the work of the underwriting bond issue does not end with this preliminary study and the sale of the bonds. Mr. Beattie further described the system for maintaining permanent contracts with the organization so that the owners of the securities can be continuously informed of developments in the company in which their money has been placed.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Oct. 22.—Lower prices for wheat and higher prices for corn proved to be the rule today in the early dealings. Lack of any aggressive wheat buying in the face of increasing supplies tended to depress wheat, whereas wet weather over the corn belt gave strength to the corn market. Opening ⅛c to ⅛c off, wheat recovered somewhat, but then sagged again. Corn started ⅛c to ⅜c higher, and subsequently advanced a little more. Oats were firm. Provisions eased down.

At noon wheat was ⅛ to ⅜c net lower, and corn at ⅝c to 1⅛c advance.

Fresh declines in wheat values today came about despite Liverpool advices that considerable resistance to downturns was developing abroad. It was pointed out in this connection that Liverpool stocks of wheat were being cleaned, and that the amount of wheat on ocean passage was much under the total a year ago. On the other hand, latest estimates of the world surplus of wheat were in excess of a billion bushels, and indications were pointing to a further enlargement today of figures on the United States visible stocks.

Rains, which were reported as putting a stop to husking for at least a time, gave a notable upward trend to the corn market. Besides, further downpours were expected tonight. Meanwhile, talk was current that more corn than usual has been contracted for ahead of picking time. Another bullish influence was a semi-official report that the Italian corn crop this season is 61,795,000 bushels, against 87,550,000 bushels last year, and that the yield of rice in Italy is 60,000 tons less than for 1927.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The raw sugar market was unchanged early today, with no sales reported and spots quoted at 3.93c duty paid. With the exception of October, which opened up 8 points on covering by belated shorts, the sugar futures prices were unchanged to 1 point higher. Houses with trade connections were buying, but the volume of trading was of limited proportions. Midday prices were net unchanged to 1 point higher, except October, which was nominally 8 points higher. Houses with European connections were credited with selling the more distant positions. A fair withdrawal demand was reported in refined, but new business was light. Prices were unchanged at 5.25 to 5.30c for fine granulated.

SEES PGH. PERIL IN LOW TARIFF

Allegheny county as the world's greatest steel center would be dealt a smashing blow by lowering of tariff on imports, Auditor General Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, told nearly 1,000 women today at a rally in the ball room of the William Penn Hotel.

The protective tariff policy of the Republican party is essential to the welfare of the workers and their families in this district, Martin declared in urging support for Herbert Hoover.

"Living conditions in America are the best in the history of the world," said Martin. "They must be continued. The protective tariff will do this."

Mrs. Worthington Scranton, of Scranton; Mrs. A. S. Keck, of Altoona, and others also addressed the gathering.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

Dealings for fruit and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district were good today and the quotations were about unchanged.

The poultry market was about steady and the demand fair. Supplies were liberal and the quotations were unchanged.

The butter market was weak. Eggs and cheese were steady. No change was made in the quotations on these markets.

Car-lot supplies were very heavy, a total of 8560 cars being on track. Included in the arrivals were 25 cars of apples, 7 cabbage, 2 cantaloupes, 5 celery, 2 grapefruits, 136 grapes, 2 lemons, 5 lettuce, 3 onions, 12 oranges, 11 pears, 9 peppers, 3 spinach, 5 potatoes, 11 sweet potatoes, 2 tomatoes, 6 cauliflowers, 1 turnips, 1 cranberries and 1 prunes.

HAY AND GRAIN.

Receipts.

Pennsylvania Railroad — Twenty-eight cars of hay, 1 straw, 7½ shelled corn, 9½ oats, 1 rye, 1 flour and 1 wheat. Baltimore and Ohio Railroad—Three cars of hay and 1 straw. Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad—One car of hay. Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railroad—One car of hay.

NO. 670.
AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto the Duquesne Light Company, its successors and assigns, the right and privilege to construct, maintain, use and operate a sub-marine cable crossing sign on Seymour street at the westerly end of said street where said street adjoins the United States Harbor Line of the Ohio River in the Twenty-seventh Ward of the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That the Duquesne Light Company, its successors and assigns, be and it is hereby given the right, privilege and authority to construct, maintain, use and operate at its own cost and expense a sub-marine cable crossing sign located on Seymour street at the westerly end of said street where said street adjoins the United States Harbor Line of the Ohio River, said sub-marine cable crossing sign to be Thirty-six (36) feet in length and eighteen (18) feet in height over all, said sub-marine cable crossing sign to be constructed of wood and sheet steel and to be used for the purpose of giving warning and notice to passing steamers and other boats using the Ohio River that electric cables cross the river at that point.
The said sub-marine cable crossing sign shall be constructed according to the provisions of this Ordinance and further in accord with the plans hereto attached and identified as Accession No. B-334, Folder B in the files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works and entitled "Cable crossing sign, on Seymour street, 27th Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa., for the Duquesne Light Co."
Section 2. The said company, prior to the beginning of the construction of the said sub-marine cable crossing sign, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the City of Pittsburgh a complete set of plans in triplicate, showing the location and all details for the construction of the said sign, said plans and the construction of the same to be subject to the approval and supervision of the Director of the Department of Public Works.
Section 3. The right and privilege herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers and supervision over city streets, and also the Ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto, and to the provisions of any general Ordinances which have been or may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of sub-marine cable crossing sign on city streets and compensation for the same.
Section 4. The Duquesne Light Company shall bear the full cost and expense of repairing any portion of said street which may be in any way damaged or disturbed by reason of the construction, maintenance, use and operation of said sign. All of the work in connection with the construction of said sign shall be done in a manner and at such times as the Director of the Department of Public Works may order and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.
Section 5. The right and privilege granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of said sub-marine cable crossing sign upon giving to the Duquesne Light Company, its successors and assigns, at least Six (6) months written notice from the proper officials of the city, pursuant to a resolution or Ordinance of Council to the Duquesne Light Company, its successors or assigns, to that effect; and that said Duquesne Light Company, its successors or assigns, when so notified, shall at or before the expiration of said Six (6) months period remove the said sign and replace the street in its original condition at its own cost and expense.
Section 6. The Duquesne Light Company, its successors and assigns, shall assume any and all liability and shall save the City of Pittsburgh harmless from and against all damages to persons or property, including the street and sub-surface structures therein, caused by or arising out of the construction, maintenance, use and operation of said sign, and it is a conditon of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.
Section 7. The foregoing right and privilege are granted subject to the conditions that this ordinance shall become null and void unless within thirty days after its enactment by Council and approval by the Mayor of the City of Pittsburgh the Duquesne Light Company shall file with the proper officers of the City of Pittsburgh its Certificate of Acceptance, accepting the provisions of this Ordinance, said Certificate of Acceptance to be executed by the President or Vice President and Secretary or Assistant Secretary of the Company, with its corporate seal affixed thereto.
Section 8. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.
Passed in Council Oct. 15, 1928.
Approved Oct. 19, 1928.
CHARLES H. KLINE, Mayor.
Recorded in O. B. Vol. 40, page 446.

NO. 671.
AN ORDINANCE—Granting unto Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, its successors and assigns, the right to construct, maintain and use six 2" pipe lines under and across Preble avenue, for the purpose of transporting oil from the Manchester Plant to the Juniata Plant property of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, situate on the west and east sides of Preble avenue, respectively, in the 21st Ward, City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania.
Section 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same. That Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, its successors and assigns, be and are hereby given the right and authority, at its own cost and expense, to construct, maintain and use six 2" pipe lines under and across Preble avenue from a point located 78 feet 10 inches north of the northerly line of Juniata street thence under and across Preble avenue for a distance of 50 feet and at an approximate depth of 4 feet 6 inches from grade of street, for the purpose of transporting oil from the Manchester plant located on the westerly side of Preble avenue to the Juniata plant located on the easterly side of Preble avenue, properties of Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, 21st Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa.
The said six 2" pipe lines shall be constructed in accordance with the provisions of this Ordinance and in accordance with the plan hereto attached and identified as Accession No. B-333, Folder "B" in the files of the Division of Public Utilities, Bureau of Highways and Sewers, Department of Public Works, entitled, "Proposed six 2" pipe lines under and across Preble avenue for Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, 21st Ward, Pittsburgh, Pa."
Section 2. The said party, prior to beginning the construction of the said pipe line, shall submit to the Director of the Department of Public Works of the said city a complete set of plans showing the location and all details for the construction of said pipe lines, and said plans and the construction of said pipe line shall be subject to the approval and supervision of the said Director.
Section 3. The rights and privileges herein granted shall be subject and subordinate to the rights of the City of Pittsburgh and its powers over city streets, and to the Ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh relating thereto, and to the provisions of any general Ordinance which may hereafter be passed relating to the construction, maintenance and use of pipe line in city streets and compensation for same.
Section 4. The said grantee shall bear the full cost and expense of the repaving and repair of the street pavement damaged, repair of sewers, water lines and other surface and sub-surface structures which may be in any way damaged or disturbed by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of said pipe line. All of the said work, including the paving of the street damaged, shall be done in the manner and at such times as the Director may order, and shall be subject to his approval and supervision.
Section 5. The rights and privileges granted by this Ordinance are granted upon the express condition that the City of Pittsburgh, without liability, reserves the right to cause the removal of the said pipe line, upon giving six (6) months' notice through the proper officers pursuant to resolution or ordinance of Council to Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, its successors and assigns, to that effect; and that the said grantee, when so notified, shall at the expiration of the said six (6) months forthwith, remove the said pipe line and replace the street to its original condition, at its own cost and expense.
Section 6. The said grantee shall assume any liability of the City of Pittsburgh for damages to persons or property, including the street and sub-surface structures therein, by reason of the construction, maintenance and use of the said pipe line, and it is a condition of this grant that the City of Pittsburgh assumes no liability to either persons or property on account of this grant.
Section 7. The foregoing rights and privileges are granted subject to the following condition, to-wit: This Ordinance shall become null and void unless within thirty (30) days after its passage and approval Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Company, shall file with the City Controller its Certificate of Acceptance of the provisions thereof, said certificate to be executed by the President

Allegheny General Seeks Two Million for Hospital

Some time ago announcement was made that the Allegheny General Hospital was seeking $5,000,000 to be used for the erection of a new 15-story building. The fund now is a half million dollars past the half way mark—over the crest of the hill, with $3,000,000. The remaining $2,000,000 is to be raised through an intensive subscription campaign, in which an army of 800 men and women will be engaged. The drive is to be publicly initiated at a dinner in the William Penn Hotel Friday evening, October 26. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman will be the speaker.

The present plant of the Allegheny General, in use 24 years, is inadequate to the demands made upon it. Yet, with limited capacity, it treated more than 23,000 patients in all departments last year, Dr. Maitland Alexander, president of the institution, announces. But it finds itself cramped. Like other hospitals in Pittsburgh, which have enlarged or rebuilt in the past few years, it finds its resources and facilities unequal to the heavy burden placed upon them.

So it goes before the people for whom it does its work of mercy and asks them to make it possible to do more and to do it with strengthened arms—modern heart station, modern diet kitchen, modern emergency and out-patient departments and other factors which remove treatment of disease from the realm of miracle to that of science and efficiency.

Allegheny General gives help when it is needed. Now that it needs help it certainly will not be withheld.

Don't Let Indifference Defeat Vote Machine

While you may be deeply and justifiably concerned in the success of your favorite candidate for President, there is something in this election that directly concerns you and is much more important in so far as election will effect you, personally.

That is the fate of several amendments to the Pennsylvania constitution, notably the one for the Metropolitan plan, No. 14, and that permitting the use of voting machines, No. 13. It is well to fix these numbers in mind before election day because the list of amendments to be approved or rejected by the voters numbers 17. You should become familiar with all of them and remember especially that Nos. 13 and 14 are more important to you than whom will be President.

The voting machine amendment is the most important of all, since it provides an assurance of vote counts that are honest. For that reason, it is said, the word has been passed around to defeat that amendment. You need the voting machine to safeguard your vote for President and other offices in the future.

Don't let the amendments that interest you vitally be defeated because of your indifference to anything but the national election.

White and Willebrandt

That WOULD Be a Combination?

William Allen White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, returns from Europe, determined, although he admires Gov. Smith, to make it impossible for him to be President.

What a wonderful combination if Mr. White and Mrs. Willebrandt, the doughty Assistant Attorney General, would work together.

Backed by such a team as Billy Sunday and Aimee Semple McPherson, the combination would be irresistible.

Recently, however, Aimee Semple McPherson was in Paris, seeing the sights in Montmartre, and, to use her own expression, "standing at the brink of hell and looking down."

The pure-minded girl from Los Angeles doesn't KNOW, and somebody should TELL her, that as she stands at that brink of hell, the people standing with her, enjoying the sights, are all Americans, British or Russians. The French don't bother with such trash, they know too much, have too good taste.

Britain Is Quite Sincere

Uncle Same Is Not Supposed to Think.

The British now publish the secret agreement between Britain and France which, according to President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, was aimed directly at the United States.

Britain is sincerely surprised by the unusually emphatic note sent from this country, for the British honestly considered us too dull to understand what a treaty means, or too apathetic to do anything in our own defense.

That's not surprising, considering what Lord Balfour did with our boy statesmen at the Washington conference, persuading us to destroy our best battleships, including some not completed, while Europe destroyed a few worthless craft and some blueprints.

Power Is Wealth

Ireland Has It.

A message from Ireland announces great success for the Shannon power plan, harnessing the Shannon River.

Mr. McGilligan, Irish Minister of Commerce, predicts a gigantic impetus in Irish prosperity.

It is expected also that the North of Ireland will be more interested in joining with the South of Ireland for the sake of cheap power. The North is practical. And power is wealth, and vice versa.

KEEPING CLOSE WATCH

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Diary of a modern Pepys: Out in a flood of sunshine and espied Monta Bell, the cinema director, in the avenue crowds, but after a block chase he had vanished. So talked to Marie Dressler, the play actress, who told of her great love for California.

To lunch with Hamish and Aimee McLaurin, who had been hibernating in Honolulu, and nobody seems to remain in New York any more save for a short visit. And stood fascinated on a corner for a half hour watching riveters pitch and toss red hot bolts.

Home and labored until the light grew grumpy and walked with my dog, meeting a venerable cabman, who said he had not had a fare for three days. But what he charged me for a drive around Central Park probably made up the deficit. Then to a birthday dinner for Roy Howard's mother on the St. Regis roof. And to bed.

Beyond One Hundred and Tenth street on First avenue there stretches the most opulent of the city's Little Italies, extending to One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street. The Italian quarter springing up there is the last stand of wealthy Italians before spreading to private mansions and toney apartments.

Here are vegetable, olive oil and spaghetti merchants, most of whom are prosperous. Few vendettas and mysterious throat slittings, often marking Italian neighborhoods, are recorded. Conversation is mostly in English.

The pronounced poverty of the newly arrived in Mulberry Bend is missing. The big step in Americanization has been achieved. Frequent fete days are colorful, the streets being arched with decorations and the upstairs flats spangled with manyhued lights. No people can get so much out of a fete as the Italians.

The underworld order, "Take him for a ride!" grips gangland in a white faced terror. The victim vanishes. The prix fixe for a "ride" is $200—one half down, the other half when the "ride" is finished.

In other days a command to murder was "Put him on a boat!" Among vicious killers the unrefined term "murder" is never employed.

O, yes, in the night clubs the scamps who prey on women are called "wolf men." And ladies who vice versa are "cobras." And how they coil!

A gentleman signing himself Otto Daad Tennet wires collect his names are the same spelled backward, and inquires the price for broadcasting this sensation. No charge and we hope it helps in a big way. But if anything else develops concerning it we shall expect Mr. Tennet to pay telegraph charges. We didn't marry into a telegraph family.

We have a dirty notion to telegraph Mr. Tennet collect that Otto Floto, the sporting writer, has four O's in his name.

It just came to me this morning that those fellows who corner you, hold to your coat lapel and punctuate their talk with "I mean" never have anything important to say. And I have been listening to them earnestly for years.

* * *

Out-of-town correspondents continually flatter us with intimations of our sophistication. They seem to picture us in doublet and hose, vaulting to the top of a tavern table nightly to lead in a drinking song. As a matter of fact it was only last night we discovered you can get into any night club without one of those carefully numbered membership cards they send out.

Bible Passages

The Birth of Jesus

(Luke 2: 1-20)

AND it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed.

(And this taxing was first made when Cyrenius was governor of Syria.)

And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judea, unto the city of David, which is called Bethlehem; (because he was of the house and lineage of David:)

To be taxed with Mary, his espoused wife, being great with child.

And so it was, that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered.

And she brought forth her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night.

And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord.

And this shall be a sign unto you: Ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying,

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the shepherds returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen, as it was told unto them.

Why Stop It?

ACCORDING to Moscow dispatches, the director of a Communist soap factory was heavily reprimanded by the government for selling soap with a picture of the late Czar stamped upon it.

Why stop it? There isn't a much better way for Russians to show that they wash their hands of Czarism.

Human Mechanism

YOU are very careful to have your car hitting on all fours, sixes or eights.

But you are pretty careless about that most valuable of all machines—the human mechanism.

You take your car to a mechanic, even before it shows any signs of needing a little doctoring.

You want to be sure that no serious defects are developing, but you drive yourself forward when you know your symptoms all indicate a weakening somewhere.

When you feel so badly that you can't get along with your regular routine you go to a physician, not before.

You know and fear results if you are careless with your automobile.

But you act as if you feared you would get well when you fail to consult a man who has been educated to help human ills.

So far you have been able to keep going.

Perhaps you think you have rid yourself of certain ailments which have made you miserable at different times.

Sometimes such a little thing can ruin one's health irreparably.

It is finding the trouble before it gets rooted that's important.

It may save you from serious trouble.

ANIMAL PSYCHOLOGY

By Garrett P. Serviss

THE Dutch psychologist, Dr. F. Buytendijk, has taken up the challenge of the materialists in a book on the "Psychology of Animals," just translated into French. In considering the nature and meaning of animal behavior he places himself at the opposite pole of that occupied by Jacques Loeb, the great protagonist of the doctrine of "tropism," which teaches, in substance, that animals are governed in their apparently voluntary actions only by the influence of external voluntary actions only by the influence of external excitation, physical or chemical. Loeb assembled many curious instances of the attraction of light, heat, nutritive influences, etc., upon living creatures, which would lead to the conclusion that their movements are as involuntary as those of a stone falling to the earth by gravitational attraction.

Buytendijk goes to the contrary extreme, and finds a psychological element even in the movements of unicellular animals. He offers a definition which excludes the tropism theory in the following words:

"That which defines an action, animal or human, is the aim toward which it tends, and not merely the movements into which it may be decomposed."

In his opinion, based upon long years of study of animal behavior in the Institute of Animal Psychology which he has established in Amsterdam, there is no precise boundary between man and the other animals, but there is to be found in all animal world an "immaterial finality," inconsistent with mechanistic theories, but indicating a controlling idea in nature.

"The psychology of animals shows," says he, "that living nature reposes upon ideas possessing a fitting, logical unity, outside of and above individuals, and in our personal consideration of life we should seek this unity in a world soul, or in the existence of a God."

To this a mechanistic critic sarcastically responds: "So we assist at the renaissance of the idea of God in a book of a scientific allure."

But is science, then, so inimical in its nature to the "idea of God" that no work based on scientific observation must even hint at the existence of a Creator? I do not believe that the majority of men of science would subscribe to any such notion. Dr. Buytendijk's observations lead him to conclude that neither mechanics nor chemistry can explain the activities of animal life. Upon reflection he can find no solution except that there is a controlling intelligence governing a great plan for existence of which the phenomena of vital action and psychology form a part. If this is not a scientific idea, at least it interferes with no legitimate aim of science, and considered as a hypothesis is not a whit more illogical than some of the theories that are offered on the other side. It will be a sad day for humanity when everything is excluded from consideration that cannot be demonstrated in a laboratory. "Then dies the man in you."

Tales That Are Told

The Worm Turned

THE youthful actor found the play very difficult to follow. He made many blunders. In despair the producer asked him to read his part.

The young man gripped the script tightly in both hands to prevent it from trembling and read:

As it happened, Elton was being played by an old and very irritable actor.

"There, you young upstart," he cried, "don't you tell me what to do!"

The lad took a deep breath.

"I was only reading the part."

The old actor's face grew redder and redder.

"Well, you told me what to do."

"Oh, hang!" shot the boy, in a final spasm of despair and worm-turning courage. "How could I tell you what to do? I'm not an animal trainer!"—London Answers.

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

FARM relief will be quite a topic for public speaking for a couple of weeks yet, so I'd better tell this one before it's too late.

There was a young fellow that had joined the Navy and been away from home for four of five years, and when he came back to the home village they were having a county fair. All the farmers were there. The sailor wanted to make out he'd grown up to be quite a guy, so he was bragging.

Talking to some of the old farm neighbors he said: "Well, fighting is different from farming. Quite a lot. We Navy men are known by our deeds!"

"Yeah," says one of the farmers, "that's different from us. We're known by our mortgages."

Ambition

SOME dreams are like the moon,
They wax and wane,
Glow wan and weak too soon,
Then shine again.

Not so ambition's dream;
However far
Its cherished goal may seem,
It glows, a star,

A bright and changeless star
Through changeful years,
To guide the toiler far
Through hopes, through fears.

It leads men ever on
To higher things;
Though love and youth be gone,
Its challenge rings.

Its fair beams whiter glow
Than all besides,
When other dear dreams go
This dream abides.

BOARD FENCES AND PICKET FENCES

By Dr. Frank Crane

The man who gets flustered and rattled when he has more than one thing to do is the one who tries to make a board fence of his activities.

The man who stays calm when he seems to be doing many things at once is the one who makes a picket fence of them.

For, singularly enough, the most versatile men are the most single-minded.

Those who do many things well are those who devote their minds and energies most wholeheartedly to each task as it comes up.

They appear to spread their energies over a large area.

In reality they condense them to a hotter fire upon each single activity than do those who are occupied with few things.

They concentrate upon one thing intently, leave it, and concentrate upon something else. There is always a clean break. Each picket is separate. One isn't carried over to the other. No attempt is made to construct a continuous board fence, as is the case with those who try to do everything at once.

Yet they seem to do the latter. The reason: If trains went fast enough, telephone poles would seem to make a picket fence. So a picket fence seems to be a board fence to those who pass swiftly enough.

In our minds we go over the actions of another person rapidly. We run over years of his life in an instant. His separate acts seem to have occurred in a lump.

Separate pickets do not stand out. Many activities seem to have been considered in his mind at once, and we conclude that he thought about them all at the same time.

The gift of the versatile is concentration.

Some minds have the ability to turn from one thing to another more quickly and completely than do others.

The essential element in this ability is concentration; and this is a quality which can be cultivated by practice.

OH, THESE WOMEN

By Leola Allard

SHE was a round-faced lady, with a bulbous figure and she was plumped into a chair in a cafe having lunch. She ate potatoes, drank milk, ate custard with ice cream on top of it, and, if that wasn't enough, she wore a tan felt hat with a parade of elephants made of brown celluloid around the crown. They started with very small elephants and they got bigger as the parade proceeded, till the one smack in front was at least four inches high.

Now I ask you!

"It must be nice to live in New York and see all the good shows," said a young innocent.

"Yes," said her aunt. "It would be if you could. I started a charge account with a theater ticket agency and offered to pay the extra price for seats when they gave you the usual stall: 'sold out.' I thought it was all arranged that if I paid an extra fee I'd get tickets, the explanation being they could send out to another broker if they didn't have them—provided you would pay enough.

"I phoned to get seats and was told it was impossible. That the good shows were sold out, that no broker had any. I forgot to mention the big commission.

"I then called a hotel and got two in the sixth row center, marked $6.50 each, and I paid for them $23.75. The total charged $19.55 commission.

"The girl in the theater ticket office smiled as if amused, and I wondered if she got a commission, too."

Two business girls, too busy for a real luncheon, visited the soda fountain in their building. As they paid their check, the woman at the cash register announced: "We have Nick back with us; come in and visit any time."

Nick, it seems, was a clerk who had been on a vacation and was brought back to stimulate business. You should have seen Nick—glasses, mustache, spats and everything!

The soda fountain business ain't what it used to be.

It's the women who started tipping the nifty soda jerkers, and now it has come to pass in the larger cities, that if you don't tip, you sit and wait indefinitely. It isn't the fact that they call white haired women "girlie" that amazes you, it's how on earth they can keep their cheerful point of view, bobbing like corks behind a counter sticky with the remants of ice cream, and squirting orange juice all day long for a lot of hurried indifferent customers.

A man in California was married either in 1912 or 1922. The certificate was blurred and so was his memory. So many things happened in the interim, that when he asked for a divorce and said it seemed like he'd been married forever, the judge decided to consider it as 1912.

In Huntington, L. I., there is a woman with three children and another woman who stole her husband. The mother has relinquished her husband to the other woman, and dropped an alienation suit for $100,000, and the two are "good friends." It's possible that down in her heart she feels sorry for the new love.

If a man in love ever considered personal values, that ought to make him think.

An Unusual Choice

JOHN D. CLARK, in his mid-forties, after winning wealth and fame as head of a western oil company, has retired to qualify as a teacher.

It is an unusual choice. Many men who quit business careers try vainly to find congenial fads in which to engage their energies, or frankly seek pleasure in loafing—generally to be disappointed.

It seems to us that Mr. Clark has shown good judgment. If he has in him the qualities of a teacher, there is no work that offers richer values in service and contentment.

The teacher deals in the most interesting material there is—human nature. He does not exploit its weaknesses. He seeks to build up its strength. When he knows how, he does the most important work that can be undertaken.

Therefore, the chances are that Mr. Clark will find more real satisfaction in his new field of human engineering than he ever found in amassing dollars.
